Going For Gold Men Mines And Migration:

Going for Gold T. Dunbar Moodie, Vivienne Ndatshé, 1994-09-27 An indispensable look at the working conditions social lives and collective action of black miners Moodie's meticulous reflective incessantly questioning approach to power drink sexuality conflict and routine life in mines and compounds reveals an extraordinary world at the edge of hope and desperation Charles Tilly The New School for Social Research Combines a rigorous use of theory with a marvellous and sensitive sympathy Terence O'Ranger co editor of The Invention of Tradition Going for Gold T. Dunbar

Moodie, 1994-09-27 This book tells the story of the lives of migrant black African men who work on the South African gold mines told from their own point of view and as much as possible in their own words Dunbar Moodie examines the operation of local power structures and resistances changes in production techniques the limits and successes of unionization and the nature of ethnic conflicts at different periods and on different terrains of struggle He treats his subject thematically and historically examining how notions of integrity manhood sexuality work power solidarity and violence have all changed over time especially with the shift to a proletarianized work force on the mines in the 1970s Moodie integrates analyses of individual life strategies with theories of social change illuminating the ways in which these play off each other in historically significant ways He shows how human beings in this case African men build integrity and construct their own social order even in situations of apparent total repression Readings in Gender in Africa Andrea Cornwall, 2005 This is a comprehensive overview on the existing literature on gender in Africa It covers areas such as Western perceptions colonial morality religion and politics Psychiatry, Mental Institutions, and the Mad in Apartheid South Africa Tiffany Fawn Jones, 2012 This book is an examination of South African mental institutions and policy from 1939-1994 It examines how racial gender and sexual discrimination affected practitioners' views and practices and also reveals the role that patients and international events played in shaping mental health policy Conjugal Rights Rachel Jean-Baptiste, 2014-08-15 Conjugal

Rights is a history of the role of marriage and other arrangements between men and women in Libreville Gabon during the French colonial era from the mid nineteenth century through 1960 Conventional historiography has depicted women as few in number and of limited influence in African colonial towns but this book demonstrates that a sexual economy of emotional social legal and physical relationships between men and women indelibly shaped urban life Bridewealth became a motor of African economic activity as men and women promised earned borrowed transferred and absconded with money to facilitate interpersonal relationships Colonial rule increased the fluidity of customary marriage law as chiefs and colonial civil servants presided over multiple courts and city residents strategically chose the legal arena in which to arbitrate a conjugal sexual conflict Sexual and domestic relationships with European men allowed some African women to achieve a greater degree of economic and social mobility An eventual decline of marriage rates resulted in new sexual mores as women and men sought to rebalance the roles of pleasure respectability and legality in having sex outside of kin sanctioned marriage Rachel Jean

Baptiste expands the discourse on sexuality in Africa and challenges conventional understandings of urban history beyond the study of the built environment Marriage and sexual relations determined how people defined themselves as urbanites and shaped the shifting physical landscape of Libreville Conjugal Rights takes a fresh look at questions of the historical construction of race and ethnicity Despite the efforts of the French colonial government and society to enforce boundaries between black and white interracial sexual and domestic relationships persisted Black and m tisse women gained economic and social capital from these relationships allowing some measure of freedom in the colonial capital city Work out of Place Mahua Sarkar,2017-12-04 All work is free work or is it Rooted in the historical and theoretical debates over the status of labor this volume analyzes the relationship between free and forced work migration and the role that states play in producing un freedom With contributions among others from Stephen Castles Cindy Hahamovitch Vincent Houben and William G Martin the book explores constrained labor forms across the world from the mid 19th century to today

Mobility, Sexuality and AIDS Felicity Thomas,Mary Haour-Knipe,Peter Aggleton,2009-10-16 Mobility Sexuality and AIDS recognises the complex relationships between individual circumstances different forms of migration and the different ways in which communities and states respond It will be invaluable for students and academics of migration development studies anthropology sociology geography and public health Amakomiti Trevor Ngwane,2021-02-20 One of the most exciting and provocative books that I ve read in a long time Mike Davis author of Planet of the Slums Can people who live in shantytowns shacks and favelas teach us anything about democracy About how to govern society in a way that is inclusive participatory and addresses popular needs This book argues that they can In a study conducted in dozens of South Africa s shack settlements where more than 9 million people live Trevor Ngwane finds thriving shack dwellers committees that govern local life are responsive to popular needs and provide a voice for the community These committees called amakomiti in the Zulu language organise the provision of basic services such as water sanitation public works and crime prevention especially during settlement establishment Amakomiti argues that contrary to common perception slum dwellers are in fact an essential part of the urban population whose political agency must be recognised and respected In a world searching for democratic alternatives that serve the many and not the few it is to the shantytowns rather than the seats of political power that we should turn Twentieth-Century South Africa William Beinart,2001-10-04 An innovative examination of the forces both destructive and dynamic which have shaped twentieth century South Africa This book provides a stimulating introduction to the history of South Africa in the twentieth century It draws on the rich and lively tradition of radical history writing on that country and to a greater extent than previous accounts weaves economic and cultural history into the political narrative Apartheid and industrialization especially mining are central theme as is the rise of nationalism in the Afrikaner and African communities But the author also emphasizes the neglected significance of rural experiences and local identities in shaping political consciousness The roles played by such key figure as Smuts Verwoerd de Klerk Plaatje and Mandela are explored

