Food Gender And Poverty In The Ecuadorian Andes:

Food, Gender and Poverty in the Ecuadorian Andes Mary J. Weismantel, 1998 Ecuador Gender Review Maria Correia, Bernice van Bronkhorst, 2000 Although Ecuador has made considerable strides in addressing gender issues over the years gender continues to be an important development issue While access to family planning methods has increased in general the availability of contraceptives remains limited for the poor As more women enter the labor force wage gaps based on gender persist Ecuador's strong civil society movement puts gender on the public agenda but land distribution by the government continues to be biased toward men This report brings to light the most salient gender issues affecting Ecuador's social and economic development today Its purpose is to reduce gender inequalities in Ecuadorian society and to improve the effectiveness of Ecuador's social and economic development programs Gender in this report pertains to both men and women and refers to the different experiences preferences needs opportunities and constraints men and women face because of socially ascribed gender roles and expectations The report contains an overview of gender issues and trends with special attention to the rural sector where almost half the population lives The authors recommend an overall strategy and priority actions to improve conditions This report will be of interest to government officials nongovernmental organizations academics and civil society

Gender, Indian, Nation Erin O'Connor, 2022-09-13 Until recently few scholars outside of Ecuador studied the country's history In the past few years however its rising tide of indigenous activism has brought unprecedented attention to this small Andean nation Even so until now the significance of gender issues to the development of modern Indian state relations has not often been addressed As she digs through Ecuador's past to find key events and developments that explain the simultaneous importance and marginalization of indigenous women in Ecuador today Erin O'Connor usefully deploys gender analysis to illuminate broader relationships between nation states and indigenous communities O'Connor begins her investigations by examining the multilayered links between gender and Indian state relations in nineteenth century Ecuador Disentangling issues of class and culture from issues of gender she uncovers overlapping conflicting and ever evolving patriarchies within both indigenous communities and the nation's governing bodies She finds that gender influenced sociopolitical behavior in a variety of ways mediating interethnic struggles and negotiations that ultimately created the modern nation Her deep research into primary sources including congressional debates ministerial reports court cases and hacienda records allows a richer more complex and better informed national history to emerge Examining gender during Ecuadorian state building from above and below O'Connor uncovers significant processes of interaction and agency during a critical period in the nation's history On a larger scale her work suggests the importance of gender as a shaping force in the formation of nation states in general while it questions recountings of historical events that fail to demonstrate an awareness of the centrality of gender in the unfolding of those events

Essentials of Health Behavior Mark Edberg, 2013-10-31 Health promotion education and prevention programs ultimately focus on changing health behavior Essentials of Health Behavior Second Edition provides the groundwork for understanding assessing and effectively applying theories of human behavior within the practice of public health In clear and accessible language it provides the student with a background of the kinds of social and behavioral theories that guide our understanding of health related behavior and form the background for health promotion and prevention efforts Filled with real life examples and profiles the text explores some of the ways in which these theories and approaches are used in applied health promotion efforts This book will introduce students to the relationship between behavior and a selection of major health issues Provide an introductory background to the kinds of social and behavioral theories that guide our understanding of health related behavior and form the background for health promotion and prevention efforts Explore some of the ways in which these theories and approaches are used in applied health promotion efforts The Second Edition offers New chapter on multi level theories and frameworks Updated examples of application and practice throughout Additional information on several of the theories presented such as the Diffusion of Innovations theory and the Social Cognitive Theory Looking for more real life evidence Check out Cases 3 5 11 13 18 20 in Essential Case Studies in Public Health Putting Public Health into Practice Routledge International Handbook of Food Studies Ken Albala, 2013-05-07 Over the past decade there has been a remarkable flowering of interest in food and nutrition both within the popular media and in academia Scholars are increasingly using foodways food systems and eating habits as a new unit of analysis within their own disciplines and students are rushing into classes and formal degree programs focused on food Introduced by the editor and including original articles by over thirty leading food scholars from around the world the Routledge International Handbook of Food Studies offers students scholars and all those interested in food related research a one stop easy to use reference guide Each article includes a brief history of food research within a discipline or on a particular topic a discussion of research methodologies and ideological or theoretical positions resources for research including archives grants and fellowship opportunities as well as suggestions for further study Each entry also explains the logistics of succeeding as a student and professional in food studies This clear direct Handbook will appeal to those hoping to start a career in academic food studies as well as those hoping to shift their research to a food related project Strongly interdisciplinary this work will be of interest to students and scholars throughout the social sciences and humanities Cement, Earthworms, and Cheese Factories Jill DeTemple, 2012-11-15 Cement Earthworms and Cheese Factories examines the ways in which religion and community development are closely intertwined in a rural part of contemporary Latin America Using historical documentary and ethnographic data collected over more than a decade as an aid worker and as a researcher in central Ecuador Jill DeTemple examines the forces that have led to this entanglement of religion and development and the ways in which rural Ecuadorians as well as development and religious personnel negotiate these complicated relationships Technical innovations have been connected to religious change since the time of the Inca conquest and Ecuadorians have created defensive strategies for managing such connections Although most analyses of development either tend to ignore the genuinely religious roots of development or conflate development with religion itself these strategies are part of a larger negotiation of progress and its meaning in twenty first century Ecuador DeTemple focuses on three development agencies a liberationist Catholic women s group a municipal unit dedicated to agriculture and evangelical Protestant missionaries engaged in education and medical work to demonstrate that in some instances Ecuadorians encourage a hybridity of religion and development while in other cases they break up such hybridities into their component parts often to the consternation of those with whom religious and development discourse originate This management of hybrids reveals Ecuadorians as agents who produce and reform modernities in ways often unrecognized by development scholars aid workers or missionaries and also reveals that an appreciation of religious belief is essential to a full understanding of diverse aspects of daily life

