Kip A. Wedel, 2023-05-01 Engineering is more than a number crunching business It is a matter of life and death In 1907 when engineering errors led to a Canadian bridge collapse that killed seventy five men the profession s moral obligations were stark and obvious Engineers increasingly realized that technical expertise was not enough and in 1925 a group of Canadian engineers formally and publicly promised to uphold the highest ethical standards To remind themselves of their pledge they fashioned iron rings to be worn on the outer finger Unfortunately for decades engineers in the United States had no similar institution Then on a summer day in 1970 170 engineers students and teachers met on the campus of Cleveland State University for the first ceremony of what would become the Order of the Engineer Today the stainless steel rings worn by the Order s members are recognized throughout the world as the outward sign of an inward commitment to ethical engineering This 50th Anniversary edition tells the story of the Order s origins and growth over half a century Kip A Wedel teaches American history at Bethel College in North Newton Kansas

History of the American Physiological Society John R. Brobeck, Orr E. Reynolds, Toby A. Appel, 2013-05-26 Celebrating the centennial of the American Physiological Society this new book reviews the activities during the Society s first hundred years The first section covers materials from the Society s founding in 1887 and a review of each of the first 25 year periods of the Society s existence The second section includes a chronological account of the Presidents and the Executive Secretary Treasurers Also included are chapters on membership publications meetings financial affairs educational activities organization of the Society neurophysiology relations with IUPS women in physiology use and care of laboratory animals awards and honors and the centennial celebration

History of the American Physiological Society Wallace O. Fenn, 2013-05-27 adjustment to the many dramatic changes which have occurred in the last quarter century On the whole I feel well pleased with the present status of the Society and believe that it is well prepared to cope with all the problems which may come before it We should remember however that the Society is not an end in itself but exists only to serve the physiological sciences and the most important way to do this is for each member to make his own contribution to his science as effective and illuminating as possible whether it be in teaching or research No scientific society can professionally be better than the members of which it is composed Compared to the maintenance of this standard of excellence all administrative disputes within the Society pale into insignificance The important effort must be to make sure that the American Physiological Society is not outranked in high scientific quality by any other similar group Without this high quality the recruitment of graduate students will be a problem in spite of all the career brochures or other publicity devices that money can buy More Nobel Prizes in Physiology offer the surest guarantee for the future of the Society and emphasis in the next quarter century should be put on activities that best serve that objective Record of Proceedings of

Portraits of Influential Chinese Educators Ruth Hayhoe,2007-05-11 Portraits whether graphic or verbal have distinct purposes and values Through deliberate selection they seek to reveal and thereby to illuminate In their literary form selection of content and style ensures that they do not presume to achieve the status of fully fledged biographies Even so a carefully brush stroked multi layered and richly textured pen portrait is capable of revealing much about both character and circumstance And what it reveals is likely to be different from and far more profound than any insights permitted by other miniatures such as simple snapshots or polemical caricatures Professor Ruth Hayhoe has produced a whole gallery of valuable portraits in the present book For a book in the present series however a key question remains How and why may pen portraits of eleven influential educators from a single country and within roughly the same time frame contribute significantly to the literature of comparative education My own answer to this question is simple This particular gallery makes its important contribution in two main ways and for a number of good reasons The How part of the question clearly involves process especially methodological process A portrait typically involves both foreground and background features Some of the most effective portraits seem to encourage their observers to recognize interplay between foreground and background Oxford

Malaysia and Singapore Kevin Blackburn,ZongLun Wu,2019-05-09 Decolonizing the History Curriculum in Malaysia and Singapore is a unique study in the history of education because it examines decolonization in terms of how it changed the subject of history in the school curriculum of two colonized countries Malaysia and Singapore Blackburn and Wu s book analyzes the transition of the subject of history from colonial education to postcolonial education from the history syllabus upholding the colonial order to the period after independence when the history syllabus became a tool for nation building

Malaysia and Singapore are excellent case studies of this process because they once shared a common imperial curriculum in the English language schools that was gradually decolonized to form the basis of the early history syllabuses of the new nation states they were briefly one nation state in the early to mid 1960s The colonial English language history syllabus was decolonized into a national curriculum that was translated for the Chinese Malay and Tamil schools of Malaysia and Singapore By analyzing the causes and consequences of the dramatic changes made to the teaching of history in the schools of Malaya and Singapore as Britain ended her empire in Southeast Asia Blackburn and Wu offer fascinating insights into educational reform the effects of decolonization on curricula and the history of Malaysian and Singaporean education
