The American Historical Romance George Dekker, 1990-05-03 This book traces the tradition of American historical fiction from its origins in the early nineteenth century to the eve of World War II It examines the historical novel's connections with Enlightenment and Romantic theories of history with the rise of literary regionalism with the ambitions of Romantic writers to revive the epic and romance with changing conceptions of gender roles and with the authors' troubled responses to the great revolutionary and imperialistic conflicts of the modern era However though inevitably much concerned with the theory of genre and with the specific contents of the genre of historical romance Professor Dekker devotes most of his book to new readings of major texts by James Fenimore Cooper Nathaniel Hawthorne

Herman Melville Mark Twain Allen Tate Edith Wharton Willa Cather and William Faulkner as well as to the Briton whose name was synonymous with the genre for most of the nineteenth century Sir Walter Scott The American Historical Romance is the richest most fully meditated and most rewarding yet written by this author It is the most important book on the relations of British and American fiction to come out for many years No devotee of the American novel will ignore it The Times Literary Supplement remarkable work of historical fiction Revolution and the Historical Novel John McWilliams, 2017-12-15 John McWilliams has written the first much needed account of the ways the promise and threat of political revolution have informed masterpieces of the historical novel The jolting sense of historical change caused by the French Revolution led to an immense readership for a new kind of fiction centered on revolution counter revolution and warfare which soon came to be called the historical novel During the turbulent wake of The Declaration of the Rights of Man promptly followed by the phenomenon of Napoleon Bonaparte the historical novel thus served as a literary hybrid in the most positive sense of that often dismissive term It enabled readers to project personal hopes and anxieties about revolutionary change back into national history While immersed in the fictive lives of genteel often privileged heroes readers could measure their own political convictions against the wavering loyalties of their counterparts in a previous but still familiar time McWilliams provides close readings of some twenty historical novels from Scott and Cooper through Tolstoy Zola and Hugo to Pasternak and Lampedusa and ultimately to Marquez and Hilary Mantel but with continuing regard to historical contexts past and present He traces the transformation of the literary conventions established by Scott's Waverley novels showing both the continuities and the changes needed to meet contemporary times and perspectives Although the progressive hopes imbedded in Scott's narrative form proved no longer adaptable to twentieth century carnage and the rise of totalitarianism the meaning of any single novel emerges through comparison to the tradition of its predecessors A foreword and epilogue explore the indebtedness of McWilliams's perspective to the Marxist scholarly tradition of Georg Lukacs and Frederic Jameson while defining his differences from them This is a scholarly work of no small ambition and achievement Henry VIII and His Court; A Historical Novel Luise Mühlbach, 2025-09-01 Reproduction of the original The Antigonos publishing house specialises in the publication of reprints of historical books We make sure that these works are made available to the public in good condition in order to preserve their cultural heritage Empress Josephine (Historical Novel) L. Mühlbach, 1898 The Woman's Historical Novel D. Wallace, 2004-11-19 The historical novel has been one of the most important forms of women's reading and writing in the twentieth century yet it has been consistently under rated and critically neglected In the first major study of British women writers use of the genre Diana Wallace tracks its development across the century She combines a comprehensive survey with detailed readings of key writers including Naomi Mitchison Georgette Heyer Sylvia Townsend Warner Margaret Irwin Jean Plaidy Mary Renault Philippa Gregory and Pat Barker
