Donovan,2017-05-08 The time has come You are an Earth scientist You ve spent weeks months years working on this project now is the time to pull it together for publication You might be writing an undergraduate or graduate thesis a research paper for a leading journal a note for the newsletter of the local amateur scientific society a book review or an abstract for a specialist geological conference How do you make the transition from promising unpublished researcher to established academic author Of course the phrase academic publishing covers a multitude of sins monographs research papers book reviews conference abstracts or whatever each requires a different approach You have to decide what it is you are going to write and where to publish it There are co authors supervisors of your degree peer reviewers and editors to deal with on the way But the only way to write like an academic is to write like an academic where do you start You could do much worse than start here There are many books on how to write and be published aimed at research students and other aspiring academics Many of these are readable comprehensive and provide good advice This book is composed of numerous short chapters on this subject all directly relevant to one or more aspects of academic publishing and aimed particularly at the Earth scientists in the broadest sense Geologists will be encouraged to use the book as much as a reference as a reader dipping in to the chapters that contain relevant tips hints and comments to enable them to improve the paper that they are currently writing The book is intended to be informative readable and above all of practical application for all readers In summary the volume will be a readable compilation investigating many facets of academic publishing relevant to the Earth sciences It will be of particular interest to postgraduate students postdocs and new academics The Sacred Neuron John Bowker,2005-02-25 Why do we think that things happen in the way that they do Why do we think that some things are beautiful and other things ugly Why do we think that some things are good and other things evil Why do we think that some things are true and other things false These are old and traditional questions In the past they have been answered by separating our emotional from our rational responses But recent work in the neurosciences suggests that the questions now deserve very different answers In his fascinating and original new book John Bowker shows that reason and emotion work much more closely together in forming human opinions and judgements than has previously been supposed This discovery has stunning implications for the increasingly dangerous relationship between different religions and cultures and also for the human sense of God The Sacred Neuron is a masterful survey of some key topics in science and religion which will be sure to amaze and delight the author's many admirers Whether goodness will survive modernity is one of the most urgent questions of our age In this lucid and erudite work John Bowker discovers the surprising outlines of an answer Bryan Appleyard author and journalist Never was a book more timely for the world Just when it seems that moral absolutes have either been swept away or have staged a frightening and unyielding comeback John Bowker steps forward to explain how we can find some sure footing in the world of aesthetic and moral ambiguities Citing the latest scientific research and drawing on cultural references that range from Stravinsky to Bertrand Russell and from George Orwell to John Betjeman he offers us new insights into how we can claim something is beautiful or something is good Then with meticulous scholarship he traces the origin of religions in the human community and explains how and why the need for them persists The Sacred Neuron is a seriously impressive book Joan Bakewell writer and broadcaster Scholarship of this quality is so rare particularly in the domain of science and religion Bowker's discussion of truth and its relevance to an understanding of the world's religions and the animosities between them is replete with a poignant wisdom born of his great understanding of so many religious traditions The Sacred Neuron is an eloquent testimony to the value of informed interdisciplinary reflection John Hedley Brooke Andreas Idreos Professor of Science and Religion University of Oxford The Sacred Neuron is a rare mixture of intellectual religious aesthetic and ethical history and theology all enhanced by John Bowker's special compound of meticulous scholarship and deep faith The book is brave and broad Reading it mingles fascination with pleasure Peter Hennessy Attlee Professor of Contemporary History Queen Mary University of London The Sacred Neuron is one of the first books to take seriously the impact of modern neuroscience on how our perception of the external world must affect our understanding of emotion rationality ethics and religion With great charm and humour and with extraordinary breadth of scholarship Bowker shows how religious experience might be said to have meaning in the twenty first century His book will become a classic Mark Williams Professor of Clinical Psychology University of Oxford