Struggling With Development Lynn Kwiatkowski, 2019-05-20 Struggling with Development is a study of the complex relationships among international development hunger and gender in the context of political violence in the Philippines This ethnography demonstrates that gender specific international development which has among its main goals the alleviation of hunger in women and children and the raising

Ethnography and Language Policy Teresa L. McCarty, 2014-04-04 Illuminating through ethnographic inquiry how individual agents make language policy in everyday social practice this volume advances the growing field of language planning and policy using a critical sociocultural approach From this perspective language policy is conceptualized not only as official acts and documents but as language regulating modes of human interaction negotiation and production mediated by relations of power Using this conceptual framework the volume addresses the impacts of globalization diaspora and transmigration on language practices and policies language endangerment revitalization and maintenance medium of instruction policies literacy and biliteracy language and ethnic national identity and the ethical tensions in conducting critical ethnographic language policy research These issues are contextualized in case studies and reflective commentaries by leading scholars in the field Ethnography and Language Policy extends previous work in the field tapping into leading edge interdisciplinary scholarship and charting new directions Recognizing that language policy is not merely or even primarily about language per se but rather about power relations that structure social linguistic hierarchies the authors seek to expand policy discourses in ways that foster social justice for all

Culinary Art and Anthropology Joy Adapon, 2008-08-01 Culinary Art and Anthropology is an anthropological study of food It focuses on taste and flavour using an original interpretation of Alfred Gell s theory of the art nexus Grounded in ethnography it explores the notion of cooking as an embodied skill and artistic practice The integral role and concept of flavour in everyday life is examined among cottage industry barbacoa makers in Milpa Alta an outer district of Mexico City Women s work and local festive occasions are examined against a background of material on professional chefs who reproduce traditional Mexican cooking in restaurant settings Including recipes to allow readers to practise the art of Mexican cooking Culinary Art and Anthropology offers a sensual theoretically sophisticated model for understanding food

anthropologically It will appeal to social scientists food lovers and those interested in the growing fields of food studies and the anthropology of the senses

Routledge Handbook of Food as a Commons Jose Luis Vivero-Pol, Tomaso Ferrando, Olivier De Schutter, Ugo Mattei, 2018-12-17 From the scientific and industrial revolution to the present day food an essential element of life has been progressively transformed into a private transnational mono dimensional commodity of mass consumption for a global market But over the last decade there has been an increased recognition that this can be challenged and reconceptualized if food is regarded and enacted as a commons This Handbook provides the first comprehensive review and synthesis of knowledge and new thinking on how food and food systems can be thought interpreted and practiced around the old new paradigms of commons and commoning The overall aim is to investigate the multiple constraints that occur within and sustain the dominant food and nutrition regime and to explore how it can change when different elements of the current food systems are explored and re imagined from a commons perspective Chapters do not define the notion of commons but engage with different schools of thought the economic approach based on rivalry and excludability the political approach recognizing the plurality of social constructions and incorporating epistemologies from the South the legal approach that describes three types of proprietary regimes private public and collective and different layers of entitlement bundles of rights and the radical activist approach that considers the commons as the most subversive coherent and history rooted alternative to the dominant neoliberal narrative These schools have different and rather diverging epistemologies vocabularies ideological stances and policy proposals to deal with the construction of food systems their governance the distributive implications and the socio ecological impact on Nature and Society The book sparks the debate on food as a commons between and within disciplines with particular attention to spaces of resistance food sovereignty de growth open knowledge transition town occupations bottom up social innovations and organizational scales local food national policies South South collaborations international governance and multi national agreements Overall it shows the consequences of a shift to the alternative paradigm of food as a commons in terms of food the planet and living beings

