How India Clothed the World Giorgio Riello, Tirthankar Roy, 2009 Cloth has always been the most global of all traded commodities. It is an illuminating example of the circulation of goods, skills, knowledge, and capital across wide geographic spaces. South Asia has been central to the making of these global exchanges over time. This volume presents innovative research that explores the dynamic ways in which diverse textile production and trade regions generated the first globalization. A series of experts connect this global commodity with the dramatic political and economic transformations that characterised the Indian Ocean in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Collectively, the essays transform our understanding of the contribution of South Asian cloth to the making of the modern world economy. Journal of the Royal Statistical Society Royal Statistical Society (Great Britain), 1908. Published papers whose appeal lies in their subject matter rather than their technical statistical contents. Medical, social, educational, legal, demographic, and governmental issues are of particular concern. Journal of the Statistical Society of London, 1908. Library Catalogue, Corrected Up to December 31st, 1916. Coimbatore (India). Agricultural College and Research Institute. Library, 1917. Tamil Brahmins C. J. Fuller, Haripriya Narasimhan, 2014-10-03. The Tamil Brahmins were a traditional, mainly rural, high caste elite who have been transformed into a modern urban middle class community since the late nineteenth century. Many Tamil Brahmins today are in professional and managerial occupations such as engineering and information technology; most of them live in Chennai and other Tamil Nadu towns, but others have migrated to the rest of India and overseas. This book, which is mainly based on the authors' ethnographic research, describes and analyses this transformation. It is also a study of how and why the Tamil Brahmins' privileged status within a hierarchical society has been perpetuated in the face of both a strong anti-Brahmin movement in Tamil Nadu and a series of wider social, cultural, economic, political, and ideological changes that might have been expected to undermine their position completely. The major topics discussed include Brahmin rural society, urban migration, and urban ways of life, education, and employment, the position of women, and religion and culture. The Tamil Brahmins' class position, including the internal division into the upper and lower middle classes and the process of class reproduction, are examined closely to analyze the congruence between Tamil Brahminhood and middle classness, which, as a comparison with other Brahmin and non-Brahmin groups shows, is highly unusual in contemporary India. General Catalogue of All Publications of the Government of India India, 1918. Census of India, 1971: D. Migration tables (2 v.) India. Office of the Registrar General, 1971. Caste and Democratic Politics in India Ghanshyam Shah, 2004. General Catalogue of All Publications of the Government of India and Local Governments and Administrations ... India, 1913. Cultural Ontology of the Self in Pain Siby K. George, P.G. Jung, 2015-09-18. The mainstream approach to the understanding of pain continues to be governed by the biomedical paradigm and the dualistic Cartesian ontology This Volume brings together essays of scholars of literature philosophy and history on the many enigmatic shades of pain experience mostly from an anti Cartesian perspective of cultural ontology by scholars of literature philosophy and history A section of the essays is devoted to the socio political dimensions of pain in the Indian context The book offers a critical perspective on the reductive conceptions of pain and argue that non substance ontology or cultural ontology supports a more humane and authentic understanding of pain The general ontological features of the self in pain and culturally imbued dimensions of pain experience are thus brought together in a rare blend in this Volume The essays dwell on the importance of understanding what cultural social and political forces outside our control do to our pain experience They show why such understanding is necessary both to humanely deal with pain and to rectify erroneous approaches to pain experience They also explore the thoroughly ambivalent spaces between pain and pleasure and the cathartic and productive dimensions of pain The essays in this Volume investigate pain experiences through the fresh lenses of history gender ethics politics death illness self loss torture shame dispossession and denial
