this rich and evolving field of study Alexandria in Late Antiquity Christopher Haas, 2006-11-15 Haas explores the broad avenues and back alleys of Alexandria's neighborhoods, its suburbs and waterfront and aspects of material culture that underlay Alexandrian social and intellectual life. Selected by Choice Magazine as an Outstanding Academic Title, Second only to Rome in the ancient world, Alexandria was home to many of late antiquity's most brilliant writers, philosophers, and theologians among them Philo, Origen, Arius, Athanasius, Hypatia, Cyril, and John Philoponus. Now in Alexandria in Late Antiquity, Christopher Haas offers the first book to place these figures within the physical and social context of Alexandria's bustling urban milieu. Because of its clear demarcation of communal boundaries, Alexandria provides the modern historian with an ideal opportunity to probe the multicultural makeup of an ancient urban unit. Haas explores the broad avenues and back alleys of Alexandria's neighborhoods, its suburbs and waterfront and aspects of material culture that underlay Alexandrian social and intellectual life. Organizing his discussion around the city's religious and ethnic blocs, Jews, pagans, and Christians, he details the fiercely competitive nature of Alexandrian social dynamics. In contrast to recent scholarship which cites Alexandria as a model for peaceful coexistence within a culturally diverse community, Haas finds that the diverse groups struggled for social dominance and cultural hegemony, often resulting in violence and bloodshed, a volatile situation frequently exacerbated by imperial intervention on one side or the other. Eventually, Haas concludes, Alexandrian society achieved a certain stability and reintegration, a process that resulted in the transformation of Alexandrian civic identity during the crucial centuries between antiquity and the Middle Ages.

The Sheikh's House at Quseir al-Qadim Katherine Strange Burke, 2021-04-30 This study of a thirteenth-century dwelling on Egypt's Red Sea Coast draws on multiple lines of evidence, including texts excavated at the site, to reconstruct a history of the structure and the people who dwelt within. The inhabitants participated in Nile Valley, Red Sea, Indian Ocean trade; transported pilgrims; sent grain to Mecca and Medina; and wrote sermons and amulets for the local faithful. These activities are detailed in the documents and fleshed out in the botanical, faunal, artifact, and stratigraphic evidence from the University of Chicago's excavations, 1978-82. This compound eventually consisted of two houses and a row of storerooms and became the center of mercantile activity at Quseir al-Qadim. Over time, as the number of named individuals who received shipping notes addressed to the warehouse of Ab Mufarij increased, living rooms and storerooms were added to accommodate this expansion of commerce. While most merchants were dealing in textiles, dates, and grains, additional commodities traded included perfumes, gemstone, decorated textiles, resist-dyed textiles, and porcelains. Specialist studies by Steven Goodman on the avian faunal remains and Wilma Wetterstrom on the macrobotanical finds reveal that the compound's occupants enjoyed a diet of chicken and Nile Valley produce such as grapes and watermelon, and they were supplemented by high-priced imports: nuts and fruits from around the Mediterranean, along with medicinal plants from as far away as India, indicate the wealth and status of this family of merchants. The evidence from this small portion of Quseir al-Qadim yields a rich local story that is a microcosm of Nile Valley, Red Sea, Indian Ocean trade.
