Overview of the Conservation Status of Wetlands of the Northern Territory Michael Jonathan Storrs,1996 Wetlands of the World I: Inventory, Ecology and Management Dennis F. Whigham,D. Dykyjová,S. Hejný,2013-03-09 The impetus for this volume was the 2nd International Wetlands Conference which was held in June 1984 at Trebon Czechoslovakia An overview of the worlds wetlands was one of the themes of the conference and it was decided that a useful follow up would be a publication on the same topic The initial goal was to cover as many of the worlds wetlands as possible in one volume and to have an emphasis on wetland ecology biota classification and management Individuals who made presentations at the Trebon conference were asked to prepare chapters and the editors also solicited other contributions For a variety of reasons the initial goal has been difficult to reach especially coverage of the entire globe and it has been necessary to publish the contributions in more than one volume Volume 1 represents the completion of the first phase of the project and it covers most of the Western Hemisphere Australia most of Africa the Indian subcontinent the Mediterranean region and Papua New Guinea Volume 2 will contain chapters on Western Europe Northern Europe Central Europe most of northern and It is our hope that Volume western Asia the Middle East and Indonesia 2 will appear in the near future and if possible a third volume will be published if authors can be secured to cover areas such as the Far East other parts of the Indo Pacific region and New Zealand Frog Day Martha L.

Crump, 2024-10-15 An illustrated hourly guide that follows twenty four frogs as they eat find mates care for their young and survive our harsh and changing planet In this short book celebrated biologist Marty Crump leads readers on a worldwide field trip in search of frogs Each chapter of Frog Day covers a single frog during a single hour highlighting how twenty four different species spend their time Our day begins at midnight in Indonesia with the rustle of leaves above It s not a bird but Wallace s flying frog using its webbed feet and emerald green skin flaps to glide through the forest canopy In the early hours of the morning we hear a horned marsupial frog bopping and a wood frog quacking to attract mates At six o clock in the morning beneath a streetlight in Honolulu we meet a corpulent invasive cane toad slurping insects and sometimes snakes lizards turtles birds and mice At noon we watch parenting in action as an African bullfrog bulldozes a path through the mud to free his tadpoles from a drying pond At dusk in a Peruvian rain forest we observe the ultimate odd couple a hairy tarantula and what looks like a tiny amphibian pet taking shelter in the spider s burrow Other frogs make a tasty meal for this tarantula but the dotted humming frog is a friend eating the ants that might otherwise make a meal of the tarantula s eggs For each hour in our Frog Day award winning artist Tony Angell has depicted these scenes with his signature pen and ink illustrations Working closely together to narrate and illustrate these unique moments in time Crump and Angell have created an engaging read that is a perfect way to spend an hour or two and a true gift for readers amateur scientists and all frog fans

Tropical Ecosystems in Australia Dilwyn Griffiths, 2019-11-07

Over the last century, the world has lived through changes more rapid than those experienced at any other time in human history, leading to pressing environmental problems and demands on the world's finite resources. Nowhere is this more evident than across the world's warm belt, a region likely to have the greatest problems and which is home to some of the world's most disadvantaged people. This book reviews aspects of the biology of tropical ecosystems of northern Australia as they have been affected by climatic, social, and land use changes. Tropical Australia can be regarded as a microcosm of the world's tropics and, as such, shares with other tropical regions many of the conflicts between various forms of development and environmental considerations. The book draws on a wide range of case studies of tropical Australian ecosystems, ranging from coastal coral reefs and mangroves, known to be among the most vulnerable to the effects of the imposed changes, to cropping and pasture lands, which, under careful management, have the potential to remain as productive and sustainable agricultural or forestry ecosystems. Expert author Dilwyn Griffiths emphasizes the importance of maintaining an active program for the establishment and management of national parks and environmental reserves, describes the effects of mining and other forms of industrial and urban development, with particular reference to mine site rehabilitation, explores problems relating to the restoration of marginally uneconomic farming land, and discusses alternative forms of land use, such as carbon farming through photosynthetically driven carbon sequestration. This accessible reference work should find a place in educational libraries at all levels and become an essential resource for environmentalists and anyone with interests in various forms of land use and development.
