"Architecture, Design and Craft in Toronto 1900-1940" Alla Myzelev, 2017-07-05 Toronto the largest and one of the most multicultural cities in Canada boasts an equally interesting and diverse architectural heritage Architecture Design and Craft in Toronto 1900 1940 tells a story of the significant changes in domestic life in the first 40 years of the twentieth century Adopting a multidisciplinary approach to studies of residential spaces the author examines how questions of modernity and modern living influenced not only architectural designs but also interior furnishings modes of transportation and ways to spend leisure time The book discusses several case studies some of which are known both locally and internationally for example Casa Loma while others such as

Guild of All Arts or Sherwood have been virtually unstudied by historians of visual culture The overall goal of the book is to put Toronto on the map of scholars of urban design and architecture and to uncover previously unknown histories of design craft and domesticity in Toronto This study will be of interest not only to the academic community namely architects designers craftspeople and scholars of these disciplines along with social historians but also the general public interested in local history and or visual culture The Dundurn Group The Dundurn Group, Flax Americana Joshua

MacFadyen,2018-10-10 Farmers feed cities but starting in the nineteenth century they painted them too Flax from Canada and the northern United States produced fibre for textiles and linseed oil for paint critical commodities in a century when wars were fought over fibre and when increased urbanization demanded expanded paint markets Flax Americana re examines the changing relationships between farmers urban consumers and the land through a narrative of Canada s first and most important industrial crop Initially a specialty crop grown by Mennonites and other communities on contracts for small town mill complexes flax became big business in the late nineteenth century as multinational linseed oil companies quickly displaced rural mills Flax cultivation spread across the northern plains and prairies particularly along the edges of dryland settlement and then into similar ecosystems in South America s Pampas Joshua MacFadyen s detailed examination of archival records reveals the complexity of a global commodity and its impact on the eastern Great Lakes and northern Great Plains He demonstrates how international networks of scientists businesses and regulators attempted to predict and control the crop s frontier geography how evolving consumer concerns about product quality and safety shaped the market and its regulations and how the nature of each region encouraged some forms of business and limited others The northern flax industry emerged because of border crossing communities By following the plant across countries and over time Flax Americana sheds new light on the ways that commodities frontiers and industrial capitalism shaped the modern world

Canoe and Canvas Jessica Dunkin,2019-08-22 Canoe and Canvas offers a detailed portrait of the summer encampments of the American Canoe Association between 1880 and 1910 The encampments were annual events that attracted canoeing enthusiasts from both sides of the Canada US border to socialize race canoes and sleep under canvas While the encampments were located away from cities they were still subjected to urban logic and ways of living The encampments thus offer a unique site for exploring cultures of sport and leisure in late Victorian society but also for considering the intersections between recreation and the politics of everyday life A social history of sport Canoe and Canvas is particularly concerned with how gender class and race shaped the social cultural and physical landscapes of the ACA encampments Although there was an ever expanding arena of opportunity for leisure and sport in the late nineteenth century as the example of the ACA makes clear not all were granted equal access Most of the members of the American Canoe Association and the majority of the campers at the annual encampments were white middle class men though white women were extended partial membership in 1882 and in 1883 they were permitted to camp on site Canoe and Canvas also reveals how

Black Indigenous and working class people while obscured in the historical record were indispensable to the smooth functioning of these events through their labour

The Lives of Conn Smythe Kelly McParland, 2012-10-02 While the story of the Toronto Maple Leafs has been told many times there has never been a full biography of the man who created built and managed the team turning it from a small market collection of second rate players into the hockey and financial powerhouse that dominated Canadian sports and created a collection of Canadian icons along the way From the 1920s to the mid 1960s Conn Smythe was one of the best known highest profile figures in the country irascible tempestuous outspoken and controversial He not only constructed a hockey team that dominated the league for long stretches but was critical to the growth and shaping of the NHL itself By building Maple Leaf Gardens and hiring Foster Hewitt to fill Canada's living rooms with weekly broadcasts he turned Saturday night into hockey night creating institutions and habits that became central to Canada's character and remain with us today Smythe's story is much deeper and richer than the tale of a cantankerous hockey owner Smythe fought in both world wars fighting at Ypres and Passchendaele in the first war and landing at Normandy in the second He was wounded in both and spent two years as a POW in a German camp after being shot down in 1917 He grew up in poverty and vowed to escape the life that was so incredibly hard on his family Smythe was active in politics and ignited a national crisis over conscription that split the Liberal government in two and brought Mackenzie King to the brink of resignation This book tells the life of one of the country's great characters a man who helped shape and define us and who left behind national habits and institutions that continue to lay at the heart of what makes Canada Canada

Unbuilt Toronto Mark Osbaldeston, 2008-10-27 Unbuilt Toronto explores never realized building projects in and around Toronto from the city's founding to the twenty first century Delving into unfulfilled and largely forgotten visions for grand public buildings landmark skyscrapers highways subways and arts and recreation venues it outlines such ambitious schemes as St Alban's Cathedral the Queen subway line and early city plans that would have resulted in a Paris by the Lake Readers may lament the loss of some projects such as the Eaton's College Street tower be thankful for the disappearance of others a highway through the Annex and marvel at the downtown that could have been with underground roads and walkways in the sky Featuring 147 photographs and illustrations many never before published Unbuilt Toronto casts a different light on a city you thought you knew

Toronto Between the Wars Charis Cotter, 2004 In the two decades between the First and the Second World wars Toronto was finding its place in the swiftly changing world of the twentieth century In the 1920s the city was expanding the automobile replaced the horse and radio movies and mass advertising began to have a huge impact on everyday life Then the Depression hit in 1929 and ordinary people struggled to keep a roof over their heads and food on the table As the thirties progressed the threat of another devastating war in Europe grew stronger Toronto Between the Wars offers a tantalizing view into life in the city during those two decades women working in the accounting department at Loblaws a crowd cheering at Woodbine Race Track swimmers at the new Sunnyside pool Lady Eaton opening the new

When looking at old pictures of Toronto it is clear that the city's urban economic and social geography has changed dramatically over the generations. Historic photos of Toronto's streetcar network offer a unique opportunity to examine how the city has been transformed from a provincial industrial city into one of North America's largest and most diverse regions. Streetcars and the Shifting Geographies of Toronto studies the city's urban transformations through an analysis of photographs taken by streetcar enthusiasts beginning in the 1960s. These photographers did not intend to record the urban form, function, or social geographies of Toronto; they were accidental archivists whose main goal was to photograph the streetcars themselves. But today their images render visible the ordinary day-to-day life in the city in a way that no others did. These historic photographs show a Toronto before gentrification, globalization, and deindustrialization. Each image has been re-photographed to provide fresh insights into a city that is in a constant state of flux. With gorgeous illustrations, this unique book offers an understanding of how Toronto has changed and the reasons behind these urban shifts. The visual exploration of historic and contemporary images from different parts of the city helps to explain how the major forces shaping the city affect its form, functions, neighbourhoods, and public spaces. Canadian Journal of Urban Research, 1994 Canadian Periodical Index, 1997 International Books in Print, 1997 From Horse Power to Horsepower Mike Filey, 1996-07-25