Elizabeth J. Done,2014-09-26 In this unique book Liz Done undertakes an affective thought provoking nomadic inquiry into the doctoral process in which she engages with the writings of Deleuze Cixous Nietzsche Foucault and many others The paradox of learning as thoroughly relational but simultaneously implying the radical specificity of every learner s experience is unpacked in a text that is careful to explain the ideas and theories that are mobilised As a pedagogic intervention the book seeks to raise questions not answer them but ultimately offers a very powerful statement about the value of education as learning and its capacity to transform a life Academic production is revealed as a situated embedded relational and complex process The book's rhizomatic threads include transgressing linear neopositivist models doing something different with theory the importance of free experimentation and memory as both mobility and freedom Braidotti's nomadic subjectivity and Gannon's refusal to be pinned down in a bid for intellectual purity were also mobilised in the writing of this text It performs the inclusive potential of Deleuzian and feminist poststructuralist thought insisting on a scholarship that is about open inquiry adventure and learning as multiplicity It is untimely as Deleuze might say in its contemporary relevance Science Patricia Fara, 2009 Science A Four Thousand Year History rewrites science's past Instead of focussing on difficult experiments and abstract theories Patricia Fara shows how science has always belonged to the practical world of war politics and business Rather than glorifying scientists as idealized heroes she tells true stories about real people men and some women who needed to earn their living who made mistakes and who trampled down their rivals in their quest for success Fara sweeps through the centuries from ancient Babylon right up to the latest hi tech experiments in genetics and particle physics illuminating the financial interests imperial ambitions and publishing enterprises that have made science the powerful global phenomenon that it is today She also ranges internationally illustrating the importance of scientific projects based around the world from China to the Islamic empire as well as the more familiar tale of science in Europe from Copernicus to Charles Darwin and beyond Above all this four thousand year history challenges scientific supremacy arguing controversially that science is successful not because it is always right but because people have said that it is right One Hundred Patents That Shaped the Modern World David Segal, 2019-02-14 What would our world today be like without inventions like tarmac aspirin liquid crystals and barbed wire This guide shows how patents and the inventions they describe have shaped the 21st century It gives us insights into the inventions big and small that have had huge impacts many unexpected on multiple spheres of our lives from popular culture and entertainment to global health to transportation to the waging of war It features patent documents that date from the mid 19th century to the present Patent documents describe inventions and represent an accurate and rich source of information about the history and current state of modern technology as patents are examined and their accuracy can be challenged The subject matter covers many technical areas Patents discussed include for example Morse code the diode triode transistors television frozen foods ring pull for soft drink cans board games such as Monopoly gene editing metamaterials MRI computerised tomography insulin and monoclonal antibodies such as Herceptin The text is illustrated with drawings adapted from the original patent documents Patent numbers are included to allow interested readers to trace the documents Inventions described in the patents are placed in historical perspective For example the book discusses the role of the cavity magnetron and radar in World War II and the influence of the diode on the development of broadcasting at the beginning of the 20th century Essentials of Utilization-Focused Evaluation Michael Quinn Patton, 2012 Provides both an overall framework and concrete advice for how to conduct useful evaluations that actually get used preface Philosophy and the Sciences of Exercise, Health and

Sport Mike McNamee, 2004-06-01 Philosophy and the Sciences of Exercise Health and Sport is a unique interdisciplinary study that calls on researchers in these disciplines to reflect more critically on the nature and aims of scientific enquiry In doing so the book questions the underlying assumptions and development of science itself Written by a range of internationally respected philosophers scientists and social scientists each chapter addresses a key issue in research methodology Questions asked by the authors include Do natural and social scientists need to understand the philosophy of science Are statistics misused in sport and exercise science research Is sport science research gender biased How do external and commercial interests skew professional guidelines in health and sport research Should scientists focus their attention on confirmation of theories or on attempts to falsify them Philosophy and the Sciences of Exercise Health and Sport serves notice to exercise health and sport researchers to think more philosophically about their subject and its scientific bases It is essential reading for postgraduate researchers seeking to establish a sound theoretical foundation for their work
