Craftsman Homes Gustav Stickley, 2017-10-14 Excerpt from Craftsman Homes
Architecture and Furnishings of the American Arts and Crafts Movement
S A nation we do not easily submit to coercion We want a hand in the government national or local We are pretty direct if we do not like a senator or a governor and express our Opinion fully of our ministers and college presidents In more intimate matters of courtship and marriage we regard ourselves as more independent than any other nation We marry usually whom we please and live where we please and work as we please but when it comes to that most vital matter building a home individuality and independence seem to vanish and we are browbeaten alike by architect builder contractor interior decorator picture dealer and furniture man We live in any old house that anyone else has discarded and we submit to all manner of tyrannies as to the size style and finish of our houses impertinences that we would not permit in any other detail of life We not only imitate foreign ideals in our architecture but we have become artificial and unreal in all the detail of the finish and fittings of our homes How many of us would dare to rise up and assert sufficient individuality to plan and build a house that exactly suited our personal ideal of comfort and beauty and represented our station in life And to what extent can we hope for finer ideals in a country that is afraid to be sincere in that most significant feature of national achievement the home We are a country of self supporting men and women and we cannot expect to develop an honest significant architecture until we build homes that are simple yet beautiful that proclaim fine democratic standards and that are essentially appropriate to busy intelligent people That this same state of affairs prevails somewhat in other lands though nowhere to the same extent as in America we realize from the writing of two well known English architects Barry Parker and Raymond Unwin who in a series of lectures published under the title of The Art of Building a Home have entered a plea for greater honesty in architecture and greater sincerity in decoration which ought to strike a responsive chord in the heart of every American who has contemplated the foolish unthinking artificial structures which we have vainly called homes About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
