spanned six decades of film history A Companion to Fritz Lang Joe McElhaney, 2015-01-27 A Companion to Fritz Lang Fritz Lang s movie making spans a major part of the history of cinema across genres styles and national contexts With smartness and sharpness the essays in this essential volume come from many angles to capture the richness of Lang s cinema and bring great insight to its study Dana Polan Cinema Studies NYU Fritz Lang s influence on cinema cannot be overstated with a career that stretched from the silent era in Germany to the decline of the Hollywood studio system in the late 1950s from the Weimar Republic to Nazi Germany from Depression America to the McCarthy era One of the best known migr s from Germany s school of Expressionism Lang is also credited with influencing the emergence of film noir A Companion to Fritz Lang offers the first full scale collection of scholarship available in English on one of the most important filmmakers of all time Addressing much of Lang s voluminous body of work from Metropolis and M to lesser known titles such as Western Union and Clash by Night this volume offers a superb overview of Lang s cinema with revealing insights into his enduring influence on directors such as Godard Scorsese Chabrol and Tarantino The two dozen essays presented here are an unrivaled and up to the minute assessment of the prolific and resilient life and vision of one of cinema s greatest auteurs

Roots of Film Noir Kevin Grant, 2022-11-29 Individual reviews of 90 films created and released before 1941 are included here in the first title by title reference guide to the forerunners of film noir Silent Hitchcock thrillers and German expressionist masterpieces French poetic realist dramas and forgotten Hollywood B movies pseudo Freudian gangster films and costume melodramas are among the works covered The collection spans subgenres and cultures of filmmaking aiming to demonstrate that the roots of noir were sown far and wide long before the lasting and mysterious genre flowered in America during the war years M Anton Kaes,2021-03-25 Fritz Lang's M 1931 is an undisputed classic of world cinema Lang considered it his most lasting work Peter Lorre's extraordinary performance as the childlike misfit Hans Beckert was one of the most striking of film debuts and it made him an international star Lang's vision of a city gripped with fear haunted by surveillance and total mobilization is still remarkably powerful today And M resonates too in the serial killer genre which is so prominent in contemporary cinema M speaks to us as a timeless classic but also as a Weimar film that has too often been isolated from its political and cultural context In this groundbreaking book Anton Kaes reconnects M's much studied formal brilliance to its significance as an event in 1931 Germany recapturing the film's extraordinary social and symbolic energy Interweaving close reading with cultural history Kaes reconstitutes M as a crucial modernist artwork In addition he analyzes Joseph Losey's 1951 film noir remake and in an appendix publishes for the first time M's missing scene East

The Death of Classical Cinema Joe McElhaney, 2012-02-01 The Death of Classical Cinema uncovers the extremely rich yet insufficiently explored dialogue between classical and modernist cinema examining the work of three classical filmmakers Alfred Hitchcock Fritz Lang and Vincente Minnelli and the films they made during the decline of the traditional Hollywood studio system Faced with the significant challenges posed by alternative art cinema and modernist filmmaking practices in the early 1960s these directors responded with films that were self conscious attempts at keeping pace with the developments in film modernism

These films Lang's The Thousand Eyes of Dr Mabuse, Hitchcock's Marnie and Minnelli's Two Weeks in Another Town were widely regarded as failures at the time and bolstered critics' claims concerning the irrelevance of their directors in relation to contemporary filmmaking. However, author Joe McElhaney sheds new light on these films by situating them in relation to such acclaimed modernist works of the period as Godard's Contempt, Fellini's La dolce vita, Antonioni's Red Desert and Resnais's Last Year at Marienbad. He finds that these modernist films rather than being diametrically opposed in form to the work of Hitchcock, Lang and Minnelli are in fact profoundly linked to them.

The Third Reich on Screen, 1929-2015 Bob Herzberg, 2016-11-23 For more than 80 years images of the Third Reich have appeared in newsreels, documentaries and fictional stories from comedies and musicals to war, horror and science fiction films. Many of these representations say as much about the filmmakers as they do about Nazism itself. Hollywood often used the brutal Nazi as an all-purpose villain in escapist adventures set during and after the war but just as often used him to attack the evil he symbolized. Drawing on studio files, correspondence of the Production Code office and the writings of noted historians and critics, this book describes the making of many such films produced in Hollywood, Nazi Germany, the Soviet Union and Eastern Bloc nations. Biographies of several military and political figures who served as the basis for Nazi characters compare the cinematic and real-life versions.

Artificial Generation Christina Parker-Flynn, 2021-11-19 Artificial Generation Photogenic French Literature and the Prehistory of Cinematic Modernity investigates the intersection of film theory and nineteenth-century literature, arguing that the depth of amalgamation that occurred within literary representation during this era aims to replicate an illusion of life and its sensations in ways directly related to broader transitions into our modern cinematic age. A key part of this evolution in representation relies on the continual re-emergence of the artificial woman as long-standing expression of masculine artistic subjectivity, which by the later nineteenth century becomes a photographic and filmic drive. Moving through the beginning of film history from Georges Méliès and other silent filmmakers in the 1890s into more contemporary movies including Alfred Hitchcock's Vertigo (1958) and Blade Runner (2049), the book analyzes how films are often structured around the prior century's mythic and literary principles which now serve as foundation for film as medium, a phantom form for life's representation. Artificial Generation provides a crucial reassessment of the long-standing mutual exchange between cinematic and literary reproduction, offering an innovative perspective on the proto-cinematic imperative of simulation within nineteenth-century literary symbolism.

Cinema and Language Loss Tijana Mamula, 2013-03-05 Cinema and Language Loss provides the first sustained exploration of the relationship between linguistic displacement and visuality in the filmic realm, examining in depth both its formal expressions and theoretical implications. Combining insights from psychoanalysis, philosophy and film theory, the author argues that the move from one linguistic environment to another profoundly destabilizes the subject's relation to both language and reality, resulting in the search for a substitute for language in vision itself, a reversal as it were of speaking into seeing. The dynamics of this shift are particularly evident in the works of many displaced filmmakers which often manifest a conflicted interaction between language and vision and through this question the signifying potential and the perceptual ambiguities of cinema itself In tracing the encounter between cinema and language loss across a wide range of films from Billy Wilder's Sunset Boulevard to Chantal Akerman's News from Home to Michael Haneke's Caché Mamula reevaluates the role of displacement in postwar Western film and makes an original contribution to film theory and philosophy based on a reconsideration of the place of language in our experience and understanding of cinema
