

Author-to-Reader and Reader-to-Author methods

Schleiermacher proposes two possibilities to bring writer and his reader closer – without forcing reader to leave bounds of his own native tongue behind him, to acquire as correct and complete an understanding and take as much pleasure in the writer as possible:

1. Reader-to-Author : the translator leaves the writer in peace as much as possible moves the reader towards him. (Foreignization)

2. Author-to-Reader :the translator leaves the reader in peace as much as possible and moves the writer towards him.(Domestication)

Theology and Literature: Rethinking Reader Responsibility G. Ortiz, C. Joseph, 2006-05-12 By examining theological and literary narratives through an engagement with well known theorists of reading and religion this collection of essays international in perspective brings together varied refreshing and provocative responses to well established literary and critical theories

Literacies Across Media Margaret Mackey, 2003-08-29 The contemporary young reader learns from a very early age to read and interpret through a broad range of media Literacies Across Media explores how a group of boys and girls aged from ten to fourteen make sense of narratives in a variety of formats including print electronic book video DVD computer game and CD ROM This book records these young people over a period of eighteen months as they read view and play different texts demonstrating variations and consistencies of interpretative behaviour across different media Margaret Mackey analyses how the activities of reading viewing and playing intertwine and affect each other's development Her in depth research shows young readers developing strategies for interpreting narratives through encounters with a diverse range of texts and media The study breaks new ground in its illustration and exploration of the impact of cross media fertilisation on how young readers come to an understanding of how to make sense of stories Literacies Across Media offers both a vivid account of a group of young readers coming to terms with texts and a radical perspective on the growth of a generation of young readers It is thought provoking fascinating and highly informative reading not only for theoreticians interested in the reading process but also teachers librarians parents and anybody involved with young people and their texts

Imagining the Woman Reader in the Age of Dante Elena Lombardi, 2018-05-10 Imagining the Woman Reader in the Age of Dante brings to light a new character in medieval literature that of the woman reader and interlocutor It does so by establishing a dialogue between literary studies gender studies the history of literacy and the material culture of the book in medieval times From Guittone d Arezzo's piercing critic the villainous woman to the mysterious Lady who bids Guido Cavalcanti to write his grand philosophical song to Dante's female co editors in the Vita Nova and his great characters of female readers such as Francesca and Beatrice in the Comedy all the way to Boccaccio's overtly female audience this particular interlocutor appears to be central to the construct of textuality and the construction of literary authority This volume explores the figure of the woman reader by contextualizing her within the history of female literacy the material culture of the book and the ways in which writers and poets of earlier traditions imagined her It argues that these figures are not mere veneers between a male author and a real male readership but that although fictional they bring several advantages to their vernacular authors such as orality the mother tongue the recollection of the delights of early education literacy freedom in interpretation absence of teleology the beauties of ornamentation and amplification a reduced preoccupation with the fixity of the text the pleasure of making mistakes dialogue with the other the extension of desire original simplicity and new and more flexible forms of authority

The Thousand and One Nights and Twentieth-Century Fiction Richard van

Leeuwen,2018-07-17 It is gradually being acknowledged that the Arabic story collection Thousand and One Nights has had a major influence on European and world literature This study analyses the influence of Thousand and One Nights as an intertextual model on 20th century prose from all over the world Works of approximately forty authors are examined those who were crucial to the development of the main currents in 20th century fiction such as modernism magical realism and post modernism The book contains six thematic sections divided into chapters discussing two or three authors works each from a narratological perspective and supplemented by references to the cultural and literary context It is shown how Thousand and One Nights became deeply rooted in modern world literature especially in phases of renewal and experiment

