Parliament: House of Commons: Business, Innovation and Skills Committee, Adrian Bailey, 2011-11-10 This report concludes that the Government's communications strategy on tuition fees could have been more effectively realised It urges the government to reconsider funding widening participation in higher education through a programme similar to the pupil premium The committee also concluded that focusing financial support on providing money for living costs to students while they are studying would be a more effective means of support than fee waivers and would be more consistent with the message that students should not be dissuaded from applying to university because of the cost and recommends that the National Scholarship Programme be refocused accordingly Furthermore reforms are not yet complete with a number of consultation exercises currently out for responses including early repayment penalties for loans the future of student number controls loans for students studying at alternative providers off quota students and a new regulatory framework for new and alternative providers The detail to be required in the Key Information Sets has yet to be finalised There will also need to be changes to both OFFA and HEFCE to reflect their changing responsibilities in higher education The committee highlights the fact that the new fee regime is to start at the beginning of the next academic year and there is concern that the necessary coherent package of reforms be delivered to that timetable The report also stresses that the reforms should be implemented as a package and not in a piecemeal way

Educational Reform in Europe Richard R. Verdugo, 2014-10-01 Education is a contested terrain The symmetry of education reform among the seven countries examined in this volume is remarkable There is much commonality in the issues they raise in the competing groups battling over education policy their policy choices and the implementation of such policies Also all seven countries address the same issues equity global competition the performance of their students There are at least six important traits characterizing these battles the context the combatants the issues the process and the policies To begin with history culture and governance regime set the context for education policy and reform Second there is the process of how these battles are waged is compromise an outcome or is it a zero sum contest Third there appear to be four groups of combatants each with its own ideology representing a particular social class in society and their views about education and its uses Conservatives Socialists Neo Liberals and Elites Education is an important and valued resource that each status group tries to control and shape to its own views Fourth there are key issues that drive education reform how education can best flatten a social system how education train students for work and how education socializes students to be functioning citizens In recent years fifth issue has emerged student performance on international standardized tests Not only is a society s international reputation based on their students performance but nations see such performance as an indicator of the quality of their educational system and if it is good enough to secure its economic future Finally there are the policies themselves do they reduce or increase inequality who benefits and how The chapters in this volume clearly point out that education reform is not a homogeneous process as some scholars have conjectured Rather education reform involves heated battles over the control of the educational system because education is seen as a key factor in maintaining a society s vision and social structure
