Going Inside A Tour Round A Single Moment Of Consciousness:

Going Inside John McCrone, 2001 extrapolates our current understanding of consciousness from something that happens in less than the blink of an eye a single moment of the mind's inner workings Jacket Rita Carter, 2004 In a breezy and clear style Carter provides a broad lucid survey of most of the interesting ideas and people involved in the trendy field of consciousness research pulling together many disparate philosophical and scientific views John Horgan author of The Undiscovered Mind How the Human Brain Defies Replication Medication and Explanation The Ascent of Affect Ruth Leys, 2017-11-10 In recent years emotions have become a major vibrant topic of research not merely in the biological and psychological sciences but throughout a wide swath of the humanities and social sciences as well Yet surprisingly there is still no consensus on their basic nature or workings Ruth Leys's brilliant much anticipated history therefore is a story of controversy and disagreement The Ascent of Affect focuses on the post World War II period when interest in emotions as an object of study began to revive Leys analyzes the ongoing debate over how to understand emotions paying particular attention to the continual conflict between camps that argue for the intentionality or meaning of emotions but have trouble explaining their presence in non human animals and those that argue for the universality of emotions but struggle when the question turns to meaning Addressing the work of key figures from across the spectrum considering the potentially misleading appeal of neuroscience for those working in the humanities and bringing her story fully up to date by taking in the latest debates Leys presents here the most thorough analysis available of how we have tried to think about how we feel

Economic Globalisation as Religious War Michael McKinley, 2007-06-28 Using a critical theory approach to analyze the globalization of the world economy this provocative and topical new book presents economic globalization not as a recent development but rather as a familiar process that has occurred throughout history Michael McKinley argues that it is ultimately a self serving arbitrary and destructive imperial project that should be viewed as a religious war Evolutionary Psychology and Information Systems Research Ned Kock, 2010-07-28 This book is a compilation of chapters written by leading researchers from all over the world Those researchers common characteristic is that they have investigated issues at the intersection of the elds of information systems IS and evolutionary psychology EP The main goal of this book is to serve as a reference for IS research building on EP concepts and theories in short IS EP research The book is organized in three main parts Part I focuses on EP concepts and theories that can be used as a basis for IS EP research Part II provides several exemplars of IS EP research in practice and Part III summarizes emerging issues and debate that can inform IS EP research including debate regarding philosophical foundations and credibility of related findings IS EP research is generally concerned with the use of concepts and theories from EP in the study of IS particularly regarding the impact of modern information and communication technologies on the behavior of individuals groups and organizations From a practitioners perspective the most immediate consumers of IS EP research are those who develop and use IS of which a large contingent are in businesses that employ IS to support marketing order taking production and delivery of goods and services In this context IS EP ndings may be particularly useful due to the present need to design web based interfaces that will be used by in viduals from different cultures and often different countries and whose common denominator is their human nature Non-Representational Theory Nigel Thrift,2008-03-25 Written by a pioneer of non representational theories this astonishing book promises to question the whole direction of social sciences methodology and makes essential reading for social sciences and humanities researchers and postgraduates Electric Universe David Bodanis,2006-02-28 The bestselling author of E mc2 weaves tales of romance divine inspiration and fraud through an account of the invisible force that permeates our universe electricity and introduces us to the virtuoso scientists who plumbed its secrets For centuries electricity was seen as little more than a curious property of certain substances that sparked when rubbed Then in the 1790s Alessandro Volta began the scientific investigation that ignited an explosion of knowledge and invention The force that once seemed inconsequential was revealed to be responsible for everything from the structure of the atom to the functioning of our brains In harnessing its power we have created a world of wonders complete with roller coasters and radar computer networks and psychopharmaceuticals In Electric Universe the great discoverers come to life in all their brilliance and idiosyncrasy including the visionary Michael Faraday who struggled against the prejudices of the British class system and Samuel Morse a painter who before inventing the telegraph ran for mayor of New York City on a platform of persecuting Catholics Here too is Alan Turing whose dream of a marvelous thinking machine what we know as the computer was met with indifference and who ended his life in despair after British authorities forced him to undergo experimental treatments to cure his homosexuality From the frigid waters of the Atlantic to the streets of Hamburg during a World War II firestorm to the interior of the human body Electric Universe is a mesmerizing journey of discovery Culpable Carelessness Findlay Stark,2016-10-20 The question of when a person is culpable for taking an unjustified risk of harm has long been controversial in Anglo American criminal law doctrine and theory This survey of the approaches adopted in England and Wales Canada Australia the United States New Zealand and Scotland argues that they are converging to differing extents around a Standard Account of culpable unjustified risk taking This Standard Account distinguishes between awareness based culpability recklessness and inadvertence based culpability negligence for unjustified risk taking With reference to criminal law theory and philosophical literature the author argues that when explained appropriately the Standard Account is defensible and practical Defending the Standard Account involves analysing in depth a number of controversial matters including the meaning of advertence awareness the role of attitudes such as indifference in culpable risk taking and the question of whether negligence should be used in the criminal law

