Future Cities:

Inventing Future Cities Michael Batty, 2018-12-11 How we can invent but not predict the future of cities We cannot predict future cities but we can invent them Cities are largely unpredictable because they are complex systems that are more like organisms than machines Neither the laws of economics nor the laws of mechanics apply cities are the product of countless individual and collective decisions that do not conform to any grand plan They are the product of our inventions they evolve In Inventing Future Cities Michael Batty explores what we need to understand about cities in order to invent their future Batty outlines certain themes principles that apply to all cities He investigates not the invention of artifacts but inventive processes Today form is becoming ever more divorced from function information networks now shape the traditional functions of cities as places of exchange and innovation By the end of this century most of the world's population will live in cities large or small sometimes contiguous and always connected in an urbanized world it will be increasingly difficult to define a city by its physical boundaries Batty discusses the coming great transition from a world with few cities to a world of all cities argues that future cities will be defined as clusters in a hierarchy describes the future high frequency real time streaming city considers urban sprawl and urban renewal and maps the waves of technological change which grow ever more intense and lead to continuous innovation an unending process of creative destruction out of which future cities will emerge

Future Cities Paul Dobraszczyk, 2025-03-15 Brings together architecture fiction film and visual art to reconnect the imaginary city with the real proposing a future for humanity that is firmly grounded in the present and the diverse creative practices already at our fingertips Though reaching ever further toward the skies today's cities are overshadowed by multiple threats climate change overpopulation social division and urban warfare all endanger our metropolitan way of life The fundamental tool we use to make sense of these uncertain city futures is the imagination Architects artists filmmakers and fiction writers have long been inspired to imagine cities of the future but their speculative visions tend to be seen very differently from scientific predictions flights of fancy on the one hand versus practical reasoning on the other In a digital age when the real and the fantastic coexist as near equals it is especially important to know how these two forces are entangled and how together they may help us best conceive of cities yet to come Exploring a breathtaking range of imagined cities submerged floating flying vertical underground ruined and salvaged Future Cities teases out the links between speculation and reality arguing that there is no clear separation between the two In the Netherlands prototype floating cities are already being built Dubai's recent skyscrapers resemble those of science fiction cities of the past while makeshift settlements built by the urban poor in the developing world are already like the dystopian cities of cyberpunk
