Female Labor Supply Child Care And Marital Conflict An Empirical Analysis:

Female Labor Supply, Child Care and Marital Conflict Henriëtte Maassen van den Brink, 1994 In vergelijking met andere westerse landen is het percentage Nederlandse getrouwde vrouwen met kleine kinderen die betaald werk verrichten laag Onderzocht is wat de redenen zijn voor deze geringe arbeidsdeelname Daarbij ligt de nadruk op het verrichten van arbeid in combinatie met zorg voor kinderen de beloningsverschillen tussen mannen en vrouwen de verdeling van betaalde en onbetaalde arbeid huishoudelijke arbeid en conflicten in de relatie The intra-household allocation of time, 2009

Child Care and Female Labour Supply in the Netherlands Johannes Jan Schippers, Jacques J. Siegers, Jenny Jong-Gierveld, 1998 The relationship between childcare and women's labour supply is a policy issue in almost all western industrialized countries During recent decades women's labour market participation has increased drastically However women's labour supply still falls short of that of men And of those women who are active in the labour market many hold often small part time jobs The major explanatory factor brought forward in different studies for women's relatively low labour supply is women's tasks and responsibilities for the care for children So childcare is often considered an instrument to reconcile labour market and parental duties not just for women but also for men However childcare can be organized in many different ways In this book the authors discuss different forms of childcare and their relation to women's labour supply Under which conditions and to what degree does childcare help mothers to combine a career in the labour market and a career as a parent Which factors make mothers decide on caring themselves for their young children or opting for some kind of childcare by others In different circumstances parents may prefer either formal or informal care Formal care may also be included into labour negotiations Should employers and unions be responsible for childcare arrangements Or are the arguments in favour of the equal opportunities point of view that child care should not be limited to workers only but is just as essential to society as e.g. general education or national defence and thereby a core task of the government The answers to these and other related questions enlarge our insights with respect to the question how to organize childcare in such a way that both women and men may realize a harmonious reconciliation of labour and care tasks with respect to children

Social Protection vs. Economic Flexibility Rebecca M. Blank, 2009-05-15 As the Clinton administration considers major overhauls in health insurance welfare and labor market regulation it is important for economists and policymakers to understand the impact of social and welfare programs on employment rates This volume explores how programs such as social security income transfers and child care in Western Europe the United States and Japan have affected labor market flexibility the ability of workers to adjust to fast growing segments of the economy Does tying health insurance to employment limit job mobility Do housing policies inhibit workers from moving to new jobs in different areas What are the effects of daycare and maternity leave policies on working mothers The authors explore these and many other questions in an effort to understand why European unemployment rates are so high compared with the U.S. rate Through an examination of diverse data sets across different countries the authors find that social protection programs do not strongly affect labor market flexibility A valuable comparison of labor markets and welfare programs this book demonstrates how social protection policies have affected employment rates around the globe

Handbook of Marriage and the Family Marvin B. Sussman, Suzanne K. Steinmetz, Gary W. Peterson, 2013-06-29 To know where we are going as scholars educators and practitioners in the field of marriage and family life we first need to know where we have been A perusal of early texts on marriage and family life provides some thought provoking insights into the accuracy of the saying what goes around comes around It is interesting to note who has been considered to be in a position to provide information on marriage and family life Included in the eclectic collection of texts we reviewed were ministers whose focus was on spirituality doctors who emphasized medical aspects of child and adult health and public health professionals and home economists concerned with fighting disease who emphasized cleanliness order fighting germs and eliminating rodents and insects There are also philosophers who drew from ancient texts when discussing family life and a count who assembled a group of German intellectual elites to address various topics An insightful essay of this type is by Marta Karlweis 1926 in which she notes There is no other fetish that society holds to so firmly as the conception woman with all its usual associations of infantilism and dependence The child requires protection is a minor and consequently a serf but above all it possesses no spiritual existence Neither doctorates or other distinctions nor the right to vote have as yet been able to dispel this sweet idea of the childishness of woman which man cherishes p

Investment in Women's Human Capital T. Paul Schultz, 1995-06-15 How are human capital investments allocated between women and men What are the returns to investments in women's nutrition health care education mobility and training In thirteen wide ranging and innovative empirical analyses Investment in Women's Human Capital explores the nature of human capital distributions to women and their effect on outcomes within the family Section I considers the experiences of high income countries examining the limitations of industrialization for the advancement of women returns to secondary education for women and state control of women's education and labor market productivity through the design of tax systems and the public subsidy of children The remaining four sections investigate health education household structure and labor markets and measurement issues in low income countries including the effect of technological change on transfers of wealth to and from children in India women's and men's responses to the costs of medical care in Kenya the effects of birth order and sex on educational attainment in Taiwan wage returns to schooling in Indonesia and in Cote d'Ivoire and the increasing prevalence of female headed households and the correlates of gender differences in wages in Brazil

Choices in child care Liset van Dijk, 1994 Childcare patterns of preschool children have changed recently In the past mothers were supposed to take care of the children full time and fathers were the wage earners Non parental care was hardly used Nowadays a growing number of women do not stop working after the birth of a child The use of non parental care has increased and the role of the father is becoming part of the child care discussion As a result of these changes child care patterns are much more varied than they used to be This book discusses child care choices of parents with preschool children The focus is on child care decisions that are related to the labor force participation of the parents Contrary to much previous research fathers are considered as a child care alternative next to mothers and non parental care givers The effects of several circumstances such as the parents income the availability and quality of non parental care and the non parental care providers are studied on the basis of a survey of two parent families with preschool children