Creative Thinkering Michael Michalko,2011 Shows readers how to liberate thinking and expand imagination by learning to synthesize dissimilar subjects think paradoxically and enlist the help of the subconscious mind Reinventing Curriculum Linda Laidlaw,2005-05-06 The premise of this book is that written texts and literacy processes are developed within a complex weave of particular contexts or ecologies and the unique particularity of the learner's experiences, histories, memories, and interpretations. Laidlaw Buddhism and Cultural Studies Edwin Ng, 2016-06-30 This book explores the reciprocity between Buddhist, Derridean, and Foucauldian understandings about ethics, subjectivity, and ontological contingency to investigate the ethical and political potential of insight meditation practice. The book is narrated from the perspective of a postcolonial Western Buddhist convert who, despite growing up in Singapore where Buddhism was a part of his diasporic Chinese ancestral heritage, only embraced Buddhism when he migrated to Australia and discovered Western translations of Buddhist teachings. Through an autoethnography of the author's Buddhist-inspired pursuit of an academic profession, the book develops and professes a non-doctrinal understanding of faith that may be pertinent to believers and non-believers alike, inviting the academic reader, in particular, to consider the unacknowledged role of faith in supporting scholarly practice. Striking a careful balance between critical analysis and self-reflexive inquiry, the book performs, in all senses of the word, a profession of faith.

Nurture Richard Hosking, 2004 Proceedings of the 2003 Oxford Symposium on the subject of nurture in the context of food and cooking.

The Art of Life and Death Andrew Irving, 2017-09-15 The Art of Life and Death explores how the world appears to people who have an acute perspective on it: those who are close to death. Based on extensive ethnographic research, Andrew Irving brings to life the lived experiences, imaginative lifeworlds, and existential concerns of persons confronting their own mortality and non-being. Encompassing twenty years of working alongside persons living with HIV/AIDS in New York, Irving documents the radical but often unspoken and unvoiced transformations in perception, knowledge, and understanding that people experience in the face of death. By bringing an experience near ethnographic focus to the streams of inner dialogue, imagination, and aesthetic expression that are central to the experience of illness and everyday life, this monograph offers a theoretical, ethnographic, and methodological contribution to the anthropology of time, finitude, and the human condition. With relevance well beyond the disciplinary boundaries of anthropology, this book ultimately highlights the challenge of capturing the inner experience of human suffering and hope that affect us all: the trauma of the threat of death and the surprise of continued life. The art of life and death is unlike anything I have ever read in its combination of theoretical ambition and methodological innovation. The book is the fruit of Irving's close collaboration with a remarkable group of men and women diagnosed with AIDS at a time when there was little hope of surviving the disease. With the help of their words and, crucially, their art, Irving illuminates the complex inner life world created by the trauma of threatened death and the surprise of continued life. Inner experience and the challenge of capturing it lie at the heart of this book.