Outlook Lyman Abbott, Hamilton Wright Mabie, Ernest Hamlin Abbott, Francis Rufus Bellamy, 1915 Pseudo-Philo Frederick J. Murphy, 1993-11-11 This is a literary and theological study of the Biblical Antiquities of Pseudo Philo a long well written reinterpretation of the Hebrew Bible written by a Palestinian Jew of the first century C E Using the methodologies of redaction and literary criticism Murphy provides an analysis of the whole of the Biblical Antiquities After a chapter by chapter analysis Murphy addresses several topics more generally major characters major themes and the historical context of the work Full concordances to the Latin text are provided to assist future research on Pseudo Philo This book will prove an important resource for students of Jewish interpretation of the Bible at the end of the Second Temple period It also sheds light on Jewish thought of the period regarding covenant leadership in Israel women in Israel relations with Gentiles divine providence divine retribution eschatology and many other subjects Furnishing a broad interpretive context for future work on the Biblical Antiquities this study gives students of the Bible access to an important literary and religious product of first century Judaism Communication at A Distance David S. Kaufer, Kathleen M. Carley, 2012-10-12 This book bridges an important gap between two major approaches to mass communication historical and social scientific To do so it employs a theory of communication that unifies social cultural and technological concerns into a systematic and formal framework that is then used to examine the impact of print within the larger socio cultural context and across multiple historical contexts The authors integrate historical studies and more abstract formal representations achieving a set of logically coherent and well delimited hypotheses that invite further exploration both historically and experimentally A second gap that the book addresses is in the area of formal models of communication and diffusion Such models typically assume a homogeneous population and a communication whose message is abstracted from the complexities of language processing In contrast the model presented in this book treats the population as heterogeneous and communications as potentially variable in their content as they move across speakers or readers Written to address and overcome many of the disciplinary divisions that have prevented the study of print from being approached from the perspective of a unified theory this book employs a focused interdisciplinary position that encompasses several domains It shows the underlying compatibility between cognitive and social theory between the study of language and cognition and the study of technology between the postmodern interest in the instability of meaning and the social science interest in the diffusion of information between the effects of technology and issues of cultural homogeneity and heterogeneity Overall this book reveals how small relatively non interactive disciplinary specific conversations about print are usefully conceived of as part of a larger interdisciplinary inquiry The New Modernist Studies Reader Sean Latham, Gayle Rogers, 2021-01-28 Bringing together 17 foundational texts in contemporary modernist criticism in one accessible volume this book explores the debates that have transformed the field of modernist studies at the turn of the millennium and into the 21st century The New Modernist Studies Reader features chapters covering the major topics central to the study of modernism today including Feminism gender and sexuality Empire and race Print and media cultures Theories and history of modernism Each text includes an introductory summary of its historical and intellectual contexts with guides to further reading to help students and teachers explore the ideas further Includes essential texts by leading critics such as Anne Anlin Cheng Brent Hayes Edwards Rita Felski Susan Stanford Friedman Mark Goble Miriam Bratu Hansen Andreas Huyssen David James Heather K Love Douglas Mao Mark S Morrisson Michael North Jessica Pressman Lawrence Rainey Paul K Saint Amour Bonnie Kime Scott Urmila Seshagiri Robert Spoo and Rebecca L Walkowitz

Kingdom of Power, Power of Kingdom Rob Starner, 2011-01-01 Mark's Gospel is much maligned for its redundancy and stylistic sloppiness But is this indignity justified The answer to this question hangs not only on the genre of this work but also on the life setting of its target audience Rather than unwitting slip ups of an inept writer Mark's narrative repetitions and temporal dislocations are better understood as rhetorical strategies for a didactic oral performance There is method to Mark's madness and the method maps his meaning In recent decades some scholars have become enamored with what they see as a generic affinity between Mark's Gospel and fictive literature particularly ancient romance novels Could this be the method behind Mark's madness This book offers readers an exciting and profitable journey into two story worlds that likely share a common historical cultural setting Mark's Gospel and Chariton's passion of love Analyzing these works from the vantage point of narrative sequence Starner identifies two contrasting worldviews for Chariton the world is controlled by the goddess Aphrodite who serves as a powerbroker distributing political economic and sociological power to agents who use that power for self serving ends for Mark the world is governed by an All Powerful God who shockingly operates from a posture of powerlessness inviting not coercing humans to accept his lordship and urging them to adopt the self sacrificial service oriented program of living that finds its quintessential expression in the historical Jesus of the Gospels

Naturalism Redressed Hannah Thompson,2017-12-02 References to clothing in the nineteenth century naturalist novel have traditionally been read merely as examples of descriptive detail Thompson in her groundbreaking study on Zola rescues clothing from the margins of representation and draws on a wide range of twentieth century feminist and queer theory to demonstrate that clothing troubles such binary pairs as masculine and feminine normal and perverse natural and artificial that lie at the foundations of Zolian naturalism The author s investment in the signifying power of clothing in the Rougon Macquart is such that the novels can no longer be read as unproblematic illustrations of literary naturalism in fact its intensity demands that Zola s relationship to literature and his descriptions of Second Empire society be reassessed
