

A close-up photograph of an artist's palette. The palette is a light-colored, possibly wooden or plastic, surface with various colors of paint smeared and pooled on it. The colors include shades of red, orange, yellow, green, blue, and grey. The paint is applied in thick, textured strokes, suggesting active use. The background is slightly blurred, focusing attention on the paint and the text.

From Earth To Art:

From Earth to Art, 2022-06-08 From Earth to Art presents papers from the Early Medieval Plant Studies symposium a meeting designed to explore the various disciplines which could help to elucidate the plant names of Anglo Saxon England many of which are not understood The range of disciplines represented includes landscape history place name studies botany archaeology art history Old English literature the history of food and of medicine and linguistic approaches such as semantics and morphology This collection represents a first experimental step in the work of the Anglo Saxon Plant Name Survey ASPNS a multidisciplinary research project based in the University of Glasgow ASPNS is dedicated to collecting and reviewing for the first time the total multidisciplinary evidence for each plant name and establishing new or improved identifications The results will have implications for various historical studies such as agriculture pharmacology nutrition climate dialect and more Included in the book is the first ASPNS word study concerned with the Old English word spe the ancestor of aspen and it is shown that this tree name had a broader meaning than has hitherto been suspected This book will be of interest to historians botanists archaeologists linguists geographers gardeners herbalists conservationists and anyone interested in the crucial role of plants in history

The Ethics of Earth Art Amanda Boetzkes, 2013-11-30 Since its inception in the 1960s the earth art movement has sought to make visible the elusive presence of nature Though most often associated with monumental land based sculptures earth art encompasses a wide range of media from sculpture body art performances and installations to photographic interventions public protest art and community projects In The Ethics of Earth Art Amanda Boetzkes analyzes the development of the earth art movement arguing that such diverse artists as Robert Smithson Ana Mendieta James Turrell Jackie Brookner Olafur Eliasson Basia Irland and Ichi Ikeda are connected through their elucidation of the earth as a domain of ethical concern Boetzkes contends that in basing their works relationship to the natural world on receptivity rather than representation earth artists take an ethical stance that counters both the instrumental view that seeks to master nature and the Romantic view that posits a return to a mythical state of unencumbered continuity with nature By incorporating receptive surfaces into their work film footage of glaring sunlight an aperture in a chamber that opens to the sky or a porous armature on which vegetation grows earth artists articulate the dilemma of representation that nature presents Revealing the fundamental difference between the human world and the earth Boetzkes shows that earth art mediates the sensations of nature while allowing nature itself to remain irreducible to human signification

Speaking Beyond Earth Paul E. Quast, David Dunér, 2024-04-03 Since the dawn of the Space Age small cohorts of humanity have broadcast signals towards other stars fabricated space time capsules to speak for Earth aboard interstellar probes deposited collections of space oddities on other astronomical bodies and permanently incised the memory of our species across the deep time legacy of the Sol System Many of these purposeful messages are the consequence of age old behaviors traditions and material practices using modern aerospace technologies Most attempt to preserve narratives of human experience in social exchange devices for imagined exotic audiences Looking back upon this accumulative history of messaging from Earth how do we begin to interpret such an eclectic portrait of Earth for ourselves Surveying and cataloguing the variety of these artifacts through a series of interdisciplinary essays and visual documentation this volume chronicles our changing relationships customs and assumptions made within this material culture for our own eyes What do these autobiographical accounts tell us about Terrans and our minds set against the backdrop of our planetary history

New Practices - New Pedagogies Malcolm Miles, 2004-11-23 With radical changes happening in arts over the past two decades this book brings us up to date with the social and economic contexts in which the arts are produced Influential and knowledgeable leaders in the field debate how arts education particularly in visual art has changed to meet new needs or shape new futures for its production and reception Opening up areas of thought previously unexplored in arts and education this book introduces students of visual culture performance studies and art and design to broad contextual frameworks new directions in practice and finally gives detailed cases from and insights into a changing pedagogy