Danilyn Rutherford, author of Laughing at Leviathan. The art of life and death is a monumental anthropological achievement. Fusing long-term fieldwork, deeply sensitive observation, and a refined sense of the phenomenology of our deep existential fears of illness, of death, and the emotional quandaries of having survived a confrontation with mortality, Andrew Irving demonstrates how imaginative ethnography can reveal to us the deep contours of human being The art of life and death is filled with gripping narratives not only of pain confusion but also of courage and resilience It is a theoretically informed text that will long remain open to the world Paul Stoller author of Yaya's story The art of life and death is a brilliantly engaging piece of work that invites us to rethink life itself and introduces new ways of carrying out anthropological research Through a compelling interweaving of ethnography and theory Irving takes us close to lives that have been lived under conditions of existential uncertainty and recovery This book goes beyond conventional anthropology to offer a thoroughly inspiring account from which we learn not only about what it means to live near death but how art and the senses are implicated in life It will endure as an outstanding example of how do anthropology at its best Sarah Pink coauthor of Uncertainty and possibility In this imaginatively conceived book Andrew Irving asks compelling and daring questions on how to think of such categories as experience inner life or subjectivity in the face of imminent death He follows up with a very careful and caring ethnography of how art and life flow into each other Irving achieves perfect pitch in his writing A splendid achievement Veena Das author of Affliction Of the utmost importance a very worthwhile introduction to any medical anthropologist because it includes detailed ethnographic descriptions a variety of ethnographic methods and a range of key anthropological themes including a focus on embodied experiences social injustice and how individuals deal with death The narrative style of the book makes it easy to read and relate to This is a great feat given the complex and troubling themes discussed which lead one to question their very perception of life itself Journal of the Anthropological Society of Oxford Of interest to anyone looking to explore people's dynamic perceptive and reflective outlook on the world whether looking to the future contemplating death or simply being alive No curious anthropology student or for that matter person would be left un inspired or non transformed by this text and I implore as wide a readership as possible Anthropology Aging An exceptional achievement that gets under your skin from beginning to end Outstanding interweaving of theoretical critique and aspiration collaborative ethnography and methodological experimentation and innovation Inspiring essential reading for anyone interested in new ethnographic methods to more deeply access the complex inner dimensions of human experience American Ethnologist An excellent thought provoking book Brilliantly succeeding in drawing both a conceptual and empirical portrait of the patterns in which HIV as a socio historically traceable illness tends to articulate the life death dialectical relation on the discovery threshold of embodied mortality Groundbreaking Mortality This beautifully written and constructed book weaves together sophisticated social theory philosophy art work and vivid biographical narratives to offer insights into how HIV AIDS patients have learned to live a meaningful existence in the pre and post antiretroviral eras while negotiating a terminal illness Basing his book on 20 years of work with adults living with HIV AIDS in New York visual anthropologist Irving has carried out a compelling anthropological study of the complex inner world of those who struggle cope fight and ultimately come to terms with their own impending deaths The author draws on philosophical writings and social theories to contextualize his results but is at his best when allowing his subjects to speak for themselves The evocative words of subjects like artist Albert Velasco provide fascinating insights into the ways that dying persons with HIV AIDS grapple with the mundane like keeping medical appointments as well as the profound reckoning with their own mortality and purpose An engaging read that will enrich upper level and graduate collections on death and dying ethnographic methods and HIV AIDS Highly recommended Choice Transcultural Montage Christian Suhr, Rane Willerslev, 2013-10-01 The disruptive power of montage has often been regarded as a threat to scholarly representations of the social world This volume asserts the opposite that the destabilization of commonsense perception is the very precondition for transcending social and cultural categories The contributors anthropologists filmmakers photographers and curators explore the use of montage as a heuristic tool for comparative analysis in anthropological writing film and exhibition making Exploring phenomena such as human perception memory visibility ritual time and globalization they apply montage to restructure our basic understanding of social reality Furthermore as George E Marcus suggests in the afterword the power of montage that this volume exposes lies in its ability to open the very combustion chamber of social theory by juxtaposing one's claims to knowledge with the path undertaken to arrive at those claims German as Contact Zone Russell West-Pavlov, 2019-09-09 This book suggests that linguistic translation is one minute province of an immense process of creative activity that constitutes the world as an ongoing dynamism of unceasing transformation Building upon the speculative quantum gravity theory which provides a narrative of the push pull dynamics of transformative translation from the very smallest scales of reality to the very greatest this book argues that the so called translative turn of the 1990s was correct in positing translation as a paradigmatic concept of transformation More radically the book stages a provocative provincialization of linguistic translation so that literary translation in particular is shown to display a remarkable awareness of its own participation in a larger creative contact zone As a result the German language literary translations in and out of German and the German language classroom can be understood respectively as quantum contact zones Russell West Pavlov is Professor of Anglophone Literatures at the University of Tbingen and Research Associate at the University of Pretoria Heterotropic Theatres Russell West-Pavlov, 2025-05-26 This book seeks to elaborate a theory of troping that expands the purview of linguistic work and agency parsing its transformative work beyond the limits usually set by theories of language It registers a sea change in the theorization of theatrical art from representation to intervention The book thereby seeks to lay bare the activity of language as a heterotopology It focuses on early modern theatre from Shakespeare Hamlet Macbeth Romeo and Juliet Troilus and Cressida and other theatrical forms of the same era the Court Masque dramas by Ford or Johnson through to the Restoration it also reads a number of contemporary avatars of Shakespearean texts from Stoppard to Jones and of early modern and postmodern performance spaces such as the New Globe Theatre In a dozen readings of early modern theatre it asks how the remarkable energy and social purchase ascribed to theatrical language by contemporary commentators can be reconceptualized mobilized anew and thus harnessed for our own turbulent times God's Unfinished Business John

