Feminist Legal Theory (Vol. 2) Frances Olsen, 1995-10 A collection of previously published articles Classical Debates for the 21st Century Thomas Hueglin, 2008-02-01 Classical Debates for the 21st Century distinctively reconsiders the canon of political thought in the context of current world events by presenting debates between the ideas of classical theorists It is through these debates that Thomas O Hueglin argues that exclusive state sovereignty individual citizenship and majority rule have become questionable categories of political theory and practice in a globalizing world To a large extent the classical canon of political thought has been constructed in order to give legitimacy to these categories but it is time to rethink the validity of that canon and to search for alternative voices and traditions that emphasize plurality shared sovereignty and complex patterns of representation and decision making This does not mean that the familiar names in the classical canon have to disappear But they should be examined more critically for their continued importance and additional theorists thus far neglected should complement them Each chapter is organized as a debate between two theorists with contrasting views and approaches At the end of each chapter there is a critical evaluation of these political theorists continued or renewed relevance

Capitalism and Classical Social Theory John Bratton, David Denham, 2024-06-03 Capitalism and Classical Social Theory offers a rigorous introduction to classical social theory highlighting the enduring relevance of classical works for understanding the many crises of the contemporary world This popular theory book introduces students to a selection of classical social thinkers and demonstrates the relevance of the classical canon in contemporary society a society marked by social inequality insecurity transformative AI and the climate emergency The fourth edition features updated examples data and images throughout as well as new material on early American sociology and new literature on classical social theorists from the past five years It reintroduces a chapter on Georg Simmel and urbanism and it includes a new chapter exploring the intersection of the COVID 19 pandemic and class race and gender While attentive to historical context Capitalism and Classical Social Theory argues that classical theorists speak directly to the present challenges of inequality social change and the climate crisis in the twenty first century

Power and Feminist Agency in Capitalism Claudia Leeb,2017-04-03 According to postmodern scholars subjects are defined only through their relationship to institutions and social norms But if we are only political people insofar as we are subjects of existing power relations there is little hope of political transformation To instigate change we need to draw on collective power but appealing to a particular type of subject whether working class black or women will always be exclusionary This issue is a particular problem for feminist scholars who are frequently criticized for assuming that they can make broad claims for all women while failing to acknowledge their own exclusive and powerful position mostly white Western and bourgeois Recent work in political and feminist thought has suggested that we can get around these paradoxes by wishing away the idea of political subjects entirely or else thinking of political identities as constantly shifting In this book Claudia Leeb argues that these are both failed ideas She instead suggests a novel idea of a subject in outline Over the course of the book Leeb grounds this concept in work by Adorno Lacan and Marx the very theorists who are often seen as denying the agency of the subject Leeb also proposes that power structures that create political subjects are never all powerful While she rejects the idea of political autonomy she shows that there is always a moment in which subjects can contest the power relations that define them
