George Hawley

Fertility Transition In Latin America:

The spacing and limiting components of the fertility transition in Latin America German Rodriguez,1990 The Fertility Transition in Latin America José Miguel Guzmán,1996 The 1960s saw the start of a sustained process of declining fertility in Latin America resulting from radical social attitudinal and economic changes There has been a clear trend towards more or less generalized behaviour of regulating fertility coincident with a rise in the availability and use of methods of contraception There are however important differences between and within the countries of the region which are analysed in full in this volume Whether one stratifies by demographic factors place of residence education or social status from the beginning of the transition it seems that a variety of reproductive patterns were in existence It is also clear that the process of transition is not yet complete and that in some important social groups fertility is still high This volume studies the process of transition from high to low fertility as it has occurred and is occurring in Latin America It provides a general comparative overview of transition in the region in which the link between socio economic development and declining fertility is explored There are sections on the process through which the transition occurs social determinants of fertility change and the consequences of fertility decline Large data sets from census and survey results for many countries and points in time are presented in over 150 tables and figures The comparative analyses are complemented by five individual country studies in the final section Nuptiality Trends and Fertility Transition in Latin America Luis Rosero Bixby,International Union for the Scientific Study of Population. Committee on Comparative Analysis of Fertility and Family Planning,CELADE (Organization),Centro de Estudios de Población (Buenos Aires, Argentina),1990 The role of family planning programmes in the fertility transition of Latin America Axel I. Mundigo,1990 Seminar on Fertility Transition in Latin America International Union for the Scientific Study of Population. Committee on Comparative Analysis of Fertility and Family Planning,1990 Seminar on Fertility Transition in Latin America ,1991 Conferencia Mundial de Las Encuestas de Demografia Y Salud ,1991 Seminar on Fertility transition in Latin America Union internationale pour l'étude scientifique de la population,Centro de estudios de poblacion,Centro Latinoamericano de Demografia,1992* The Changing Transitions to Adulthood in Developing Countries National Research Council,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Committee on Population,Panel on Transitions to Adulthood in Developing Countries,2006-01-08 Serving as a companion to Growing Up Global this book from the National Research Council explores how the transition to adulthood is changing in developing countries in light of globalization and what the implications of these changes might be for those responsible for designing youth policies and programs Presenting a detailed series of studies this volume both complements its precursor and makes for a useful contribution in its own right It should be of significant interest to scholars leaders of civil society and those charged with designing youth policies and programs Between Sex and Power Göran Therborn,2004-07-31 The institution of the family changed hugely during the course of the twentieth century In this major new work G ran Therborn provides a global history and sociology of the family as an institution and of politics within the family focusing on three dimensions of family relations on the rights and powers of fathers and husbands on marriage cohabitation and extra marital sexuality and on population policy Therborn s empirical analysis uses a multi disciplinary approach to show how the major family systems of the world have been formed and developed Therborn concludes by assessing what changes the family might see during the next century This book will be essential reading for anybody with an interest in either the sociology or the history of the family Demographic Transition Theory John C. Caldwell,2007-09-21

This book has a strong theoretical focus and is unique in addressing both mortality and fertility over the full span of human history It examines the demographic transition in the change in the human condition from high mortality and high fertility to low mortality and low fertility It asks if fluctuating populations is a new phenomenon or if there has long been an inherent tendency in Man to maximize survival and to control family size International Handbook of Population Policies John F.

May,Jack A. Goldstone,2022-07-01 This Handbook offers an array of internationally recognized experts essays that provide a current and comprehensive examination of all dimensions of international population policies The book examines the theoretical foundations the historical and empirical evidence for policy formation the policy levers and modelling as well as the new policy challenges The section Theoretical Foundations reviews population issues today population theories the population policies framework as well as the linkages between population development health food systems and the environment The next section Empirical Evidence discusses international approaches to design and implement population policies on a regional level The section Policy Levers and Modelling reviews the tools and the policy levers that are available to design implement monitor and measure the impact of population policies Finally the section New Policy Challenges examines the recurrent and emerging issues in population policies This section also discusses prospects for demographic sustainability as well as future considerations for population policies As such this Handbook provides an important and structured examination of contemporary population policies their evolution and their prospects A History of Family