Wilding, Margaret Boaden, 2007 Integrating ideas such as evolution economics and politics into the teachings of Jesus this new view of human priorities suggests that spiritual thinkers and readers can break out of the cycle of destruction by taking a fresh look at the gospels to find practical guidance for the contemporary world Exploring Consciousness Rita Carter, 2002 Building on the foundation of her bestselling book Mapping the Mind Carter ponders the nature origins and purpose of consciousness and includes topical essays from leading scholars 110 illustrations most in color Understanding Consciousness Max Velmans, 2009-03-26 Building on the widely praised first edition this book provides a unique survey and evaluation of consciousness studies along with an original analysis of consciousness that combines scientific findings philosophy and common sense Reflections on the Problem of Consciousness Errol E. Harris, 2006-05-07 The relation between body and mind has presented philosophy with its perennial problem It exercised the minds of Plato and Aristotle and it was implicit in the thought if not always present to the minds of the Presocratics In modern philosophy it became explicit in Descartes s Meditations and remained central to the deliberations of every subsequent philosopher of any significance from Hobbes to Hume from Spinoza to Hegel and from Husserl and Heidegger to Russell and Whitehead From whatever angle one approaches philosophy one cannot avoid this problem Moral philosophy both ethical and political compels one to adopt some conception of human nature its origins and status within the world for one cannot decide on the best way to live without considering the impact of natural influences on the human condition and of human behaviour on nature including other humans and these considerations at once raise the question of the relation of the human mind to Nature and the natural body it enlightens A philosophy of Nature must include the place of humanity in the natural scheme not only the human body but also the knowing mind Metaphysics cannot be divorced from Epistemology nor can that neglect the part played in the acquisition of knowledge by the bodily senses And clearly a philosophy of mind must include some vision of the relation of the mind to the body it inhabits
