Goethes Conception Of The World:

Goethe's Conception of the World Rudolf Steiner, 1928

Goethe's Concept of the Daemonic Angus James Nicholls, 2006 The first book to examine Goethe's writings on the daemonic in relation to both Classical philosophy and German Idealism. For Plato the daemonic is a sensibility that brings individuals into contact with divine knowledge. Socrates was also inspired by a divine voice known as his daimonion. Goethe was introduced to this ancient concept by Hamann and Herder who associated it with the aesthetic category of genius. This book shows how the young Goethe depicted the idea of daemonic genius in works of the Storm and Stress period before exploring the daemonic in a series of later poetic and autobiographical works. Reading Goethe's works on the daemonic through theorists such as Lukács, Benjamin, Gadamer, Adorno and Blumenberg, Nicholls contends that they contain arguments concerning reason, nature and subjectivity that are central to both European Romanticism and the Enlightenment. Angus Nicholls is Claussen Simon Foundation Research Lecturer in German and Comparative Literature at the Centre for Anglo-German Cultural Relations in the Department of German, Queen Mary University of London.

A Theory of Knowledge Based on Goethe's World Conception Rudolf Steiner, 1968

The Romantic Conception of Life Robert J. Richards, 2002-12 All art should become science and all science art; poetry and philosophy should be made one. Friedrich Schlegel's words perfectly capture the project of the German Romantics who believed that the aesthetic approaches of art and literature could reveal patterns and meaning in nature that couldn't be uncovered through rationalistic philosophy and science alone. In this wide-ranging work, Robert J. Richards shows how the Romantic conception of the world influenced and was influenced by both the lives of the people who held it and the development of nineteenth-century science. Integrating Romantic literature, science and philosophy with an intimate knowledge of the individuals involved, from Goethe and the brothers Schlegel to Humboldt and Friedrich and Caroline Schelling, Richards demonstrates how their tempestuous lives shaped their ideas as profoundly as their intellectual and cultural heritage. He focuses especially on how Romantic concepts of the self as well as aesthetic and moral considerations, all tempered by personal relationships, altered scientific representations of nature. Although historians have long considered Romanticism at best a minor tributary to scientific thought, Richards moves it to the center of the main currents of nineteenth-century biology, culminating in the conception of nature that underlies Darwin's evolutionary theory. Uniting the personal and poetic aspects of philosophy and science in a way that the German Romantics themselves would have honored, The Romantic Conception of Life alters how we look at Romanticism and nineteenth-century biology.

Goethe and the Sciences: A Reappraisal F.R. Amrine, Francis J. Zucker, H. Wheeler, 2012-12-06 of him in like measure within myself that is my highest wish. This noble individual was not conscious of the fact that at that very moment the divine within him and the divine of the universe were most intimately united. So for Goethe the resonance with a natural rationality seems part of the genius of modern science Einstein's cosmic religion which reflects Spinoza also echoes Goethe's remark Ibid Item 575 from 1829 Man must cling to the belief that the incomprehensible is comprehensible Else he would give up investigating But how far will Goethe share the devotion of these cosmic rationalists to the beautiful harmonies of mathematics so distant from any pure and direct observation Kepler Spinoza Einstein need not and would not rest with discovery of a pattern within behind as a source of the phenomenal world and they would not let even the most profound of descriptive generalities satisfy scientific curiosity For his part Goethe sought fundamental archetypes as in his intuition of a Urpflanze basic to all plants infinitely plastic When such would be found Goethe would be content for as he said to Eckermann Feb 18 1829 to seek something behind the Urphänomenon is futile Here is the limit But as a rule men are not satisfied to behold an Urphänomenon They think there must be something beyond They are like children who having looked into a mirror turn it around to see what is on the other side

Mapping Minor/Small and World Literatures Yanli He, Nicholas Birns, 2024-06-05 Mapping Minor Small and World Literatures Periphery and Center makes a declarative intervention in debates about world literature redefining the boundaries between the center and periphery to rejuvenate long established assumptions about significance and insignificance In this book African American literature emerging from the often overlooked pink periphery a cramped space of minor literature works from the Faroe Islands Basque literature First Nation Canadian literature Western narratives about peripheral China Kurdish literature the ultraminor literary space of Antigua the favela of Brazilian literature as well as the hyperlocal narratives of Australian and New Zealand literature are all studied for their meaningful role within the world literary system Additionally working class writing and the literary contributions of individuals on the margins of their own societies are given a voice ensuring that the world literary space does not merely represent the perspectives of dominant elites Unlike other descriptions of world literature which have frequently allowed the grandeur and breadth of the global to overshadow the imperative for authentic literary biodiversity this anthology featuring contributions from diverse scholars representing various countries and backgrounds actively deconstructs the structures of power and domination inherent in Western European centered world literature minor literature and small literature
