Knox, etc Henry KNOX (Bookseller.),1773 Unfelt James Noggle,2020-03-15 Unfelt offers a new account of feeling during the British Enlightenment finding that the passions and sentiments long considered as preoccupations of the era depend on a potent insensibility the secret emergence of pronounced emotions that only become apparent with time Surveying a range of affects including primary sensation love and self love greed happiness and patriotic ardor James Noggle explores literary evocations of imperceptibility and unfeeling that pervade and support the period s understanding of sensibility Each of the four sections of Unfelt on philosophy the novel historiography and political economy charts the development of these idioms from early in the long eighteenth century to their culmination in the age of sensibility From Locke to Eliza Haywood Henry Fielding and Frances Burney and from Dudley North to Hume and Adam Smith Noggle s exploration of the insensible dramatically expands the scope of affect in the period s writing and thought Drawing inspiration from contemporary affect theory Noggle charts how feeling and unfeeling flow and feed back into each other identifying emotional dynamics at their most elusive and powerful the potential the incipient the emergent the virtual Open Access edition funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities American Publishers' Circular and Literary Gazette ,1859 Stockdale's Edition of Shakespeare: Including, in One Volume, the Whole of His Dramatic Works, with Explanatory Notes Compiled from Various Commentators William Shakespeare,1784 Catalogue Dawson's Book Shop,1930 The Spectator ,1897 Provincial Readers in Eighteenth-Century England Jan Fergus,2007-01-25 Many scholars have written about eighteenth century English novels but no one really knows who read them This study provides historical data on the provincial reading publics for various forms of fiction novels plays chapbooks children s books and magazines Archival records of Midland booksellers based in five market towns and selling printed matter to over thirty three hundred customers between 1744 and 1807 form the basis for new information about who actually bought and borrowed different kinds of fiction in eighteenth century provincial England This book thus offers the first solid demographic information about actual readership in eighteenth century provincial England not only about the class profession age and sex of readers but also about the market of available fiction from which they made their choices and some speculation about why they made the choices they did Contrary to received ideas men in the provinces were the principal customers for eighteenth century novels including those written by women Provincial customers preferred to buy rather than borrow fiction and women preferred plays and novels written by women women s works would have done better had women been the principal consumers That is demand for fiction written by both men and women was about equal for the first five years but afterward the demand for women s works declined Both men and women preferred novels with identifiable authors to anonymous ones however and both boys and men were able to cross gender lines in their reading Goody Two Shoes was one of the more popular children s books among Rugby schoolboys and men read the Lady s Magazine These and other findings will alter the way scholars look at the fiction of the period the questions asked and the histories told of it

In a series of representative case studies Marianne Van Remoortel traces the development of the sonnet during intense moments of change and stability continuity and conflict from the early Romantic period to the end of the nineteenth century Paying particular attention to the role of the popular press which served as a venue of innovation and as a site of recruitment for aspiring authors Van Remoortel redefines the scope of the genre including the ways in which its development is intricately related to issues of gender Among her subjects are the Della Cruscans and their primary critic William Gifford the young Samuel Taylor Coleridge and his circle Elizabeth Barrett Browning s Sonnets from the Portuguese George Meredith s Modern Love Dante Gabriel Rossetti s House of Life and Augusta Webster s Mother and Daughter As women became a force to be reckoned with among the reading public and the writing community the term sonnet often operated as a satirical label that was not restricted to poetry adhering to the strict formalities of the genre Van Remoortel s study in its attentiveness to the sonnet s feminization during the late eighteenth century offers important insights into the ways in which changing attitudes about gender and genre shaped critics interpretations of the reception histories of nineteenth century sonnet sequences
