Women, Disability and Mental Distress Julia L.T. Smith, 2016-02-17 Over recent decades an increasing amount of attention has been paid to identifying and meeting the individual support needs of mental health service users and people with physical impairments in the UK Evidence of this can be seen within the literature that considers mental health and physical impairment from a wide range of perspectives as well as the increased range of service provision for individuals within both categories However the support needs of individuals who fall into both categories have largely been overlooked by social care and health service providers practitioners and organisations for whom the main focus is either mental health or physical impairment The lack of attention that has been given in theory and in practice to the mental health support needs of disabled women who experience mental distress has resulted in an insufficient knowledge base of how to support disabled women who may require some form of mental health support For this group of women this has meant that their needs have arguably continued to be neglected and subsequently left unmet Writing from her position as both a social worker and a service user Julia Smith has written an innovative and important text which both discusses a neglected area of personal experience and makes an original contribution to knowledge with regard to both policy and practice

Exploring Disability Identity and Disability Rights through Narratives Ravi Malhotra, Morgan Rowe, 2013-10-30

Building on David M Engel and Frank W Munger's work analyzing the narratives of people with physical and learning disabilities this book examines the life stories of twelve physically disabled Canadian adults through the prism of the social model of disablement Using a grounded theory approach and with extensive reporting of the thoughts of the participants in their own words the book uses narratives to explore whether an advocacy identity helps or hinders dealings with systemic barriers for disabled people in education employment and transportation The book underscores how both physical and attitudinal barriers by educators employers and service providers complicate the lives of disabled people The book places a particular focus on the importance of political economy and the changes to the labour market for understanding the marginalization and oppression of people with disabilities By melding socio legal approaches with insights from feminist critical race and queer legal theory Ravi Malhotra and Morgan Rowe ask if we need to reconsider the social model of disablement and proposes avenues for inclusive legal reform Disability and Disadvantage Kimberley

Brownlee, 2009-06-04 This book offers a much needed investigation of moral and political issues concerning disability and explores how the experiences of people with disabilities can lead to reconsideration of prominent positions on normative issues Thirteen new essays examine such topics as the concept of disability the conditions of justice the nature of autonomy healthcare distribution and reproductive choices The contributors are Norman Daniels Ellen Daniels Zide Leslie P Francis Christie Hartley Richard Hull Guy Kahane F M Kamm Rosalind McDougall Jeff McMahan Douglas MacLean Susannah Rose Anita Silvers Julian Savulescu Lorella Terzi David Wasserman and Jonathan Wolff Sex, Gender and Disability in Nepal Tulasi Acharya, 2019-08-12 This book explores the sex lives of women with disabilities in Nepal showing that many women suffer more than men despite prevailing disability policies that emphasize nondiscrimination against people with disabilities It also argues that far from general perceptions of women as asexual women with disabilities are capable of leading highly creative and fulfilling sexual lives Using critical sexual theory and postcolonial studies as critical frameworks the book investigates the narratives of authors with disabilities exploring policy gaps and the need for supportive gender and sexual policies through the words of those affected In particular the book analyzes five female Nepali authors with disabilities Radhika Dahal Jhamak Ghimire Sabitri Karki Parijaat and Mira Sahi demonstrating the need for supportive gender policies to address the emotional and psychological needs of women with disabilities Overall the book argues that disciplinary discourses in practice often consider sex or sexuality as taboo barely recognizing women in the context of marriage and family and therefore creating gaps between policies and marginalized narratives This book provides important insights into sex and disability within the context of the Global South and as such will be of interest not only to researchers working on Nepal but also to scholars across gender studies disability studies international development and postcolonialism

Schlund-Vials, 2016-05-23 Disability studies scholars and activists have long criticized and critiqued so termed charitable approaches to disability where the capitalization of individual disabled bodies to invoke pity are historically socially and politically circumscribed by paternalism Disabled individuals have long advocated for civil and human rights in various locations throughout the globe yet contemporary human rights discourses problematically co opt disabled bodies as evidence of harms done under capitalism war and other forms of conflict while humanitarian non governmental organizations often use disabled bodies to generate resources for their humanitarian projects It is the connection between civil rights and human rights and this concomitant relationship between national and global which foregrounds this groundbreaking book's contention that disability studies productively challenge such human rights paradigms which troublingly eschew disability rights in favor of exclusionary humanitarianism It relocates disability from the margins to the center of academic and activist debates over the vexed relationship between human rights and humanitarianism These considerations thus productively destabilize able bodied assumptions that undergird definitions of personhood in civil rights and human rights by highlighting intersections between disability race gender ethnicity and sexuality as a way to interrogate the possibilities and limitations of human rights as a politicized regime The Routledge Handbook of Disability and Sexuality Russell Shuttleworth, Linda

Mona, 2020-12-29 This handbook provides a much needed holistic overview of disability and sexuality research and scholarship With authors from a wide range of disciplines and representing a diversity of nationalities it provides a multi perspectival view that fully captures the diversity of issues and outlooks Organised into six parts the contributors explore long standing issues such as the psychological interpersonal social political and cultural barriers to sexual access that disabled people face and their struggle for sexual rights and participation The volume also engages issues that have been on the periphery of the discourse such as sexual accommodations and support aimed at facilitating disabled people's sexual well being the socio sexual tensions confronting disabled people with intersecting stigmatised identities such as LGBTBI or asexual and the sexual concerns of disabled people in the Global South It interrogates disability and sexuality from diverse perspectives from more traditional psychological and sociological models to various subversive and post theoretical perspectives and queer theory This handbook examines the cutting edge and sometimes ethically contentious concerns that have been repressed in the field With current international and comprehensive content this book is essential reading for students academics and researchers in the areas of disability gender and sexuality as well as applied disciplines such as healthcare practitioners counsellors psychology trainees and social workers
