Food First The Myth Of Scarcity:

Food First Frances Moore Lappé, Joseph Collins, 1980 Food First Frances Moore Lappé, 1977 Food First Frances Moore Lappé, Joseph Collins, Cary Fowler, 1977 Abstract Dispelling old myths regarding the root causes of hunger a prescription for food self reliance applicable to developing and industrial countries is detailed as the only path toward true self reliance In question and answer format commonly accepted obstacles such as insufficient production inappropriate technology and discriminatory trade practices in meeting the world s food needs are considered Hunger is a social problem rather than a technical problem and calls for America as well as developing countries to explore their values and modes of operation Putting food first requires that each country meet its own food needs before exports and requires planning and a struggle against a system that increasingly concentrates wealth and power in a few Food First F. M. Lappé, 1977

Food First: Selected Writings from 40 Years of Movement Building Teresa K Miller, Tanya M Kerksen, 2015-12-15 This book looks back on forty years of writings from the Oakland based Institute for Food and Development Policy better known as Food First on the occasion of its 40th anniversary The book highlights the breadth and depth of the organization s published works addressing issues such as hunger international trade US foreign policy the Green Revolution agroecology climate justice land reform food and farm workers rights and food sovereignty Diet for a Small Planet (20th Anniversary Edition)

Frances Moore Lappe, 2011-05-18 Here again is the extraordinary bestselling book that taught America the social and personal significance of a new way of eating one that remains a complete guide for eating well in the 90s Featuring simple rules for a healthy diet a streamlined easy to use format delicious food combinations of protein rich meals without meat hundreds of wonderful recipes and much more From the Paperback edition Food First Dexter Tiranti, Offley, Clive, Stalker, Peter, 1977 Food Policy Tim Lang, David Barling, Martin Caraher, 2009-03-19 For over half a century food policy has mapped a path for progress based upon a belief that the right mix of investment scientific input and human skills could unleash a surge in productive capacity which would resolve humanity s food related health and welfare problems It assumed that more food would yield greater health and happiness by driving down prices increasing availability and feeding more mouths In the 21st century this policy mix is quietly becoming unstuck In a world marred by obesity alongside malnutrition climate change alongside fuel and energy crises water stress alongside more mouths to feed and social inequalities alongside unprecedented accumulation of wealth the old rubric of food policy needs re evaluation This book explores the enormity of what the new policy mix must address taking the approach that food policy must be inextricably linked with public health environmental damage and social inequalities to be effective Written by three authors with differing backgrounds one in political science another in environmental health and health promotion and the third in social psychology this book reflects the myriad of perspectives essential to a comprehensive view of modern food policy It attempts to make sense of what is meant by food policy explores whether the term has any currency in current policy discourse assesses whether current policies help or hinder what happens judges whether consensus can triumph in the face of competing bids for understanding looks at all levels of governance across the range of actors in the food system from companies and the state to civil society and science considers what direction food policies are taking not just in the UK but internationally assesses who and what gains or loses in the making of these food policies and identifies a modern framework for judging how good or limited processes of policy making are This book provides a major comprehensive review of current and past food policy thinking and proposing the need for what the authors call an ecological public health approach to food policy Nothing less will be fit for the 21st century

Grabbing Power Tanya M Kerssen, 2013-01-08 Grabbing Power explores the history of agribusiness and land conflicts in Northern Honduras focusing on the Agu n Valley where peasant movements battle large palm oil producers for the right to land In the wake of a military coup that overthrew Honduran president Manuel Zelaya in June 2009 rural communities in the Agu n have been brutally repressed with over 60 people killed in just over two years United States military aid spent in the name of the War on Drugs fuels the Honduran government's ability to repress its people A strong and inspiring movement for land food and democracy has grown over the last two years and it shows no sign of backing down

Beyond Colonialism, Development and Globalization Dominique Caouette, Dip Kapoor, 2015-12-15 Development studies is in a state of flux A new generation of scholars has come to reject what was once regarded as accepted wisdom and increasingly regard development and globalization as part of a continuum with colonialism premised on the same reductionist assumption that progress and growth are objective facts that can be fostered measured assessed and controlled Drawing on a variety of theoretical perspectives and approaches this book explores the ways in which social movements in the Global South are rejecting Western centric notions of development and modernization as well as creating their own alternatives By assessing development theories from the perspective of subaltern groups and movements the contributors posit a new notion of development from below one in which these movements provide new ways of imagining social transformation and a way out of the developmental dead end that has so far characterized post development approaches Beyond Colonialism Development and Globalization therefore represents a radical break with the prevailing narrative of modernization and points to a bold new direction for development studies

World Hunger Joseph Collins, 2014-02-04 The revised edition of this text includes substantial new material on hunger in the aftermath of the Cold War global food production versus population growth changing demographics and falling birth rates around the world the shifting focus of foreign assistance in the new world order structural adjustment and other budget slashing policies trade liberalization and free trade agreements famine and humanitarian interventions and the third worldization of developed nations

Environment Jules Pretty, 2006-06-23 This four volume set explores the locations where the environment matters most such as where people are poor where environments are under threat such as on frontiers where there are few natural resources remaining and where industrialization is rampant It will also explore these concerns at different system levels from local community to regional national and global It will also explore costs of damage to the very resources on which economies rely and the values of environmental goods and services and the controversies surrounding such valuations It is organized around environment people interactions livelihoods poverty income economic growth environment environment interactions do people matter and people people interactions collective action challenges institutions

Real Love Andrew Ross, 2013-11-05 In Real Love Andrew Ross one of our preeminent social critics explores the vital connection between economic life and cultural expression From the consequences of cyberspace for work and play to the uses and abuses of genetics in the O J trial from world scarcity to world music Ross interrogates the cultural forms through which economic forces take their daily toll upon our communities and environment Examining the effects of debates about race technology ecology and the arts on social and legal change Ross focuses in particular on how demands for certain forms of cultural justice often go hand in hand with injustices of other sorts and shows why cultural politics are a real and inescapable part of any argument for social change

The No-nonsense Guide to World Food Wayne Roberts, 2008 A world tour of fast food health food junk food school food slow food and even more food It shows how real food has become increasingly hard to find dominated in the West by agri business and supermarkets With a history of world food production and consumption this Guide explains current debate and controversies and introduces the principle of food security fast becoming a global movement to make food provision fair safe and nutritious for all the world's population at all times

Redefining Politics Adrian Leftwich, 2013-04-15 This book challenges conventional conceptions of politics which focus largely on the institutions of government and the associated struggles for power around them It argues that politics is involved in all the activities of cooperation and conflict whereby people organize the use production and distribution of human natural and material resources Found in all human groups institutions and societies politics everywhere influences and reflects the structures of power social organization culture and ideology These central themes are illustrated by drawing on a wide range of societies including the Kung hunter gatherers the pre Columbian Aztecs and the Pastoral Maasai as well as modern Britain and Third World societies from Chile to China Other examples of village communities a typical university department and the World Bank show how institutions may also be analyzed in terms of the definition of politics used here It is equally central to the argument that many of the most critical problems occurring in societies can be attributed to their politics and this theme is explored looking at such problems as poverty famines epidemics violence and unemployment in Britain and throughout the world
