Education in a Federal UK John Furlong, Ingrid Lunt, 2019-10-23 Britain's two recent referenda on Brexit 2016 and on Scottish independence 2014 have raised in the public mind fundamental questions about the future of the UK It seems that for the first time the public the media and the political elite have woken up to the fact that in different parts of the UK there are different histories different aspirations and different imagined futures in relation to a whole range of vitally important political issues But what the public debate often fails to recognise is that in many areas of public life perhaps especially education the UK is already a federal state and in key respects has been so for many years The aim of this volume is therefore to take stock to try and capture what the current state of educational policy and practice is across the whole of the UK This has been achieved by commissioning two different papers from each of the four countries Wales Scotland Northern Ireland and England The first is an overview exploring the distinctive history principles and current policies of each country The second paper has been specifically chosen as a case study of a key policy that highlights the distinctiveness of each country the Foundation Phase for Wales assessment policy in Scotland shared education initiatives in Northern Ireland and higher education policy in England Taken together these eight papers give an important insight into the complexities of educational policy and practice across the whole of the UK today This volume was originally published as a special issue of Oxford Review of Education Language, Education, and Society in a Changing World Tina Hickey, Jenny Williams, 1996 This book addresses many of the issues facing language teachers researchers and policy makers in a world where languages are becoming extinct at an alarming rate and are frequently the focus for dispute and conflict

Citizenship Education and Lifelong Learning Michael Williams, Graham Humphrys, 2003 Across the globe citizenship education is high on the reform agendas of policy makers and educators The collapse of the Soviet Union and the entry of former Soviet bloc states into the European Union the fragmentation of the former Yugoslavia the major population movements from poor to rich countries and the increased threats of international terrorism and civil wars in many states have all added to the need to provide up dated and reflective approaches to citizenship education Within nation states the impact of globalisation on social economic and political structures has caused power shifts across and within international borders demanding greater citizenship awareness and participation The effect of these changes and the practice and needs of citizenship are profoundly affected by the distinctive particulars of the places in which they occur This is an essential ingredient in any understanding of what is happening and of any program addressing the resulting citizenship challenges Too often citizenship education has been perceived simply as a matter for schools In this book the discussion is extended to embrace post school education It is acknowledged that the educa
