Destabilizing Theory Michèle Barrett, Anne Phillips, 1992 In the past decade the central principles of western feminist theory have been dramatically challenged many feminists have endorsed post structuralism's rejection of essentialist theoretical categories and have added a powerful gender dimension to contemporary critiques of modernity Earlier women have been radically undermined and newer concerns with difference identity and power have emerged Destabilizing Theory explores these developments in a set of specially commissioned essays by feminist theorists Does this change amount to a real shift within feminist theory or will feminism's links with an emancipatory modernism reinstate an older political agenda

Debates and Issues in Feminist Research and Pedagogy Janet Holland, Maud Blair, Sue Sheldon, 1995 The articles in this book engage with practical issues relating to teaching and research The way in which gender and education is theorized is currently in a period of profound change and this presents a major challenge to feminist teachers who want to translate explanations for gender relations into transformative action in the classroom Several of the authors in this collection consider the possibilities and practicalities of transformative feminist pedagogies identifying the pedagogic moments into which challenge and change can be introduced without distorting or denying the students experience Another section contains articles which present the results of classroom research dealing with issues of class gender race and sexuality We can see from the results of these recent studies that class race and gender continue to position students differently throughout the whole school and the entire curriculum Research on teacher education reported here indicates that gender differences are produced and reproduced in that context A final section of the book deals with the ongoing and lively debate on feminist methodology and epistemology indicating the variety of approaches and positions that are being taken up in this area Exchanges and Correspondence Claudette Fillard, Françoise Orazi, 2010-08-11 Through the eighteen essays of this book the reader becomes the beholder of a challenging survey of feminism in the making from its early stages in the 18th century to the present in Anglo Saxon countries and elsewhere including Eastern Europe and some places under the influence of communism or Islam The development of exchanges and correspondence enabled feminism to pre exist the word itself which leads several contributors to ponder over its meaning as well as over the notion of influence a pivotal component of their reflection Through the complex interplay of harmony and disharmony openly acknowledged or carefully hidden similarities or differences and the delineation of the converging or conflicting forces which the authors of this volume attempt to disentangle a fascinating chorus of voices eventually emerges from this volume a preview of the budding sisterhood It throws light on the major factors in women s growing consciousness of their plight and of the main stakes in the struggle for the defense of their rights Scholars of different national origins and methodological approaches here join forces until the book itself amounts to an innovative web of exchanges and correspondences its medium as well as its avowed message
