From Girls In Their Elements To Women In Science Rethinking Socialization Through Memory Work:

From Girls in Their Elements to Women in Science Judith S. Kaufman, 2003 Annotation Through memory work participants acquire consciousness of how they see feel and think about the world in particular ways In this text five female American scholars use memory work to learn about their socialization in relation to the natural world and therefore to science After explaining the theoretical background and methodology of memory work the authors describe the themes emerging from the analysis of their memories As a result of the project while all are critical of a science based in empiricism and positivism they have been able to bring science to a personal level of experience and now find it possible to conceive of science in new ways For educators scientists feminists and general readers Annotation c 2003 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com The Meaning of Sexual Identity in the Twenty-First Century Judith S. Kaufman, 2014-06-12

Something happened in the 1990s a group of people who were perceived as radical and unmentionable were transformed into a group of people who deserved human rights and if you looked close enough were normal just like everybody else John DOCO Emilio 2002 Had a post gay era Ghaziani 2011 begun And if so how might this impact on the meaning of sexual identity and a political movement steeped in identity politics Have the LGBT youth of today been duped into conformity because

Community Engagement in Higher Education W. James Jacob, Stewart E. Sutin, John C. Weidman, John L. Yeager, 2015-06-17 There seems to be renewed interest in having universities and other higher education institutions engage with their communities at the local national and international levels But what is community engagement Even if this interest is genuine and widespread there are many different concepts of community service outreach and engagement The wide range of activity encompassed by community engagement suggests that a precise definition of the community mission is difficult and organizing and coordinating such activities is a complex task This edited volume includes 18 chapters that explore conceptual understandings of community engagement and higher education reforms and initiatives intended to foster it Contributors provide empirical research findings including several case study examples that respond to the following higher education community engagement issues What is the community and what does it need and expect from higher education institutions Is community engagement a mission of all types of higher education institutions or should it be the mission of specific institutions such as regional or metropolitan universities technical universities community colleges or indigenous institutions while other institutions such as major research universities should concentrate on national and global research agendas and on educating internationally competent researchers and professionals How can a university be global and at the same time locally relevant Is it or should it be left to the institutions to determine the scope and mode of their community engagement or is a state mandate preferable and feasible If community engagement or community service are mandatory what are the consequences of not complying with the mandate How effective are policy mandates and university engagement for regional and local economic development What are the principal features and relationships of regionally engaged universities Is community engagement to be left to faculty members and students who are particularly socially engaged and locally embedded or is it or should it be made mandatory for both faculty and students How can community engagement be better integrated with the other two traditional missions of the university research and teaching Cover image The Towering Four fold Mission of Higher Education by Natalie Jacob

Transatlantic Conversations Mary Evans, 2016-02-24 The second wave of feminism which challenged and changed many assumptions about the world in which we live was a product of various western cultures with no single country possessing a monopoly on the writing of the texts that became the canonical statements of the new feminism Though many of the contributions to feminist scholarship that went on to become internationally significant hailed from Europe and the United States these works were often formed within the context of local debates and framed within traditions of feminism and other political engagements specific to these nations Transatlantic Conversations explores the differences yielded by such conditions and their consequences for the meaning of feminism Examining the meaning and implications of the different ways in which various shared categories have been treated on both sides of the Atlantic this volume both analyses differences within feminism and provides a framework for the wider discussion of what is sometimes assumed to be the homogeneity of The West With leading scholars from either side of the Atlantic presenting brand new work Transatlantic Conversations suggests directions for future research which will be of interest to scholars of feminism gender studies sociology political science and international relations geography and cultural studies as well as anyone concerned with the ways in which the different political and intellectual traditions of Europe and the US have shaped current political and intellectual debates