Food Nations Warren Belasco, Philip Scranton, 2014-06-03 This original collection abandons culinary nostalgia and the cataloguing of regional cuisines to examine the role of food and food marketing in constructing culture consumer behavior and national identity Sensing in Social Interaction Lorenza Mondada, 2021-11-04 This book offers a novel perspective on how people engage in sensing the materiality of the world as a way of social interaction It proposes a conceptual and analytical advance in how to approach sensing as an intersubjective and interactional phenomenon within the framework of conversation analysis and ethnomethodology Based on a uniquely rich set of video recorded data the author shows how people reacting to cheese in gourmet shops across Europe highlights the part the senses play in human behaviour and communication The multimodal analysis of the case studies reveals the systematic features of looking touching smelling and tasting in situated activities By blending interdisciplinary research with real life the volume puts together a theoretical and methodological framework for studying the embodied and linguistic dimensions of sensing in interaction Andean Ecology Gregory Knapp, 2019-03-07 This book describes and analyzes the adaptive strategies of traditional and prehistoric farmers in one part of the Andes in an effort to understand the varying interactions between people and their habitat over the last five hundred years The World of Soy Christine M. Du Bois, Chee-Beng Tan, Sidney Mintz, 2008-08-04 A lively discussion of soy production and consumption Kings for Three Days Jean Muteba Rahier, 2013-05-01 With its rich mix of cultures European influences colonial tensions and migration from bordering nations Ecuador has long drawn the interest of ethnographers historians and political scientists In this book Jean Muteba Rahier delivers a highly detailed thought provoking examination of the racial sexual and social complexities of Afro Ecuadorian culture as revealed through the annual Festival of the Kings During the Festival the people of various villages and towns of Esmeraldas Ecuador's province most associated with blackness engage in celebratory and parodic portrayals often donning masks cross dressing and disguising themselves as blacks indigenous people and whites in an obvious critique of local provincial and national white white mestizo and light mulatto elites Rahier shows that this festival as performed in different locations reveals each time a specific location's perspective on the larger struggles over identity class and gender relations in the racial spacial order of Esmeraldas and of the Ecuadorian nation in general The Quinoa Bust Emma McDonell, 2025-02-18 Quinoa rose to global stardom pitched as an unparalleled sustainable development opportunity that heralded a bright future for rural communities devastated by decades of rural urban migration civil war and state neglect The Quinoa Bust is based in a longitudinal ethnography centered around Puno Peru the main quinoa production area in the world's chief quinoa exporting country This book traces the social ecological technological and political work that went into transforming a humble Andean grain into a development miracle crop and also highlights that project's unintended consequences The Quinoa Bust shows how even efforts based in the best of intentions counteracting the homogenization of global food supply empowering small scale farmers revaluing local food cultures and adapting agricultural systems to climate change can generate new kinds of oppression At a time when so called forgotten foods are increasingly positioned as sustainable development tools The Quinoa Bust offers a cautionary tale of fleeting benefits and ambivalent results The Challenge of Legal Pluralism Marc Simon Thomas, 2016-09-13 Within the Latin American context legal pluralism is often depicted as a dichotomy between customary law and national law In addition the use of customary law alongside national law is frequently portrayed as a vehicle of resistance This book argues that because ordinary Indians are not positively biased in favor of customary law per se a heterogeneity of legal practices can be observed on a daily basis which consequently undermines the commonly held view of customary law as a counter hegemonic strategy even if on other socio geographical levels this thinking in terms of resistance holds true Based on qualitative research the work analyzes how internal conflicts among indigenous inhabitants of the Ecuadorian highlands are being settled in a situation of formal legal pluralism and what can be learned from this in terms of Indian state relationships It is shown that on a local level the phenomenological dimension of legal pluralism can be termed interlegality On a macro level ontological assumptions underscore that legal pluralism is still seen as a dichotomy between customary and national law Multidisciplinary in nature the book will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of Legal Pluralism Cultural Anthropology and Latin American Studies Food and Culture Carole Counihan, Penny Van Esterik, 1997 This reader reveals how food habits and beliefs both present a microcosm of any culture and contribute to our understanding of human behaviour Particular attention is given to how men and women define themselves differently through food choices

Making Market Women Jill DeTemple, 2020-03-30 Making Market Women tells of the initial success and failure of a liberationist Catholic women s cooperative in central Ecuador Jill DeTemple argues that when gender and religious identities are capitalized they are made vulnerable Using archival and ethnographic methods she shares the story of the women involved in the cooperative producing cheese and knitted goods for local markets and places their stories in the larger context of both the cooperative and the community DeTemple explores the impact of gender roles the perception of women the growing middle class and the changing mode of Catholicism in their community Although the initial success of the cooperative may have been due to the group s cohesion and Catholic identity the ultimate failure of the enterprise left many women less secure in these ties They keep their Catholic identity but blame the institutional church in some ways for the failure and are less confident in their ability as women to compete successfully in market economies Because DeTemple examines not only the effects of gender and religion on development but also the effects of development successful or unsuccessful on the identities of those involved this book will interest scholars of international development religious studies Latin American studies anthropology and women s studies
