Georgina Kleege, 1999-03-11 This elegantly written book offers an unexpected and unprecedented account of blindness and sight Legally blind since the age of eleven Georgina Kleege draws on her experiences to offer a detailed testimony of visual impairment both her own view of the world and the world s view of the blind I hope to turn the reader s gaze outward to say not only Here s what I see but also Here s what you see to show both what s unique and what s universal Kleege writes Kleege describes the negative social status of the blind analyzes stereotypes of the blind that have been perpetuated by movies and discusses how blindness has been portrayed in literature She vividly conveys the visual experience of someone with severely impaired sight and explains what she can see and what she cannot and how her inability to achieve eye contact in a society that prizes that form of connection has affected her Finally she tells of the various ways she reads and the freedom she felt when she stopped concealing her blindness and acquired skills such as reading braille as part of a new blind identity Without sentimentality or cliché s Kleege offers us the opportunity to imagine life without sight Student

Living in Anticipation of the End-Time Edwin Zackrison, 2022-07-19 Not long ago those who wrote about the end time were preachers the more fundamentalist the more extreme by some standards The end is coming soon they said and cartoons were rampant with guys carrying placards captioned by The End is Near From the time of Christ whose noncritical predictions included such inspiration for the placards the religious prophets could not resist emphasis on such topics Today things are different The scientists and politicians make the predictions Twelve More Years is what we hear from the latter But they don't attack with religious terms They speak of time in the context of climate change and global warming They do not agree on how to interpret the evidence but the religionists also had trouble with agreement Strange interpretations of biblical texts have now gone the way of so called science Various elucidations carry one thing in common none gain consensus Some arguments enter discussions by censoring those who disagree with them Their opponents are not allowed to speak They must remain silent They are called nasty names and unfair methods are used to punish them They try to stop the incongruous from speaking at all Living in the end time demonstrates the conflict between good and evil The Pilot's

some hitherto untapped sources Focussing in particular on the producer director's post On the Waterfront New York based independent work and on his key artistic collaborations including those with Tennessee Williams John Steinbeck and Budd Schulberg Neve gives a fascinating reassessment of Kazan's famed technique with such actors as Marlon Brando and James Dean and his lifetime concern to provoke and photograph authentic behaviour He reveals a pattern through the films of personally resonant themes relating for example to ethnicity and the American immigrant myth He reviews Kazan's style from the colour and wide screen of East of Eden to the creative use of location in his American South films including Baby Doll He debates the reception of Kazan's work and the controversy which dogged his career of his 1952 Congressional testimony These elements and more make this a very readable and memorable fresh portrayal of the film career of this ever fascinating director Working with an impressively wide variety of archival material including Kazan's personal papers and notebooks Brian Neve here offers a solidly researched insightful and historically grounded portrait of Elia Kazan his working methods his 19 feature films from A Tree Grows in Brooklyn 1945 to The Last Tycoon 1976 and his place in the cinematic and social world of his age Chuck Maland Professor of Cinema Studies American Studies University of Tennessee