Planning in Twentieth-Century Peru Raúl Necochea López,2014-10-15 Adding to the burgeoning study of medicine and science in Latin America this important book offers a comprehensive historical perspective on the highly contentious issues of sexual and reproductive health in an important Andean nation Ra l Necochea L pez approaches family planning as a historical phenomenon layered with medical social economic and moral implications At stake in this complex mix were new notions of individual autonomy the future of gender relations and national prosperity The implementation of Peru s first family planning programs led to a rapid professionalization of fertility control Complicating the evolution of associated medical services were the conflicting agendas of ordinary citizens power brokers from governmental and military sectors clergy and international health groups While family planning promised a greater degree of control over individuals intimate lives as well as opportunities for economic improvement through the effective management of birth rates the success of attempts to regulate fertility was far from assured Today Necochea Lopez observes although the quality of family planning resources in Peru has improved services remain far from equitably available

Pathways to African Food Security

Michiel de Haas, Ken E. Giller, 2025-01-31 This book examines Africa's current food system and future challenges for food security over the next 25 years Africa is on the rise and by 2050 the continent will be home to a quarter of the world's population The analysis presented in this book clearly shows that the African food system needs to transform at a much faster pace to ensure that the people it serves are food secure This book begins with four contrasting case studies that focus on country specific challenges in Egypt Ethiopia Senegal and Zimbabwe This is followed by 15 thematic chapters organised in three sections on challenges threats and opportunities Individual chapters address a wide range of topics including climate change water security farm sizes crop yields conservation trade offs food prices trade conflict and structural change The book concludes by discussing key pathways to improve Africa's food system and food security for the decades ahead This book is essential reading for students scholars and practitioners who work on global food security sustainable food systems food health and nutrition and African development The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Reproductive Change in India and Brazil George Martine, Monica Das Gupta, Lincoln C. Chen, 1998 A comparative study of fertility declines occurring in India and Brazil It consists of 11 papers by well known scholars from various disciplines among them demographers anthropologists and economists

Demography, Culture, and the Decline of America's Christian Denominations George Hawley, 2017-05-31 This book examines the state of Christianity in the United States considering trends in religious beliefs and affiliation over the last forty years It seeks to explain why so many of America's largest denominations have witnessed such a dramatic decline during this period It argues that although there are many elements to this decline the shrinking families of Americans including American Christians are a primary explanation for our aging and shrinking Christian congregations Beyond establishing this explanation for organized decline this book also offers a survey of the relevant research explaining why more and more Americans are deferring family formation and having fewer in many cases zero children It discusses the relevant social science research on this subject which focuses heavily on the role of economic change It also summarizes the relevant research on cultural change and the family particularly the relationship between religious beliefs and activities and changing family norms

The Future Population of the World

Wolfgang Lutz, 2013-11-05 The highly acclaimed The Future Population of the World contains the most authoritative assessment available of the extent to which population is likely to grow over the next 50 to 100 years The book provides a thorough analysis of all the components of population change and translates these factors into a series of projections for the population of the world's regions This revised and updated version incorporates completely new scenario projections based on updating starting values and revised assumptions plus several methodological improvements It also contains the best currently available information on global trends in AIDS mortality and the first ever fully probabilistic world population projections The projections given up to 2100 add important additional features to those of the UN and the World Bank they show the impacts of alternative assumptions for all three components mortality and migration as well as fertility they explicitly take into account possible environmental limits to growth and for the first time they define confidence levels for global populations Combining methodological innovation with overviews of the most recent data and literature this updated edition of The Future Population of the World is sure to conform its reputation as the most comprehensive and essential publication in the field Modern Brazil Herbert S. Klein, Francisco Vidal Luna, 2020-03-12 The first social history examining all aspects of Brazil's radical transition from a predominantly rural society to an urban one Asia Region Population Projections Rodolfo A. Bulatao, 1989 Africa Region Population Projections My T. Vu, Eduard R. Bos, Rodolfo A. Bulatao, 1989 The population of the Africa region is growing faster than the population in any other region It should double in a little more than 20 years
