Simopoulos,Ramesh Venkataramana Bhat,2000 This publication focuses on street foods in selected developed and developing countries including information on nutritional economic safety and regulatory aspects and comparing consumption patterns as well as the profiles of the street food vendor in different cultures Street foods are inexpensive and available foods that in many countries form an integral part of the diet because they are consumed with regularity and consistency across all income groups but particularly among the urban poor and schoolchildren The street food trade is large and complex providing an important means of generating income particularly for women and it is an affordable source of food for many millions of people Street foods have therefore been considered as a way of reducing problems of urban food insecurity and as a possible vehicle for micronutrient supplementation Scientists and policy makers in the areas of international health nutrition food and trade as well as physicians nutritionists dietitians food scientists anthropologists sociologists will particularly benefit from this publication

Consumption and Market Society in Israel Kalman Applbaum, Yoram S. Carmeli, 2020-05-26 Over the past two decades Israel has been remaking itself in line with the commercial models of Western market societies Nowhere is this trend more evident than in private consumption patterns Most Israelis crave parity with Western lifestyles private automobiles mobile phones spacious housing fashionably furnished accessibility to shopping malls and leisure travel abroad Alongside these new aspirations internationally branded commodities and franchises such as McDonald's Office Depot Benetton IKEA and Toys R Us increasingly feature in the Israeli landscape and advertising has emerged as a primary vehicle for persuasion competition and cultural expression This book is the first to explore fully the significance of these transformations The authors show how different groups kibbutzniks Israeli Arabs Ultra Orthodox Jews new immigrants and middle class Israelis alternately exhibit a suspicion towards and enthusiasm for the enhanced individual freedoms of a consumer market society Lifestyle consumerism is recognized as an alien import potentially disruptive of the ethos of communality common destiny and national purpose At the same time because consumption helps unite diverse groups to the greater whole of the nation the globe and modernity it conveys a sense of normalcy and affluence in a time of major social transition and political turmoil Consumption and Market Society in Israel is not only innovative in its research but it is a timely contribution to a hotly debated topic

Jesus and Israel's Traditions of Judgement and Restoration Steven M. Bryan, 2002-05-02 Jesus and Israel's Traditions of Judgement and Restoration examines the eschatology of Jesus by evaluating his appropriation of sacred traditions related to Israel's restoration It addresses the way in which Jesus' future expectations impinged upon his understanding of key features of Jewish society Scholars have long debated the degree to which Jesus' eschatology can be said to have been realized This 2002 book considers Jesus' expectations regarding key constitutional features of the eschaton the shape of the people of God purity Land and Temple Bryan shows that Jesus' anticipation of coming national judgement led him to use Israel's sacred traditions in ways that differed significantly from their use by his contemporaries This did not lead Jesus to the conviction that Israel's restoration had been delayed Instead he employed Israel's traditions to support a different understanding of restoration and a belief that the time of restoration had arrived
