Samuel Johnston,Xin Chen,2020-01-29 The Mekong River is a vital and valuable resource with huge development potential for the six states through which it flows Given the significant asymmetry of power between those states however there is a real risk that some might utilise it to the detriment of others Without a sense of regional belonging it is difficult to imagine that these states and their constituent communities will take regional imperatives to heart participate in joint regulatory frameworks or adopt behaviours for upstream downstream and lateral cooperation over the appropriation and use of their shared resources How effectively has closer interdependence of the Mekong countries accommodated the development of a political social cultural space conducive to the growth of a regional we ness among not only political elites but also the general public The contributors to this volume approach this question from a range of directions including the impacts of tourism regional development programmes the Mekong Power Grid and Sino US rivalry This edited volume presents valuable insights for scholars of international relations Asian studies development studies environment studies policy studies and human geography Revolution, Reform and Regionalism in Southeast Asia Ronald Bruce St John,2006-01-16 Based on research carried out over the three decades this book compares the post war political economies of Cambodia Laos and Vietnam in the context of their individual and collective impact on contemporary efforts at regional integration The author highlights the different paths to reform taken by the three neighbours and the effect this has had on regional plans for economic development through the ASEAN and the Greater Mekong Subregion Through its comparative analysis of the reforms implemented by Cambodia Laos and Vietnam over the last thirty years the book draws attention to parallel themes of continuity and change The author discusses how the three states have demonstrated related characteristics whilst at the same time making different modifications in order to exploit the unique strengths of their individual cultures Contributing to the contemporary debate over the role of democratic reform in promoting economic development the book provides a detailed account of the political economies of three states at the heart of Southeast Asia Regionalism in China-Vietnam Relations Oliver Hensengerth,2009-09-10 This book analyses collaboration in the Greater Mekong Subregion It explores inter state cooperation and the role of subnational units provincial and local governments and transnational actors NGOs firms in building and maintaining the subregion It also considers the relationships between actors on the three levels their influences within the structures of decision making in the GMS their policy pronouncements and roles in the GMS After exploring the historical background of cooperation in the GMS the author discusses how far cooperation in the GMS has developed from the mere promotion of the national interest of individual states towards an institution as an independent actor able to influence relationships between its member states instead of only being influenced by them Hensengerth scrutinises the nature of GMS cooperation and the character and capabilities of the institution of the GMS exemplified by the bilateral relations between China and Vietnam Here the study will combine the analysis of subregionalism and institution building in the GMS with an analysis of China Vietnam relations by combining theoretical approaches to regional integration in the form of the regime approach with foreign policy analysis This book will appeal to academics within international relations Southeast Asian regional and China or Vietnam country specialists Development Dilemmas in the Mekong Subregion, 1996 The Greater Mekong Subregion 2030 and Beyond Asian Development Bank, 2021-03-01 This publication provides an analysis of key challenges and opportunities for the Greater Mekong Subregion GMS to realize its development goals by 2030 and beyond While the six member countries have made impressive gains in recent decades much remains to be done to close the gap with the world's most advanced economies The GMS needs to further integrate into the global economy significantly upgrade production and exports enable cities to be engines of growth and improve the quality of road infrastructure and connectivity ASEAN-China Economic Relations Saw Swee-Hock, 2007 Examines the rapidly expanding economic relations between ASEAN and China in recent years covering trade investments economic challenges competition and opportunities in the various sectors of the two economies Greater Mekong Subregion Omkar Lal Shrestha, Aekapol Chongvilaivan, 2013 The large market size and abundant resources of the Greater Mekong Subregion GMS including a large motivated and cheap workforce a rich agricultural base extensive timber and fisheries resources considerable potential mineral resources and vast energy resources have seen the subregion increasingly recognized as a new frontier of Southeast Asian economic strength This book aims to assess the recent economic social and political developments in the GMS and identify emerging opportunities and challenges facing the successful transition towards a market driven economy The countries of the GMS are at a critical juncture where subregional efforts and cooperation must be made to fully address the rapidly evolving issues that are vital to appropriate policy formation yet which remain widely debatable The deliberations here shed light on the development stages and offer policy recommendations for pushing forward subregional cooperation As Borders Bend Xiangming Chen, 2005 As do other mighty forces such as wars nationalist aspirations and the shifting courses of great rivers globalization changes the world's borders by bending them out of shape and creating new transnational spaces State political boundaries no longer draw the definitive line in people's lives they once did Borders continue to contain self described national populations and national activities but the penetration of economic globalization via growing cross border trade investment and resurgence of myriad regional ethnic groups is pushing and stretching the limits of borders into both interactive spaces and contested terrains Indeed new power centers with their own identities are springing out of once politically trivial and economically marginal landscapes While the terrorist attacks of 2001 and the SARS outbreak of 2003 prompted states to tighten border controls their efforts amount to only a temporary reversal of a powerful long term trend toward more open borders and the interactive transnational spaces that openness fosters This innovative book examines the complexities of de bordering and re bordering through a structured comparison of seven transborder subregions along the western Pacific Rim and an extended comparative analysis of the U S Mexico border and several European border regions Xiangming Chen offers a synthetic explanation for the complex and diverse processes and outcomes of economic growth social transformation infrastructure development and urban landscapes in the new transnational spaces around the porous and mutated borders on the Pacific Rim and beyond

