The Life of Lines Tim Ingold, 2015-03-27 To live every being must put out a line and in life these lines tangle with one another This book is a study of the life of lines Following on from Tim Ingold's groundbreaking work Lines A Brief History it offers a wholly original series of meditations on life ground weather walking imagination and what it means to be human In the first part Ingold argues that a world of life is woven from knots and not built from blocks as commonly thought He shows how the principle of knotting underwrites both the way things join with one another in walls buildings and bodies and the composition of the ground and the knowledge we find there In the second part Ingold argues that to study living lines we must also study the weather To complement a linealogy that asks what is common to walking weaving observing singing storytelling and writing he develops a meteorology that seeks the common denominator of breath time mood sound memory colour and the sky This denominator is the atmosphere In the third part Ingold carries the line into the domain of human life He shows that for life to continue the things we do must be framed within the lives we undergo In continually answering to one another these lives enact a principle of correspondence that is fundamentally social This compelling volume brings our thinking about the material world refreshingly back to life While anchored in anthropology the book ranges widely over an interdisciplinary terrain that includes philosophy geography sociology art and architecture