while recent historiographical trends are reflected in analyses of rural protest white cultural politics the vitality of black urban life and environmental decay The book assesses the analysis of black reactions to apartheid the rise of the ANC The concluding chapter brings this seminal history up to date tackling the issues and events from 1994 1999 in particular the success of Mandela and the ANC in seeing through the end of apartheid rule It also looks at the chances of a stable future for the new found democracy in South Africa Mercury and the Making of California Andrew Scott Johnston,2013-09-15

Mercury and the Making of California Andrew Johnston s multidisciplinary examination of the history and cultural landscapes of California s mercury mining industry raises mercury to its rightful place alongside gold and silver in the development of the American West Gold and silver could not be refined without mercury therefore its production and use were vital to securing power and wealth in the West The first industrialized mining in California mercury mining had its own particular organization structure and built environments These were formed within the Spanish Empire subsequently transformed by British imperial ambitions and eventually manipulated by American bankers and investors In California mercury mining also depended on a workforce differentiated by race and ethnicity The landscapes of work and camp and the relations among the many groups involved in the industry Mexicans Chileans Spanish English Irish Cornish American and Chinese form a crucial chapter in the complex history of race and ethnicity in the American West This pioneering study explicates the mutual structuring of the built environments of the mercury mining industry and the emergence of California s ethnic communities Combining rich documentary sources with a close examination of the existing physical landscape Johnston explores both the detail of everyday work and life in the mines and the larger economic and social structures in which mercury mining was enmeshed revealing the significance of mercury mining for Western history Rethinking Labour in Africa, Past and Present Lynn Schler,Louise Bethlehem,Galia Sabar,2013-09-13 This book offers a broad range of perspectives on major transformations in the research of labor in Africa contexts over the last twenty years This is a groundbreaking work by social scientists and historians adopting innovative paradigms in the study of African laborers working classes and economies it moves away from stringent Marxist perspectives towards more localized and fluid conceptions of materiality and productivity Against the backdrop of increasing mobility of labor and capital the authors demonstrate the need for a simultaneous consideration of local national and transnational contexts The collection of essays provides multiple perspectives on how African workers have negotiated changes and exploited opportunities in increasingly globalized workplaces while at the same time confronting the impact of global capitalist expansion on local settings in Africa This book was previously published as a Special Issue of African Identities South African Homelands as Frontiers Steffen Jensen,Olaf Zenker,2018-02-02 This book explores what happened to the homelands in many ways the ultimate apartheid disgrace after the fall of apartheid The nine chapters contribute to understanding the multiple configurations that currently exist in areas formerly declared homelands or Bantustans Using the concept of frontier zones the homelands emerge as areas in which the future of the South African postcolony is being renegotiated contested and remade with hyper real intensity This is so because the many fault lines left over from apartheid its loose ends so to speak between white and black between different ethnicities between rich and poor or differentiated by gender generation and nationality between traditions and modernities or between wilderness and human habitation are particularly acute and condensed in these so called communal areas Hence the book argues that it is particularly in these settings that the postcolonial promise of liberation and freedom must face its test As such the book offers highly nuanced and richly detailed analyses that go to the heart of the diverse dilemmas of post apartheid South Africa as a whole but simultaneously also provides in condensed form an extended case study on the predicaments of African postcoloniality in general This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Southern African Studies

Retail Worker Politics, Race and Consumption in South Africa Bridget Kenny, 2018-05-23

This book argues that we need to focus attention on the ways that workers themselves have invested subjectively in what it means to be a worker By doing so we gain an explanation that moves us beyond the economic decisions made by actors the institutional constraints faced by trade unions or the power of the state to interpellate subjects These more common explanations make workers and their politics visible only as a symptom of external conditions a response to deregulated markets or a product of state recognition Instead through a history of retailing as a site of nation and belonging changing legal regimes and articulations of race class and gender in the constitution of political subjects from the 1930s to present day Wal Mart this book presents the experiences and subjectivities of workers themselves to show that the collective political subject workers abasebenzi is both a durable and malleable political category From white to black women s labour the forms of precariousness have changed within retailing in South Africa Workers struggles in different times have in turn resolved some dilemmas and by other turn generated new categories and conditions of precariousness all the while explaining enduring attachments to labour politics