China's Role and Interests in the Greater Mekong Subregion Shengmin Cui ,2018 Differentiated cooperation and GMS cooperation provide a theoretical model and practical example to coordinate the relationship and to promote economic and political cooperation between large and small states for the purpose of economic political and social development on the national regional and international stages

ASEAN Enlargement Mya Than,Carolyn L. Gates,2001 During the past decade ASEAN has shifted its focus from political and military security to economic co operation and development Although this change may ease the integration of the four mainland Southeast Asian nations Vietnam Laos Myanmar and Cambodia into ASEAN there remain significant challenges to forge a workable and united ten member ASEAN This book examines many of the economic political and institutional issues confronting the enlarged regional grouping The volume is organized into three sections based on the perspectives of the region subregion and the newer members It not only addresses ASEAN s enlargement but also contributes to the debate on ASEAN s shifting role in the twenty first century

Transnational Crime and Human Rights Susan Kneebone,Julie Debeljak,2012-08-06

Transnational Crime and Human Rights offers an evaluation of the responses to the transnational crime of human trafficking and governance of the issue through a case study of the Greater Mekong Subregion GMS which comprises Cambodia the People s Republic of China Lao People s Democratic Republic Myanmar Thailand and Viet Nam The book analyses the international and national legal policy frameworks and the role of governments international and national non governmental institutions and regional processes in responding to trafficking issues in the GMS The book is based on the findings of a three year study conducted in the region involving interviews with more than 60 individuals from relevant organizations and agencies and examines the social political and historical factors including gender and age labour exploitation and migration which form the background to human trafficking in the GMS The authors consider issues of competing mandates and gaps in strategies for protection and conclude with a discussion of broader lessons to be learned from the GMS situation and suggestions for future governance strategies in the fight against trafficking

Sub-regionalism and International River Basins Soavapa Ngampramuan, Christian Ploberger, 2020-06-17 This book investigates the origins and dynamics of sub regional phenomena based on international river basins namely the Mekong and Danube rivers It emphasizes the integration process of the Greater Mekong Sub region and the European Strategy for the Danube Region which are located in two different geopolitical and structural settings one in Southeast Asia in the regional context of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN and the other in Central and Eastern Europe within the regional context of the EU By comparing two unique case studies within different structural settings additional and valuable insights into the occurrence and formation of sub regional integration processes are provided enabling an evaluation of similarities and differences Understanding sub regional integration dynamics requires not only looking upward to the regional and even the global level but indeed looking downwards to the local level After all sub regional integration processes are generally described as bottom up processes based on local interests and expectations Despite the growing number of sub regional projects sub regionalism remains inadequately studied in the field of political science and as such this book offers unique contributions to the understanding of sub regional integration processes Consequently it will be of interest to readers who are interested in regional and sub regional integration processes as well as those with a specific interest in both the EU and ASEAN geographic regions
