

RHETORICAL METHODS IN THE FINANCE AND ECONOMICS DISCOURSE COMMUNITIES

A discourse community is a group of people who convey thoughts about a certain issue using the same vocabulary and shared knowledge. The finance industry is a good illustration of a highly restricted discourse group that makes it exceedingly challenging to join without any education or expertise. Many of the rhetorical techniques used in the discourse communities of economics and finance are similar. Examples include the use of mathematical models and very precise vocabulary. In order to successfully convey fresh ideas within specialised areas, these communities use various tactics, which are examined in this research. For instance, the term "equity" is used in communities of financial discourse to refer to an ownership interest in a company represented by common stock; nevertheless, the term "equity" may have several meanings depending on the situation. Due to their ignorance of the vocabulary being employed, those outside of this group may misunderstand concepts. The exact nature of the diction developed for use in scientific publications may be confusing to anyone outside of this group. The exclusive use of diction is immediately apparent in the abstract of the article, "Corporate expansion during pro-market reforms in emerging
