

The background of the book cover features a misty, atmospheric landscape. In the foreground, a row of dark evergreen trees is silhouetted against a lighter, hazy background. Behind the trees, a range of mountains is visible, with the peaks and ridges softened by a thick mist or fog. The sky is a pale, hazy blue, blending into the mist. The overall color palette is muted, with shades of blue, grey, and green, creating a sense of depth and mystery.

Tracing Southern Storytelling in Black and White Sarah Gilbreath Ford, 2014-10-15 Explores how both black and white southern writers such as Joel Chandler Harris Charles Chesnutt Zora Neale Hurston William Faulkner Eudora Welty Ralph Ellison Ellen Douglas and Ernest Gaines have employed oral storytelling in literature Tracing Southern Storytelling in Black and White is a study of the historical use of oral storytelling by southern writers in written works In each chapter Sarah Gilbreath Ford pairs a white and an African American writer to highlight points of confluence in black and white southern oral traditions She argues that the connections between white and African American southern writers run deeper than critics have yet explored and she uses textual comparisons to examine the racial mixing of oral culture On porches in kitchens and on the pages of their work black and white southerners exchanged not just stories but strategies for telling stories As a boy Joel Chandler Harris listened to the stories of African American slaves and he devised a framework to turn the oral stories into written ones Harris s use of the frame structure influenced how Charles Chesnutt recorded oral stories but it led Alice Walker to complain that her heritage had been stolen Mark Twain listened to African American storytellers as a child His use of oral dialects then impacts how Ralph Ellison and William Faulkner employ oral storytelling and how Toni Morrison later writes in response to Faulkner The interactions are not linear not a chain of influence but a network of interactions borrowings and revisions Ford s pairings lead to new readings that reveal how the writers employ similar strategies in their narratives due in part to shared historical context While Zora Neale Hurston and

William Faulkner for example use oral storytelling in the 1930s to examine the fear of racial mixing Ellen Douglas and Ernest Gaines use it in the 1970s to build bridges between the races Exploring the cultural crossing that occurs in the use of oral storytelling Ford offers a different view of this common strategy in southern narrative and a new perspective on how culture is shared

Storytelling for Social Justice Lee Anne Bell, 2019-08-28 Through accessible language and candid discussions Storytelling for Social Justice explores the stories we tell ourselves and each other about race and racism in our society Making sense of the racial constructions expressed through the language and images we encounter every day this book provides strategies for developing a more critical understanding of how racism operates culturally and institutionally in our society Using the arts in general and storytelling in particular the book examines ways to teach and learn about race by creating counter storytelling communities that can promote more critical and thoughtful dialogue about racism and the remedies necessary to dismantle it in our institutions and interactions Illustrated throughout with examples drawn from contemporary movements for change high school and college classrooms community building and professional development programs the book provides tools for examining racism as well as other issues of social justice For every facilitator and educator who has struggled with how to get the conversation on race going or who has suffered through silences and antagonism the innovative model presented in this book offers a practical and critical framework for thinking about and acting on stories about racism and other forms of injustice This new edition includes Social science examples in addition to the arts for elucidating the storytelling model Short essays by users that illustrate some of the ways the storytelling model has been used in teaching training community building and activism Updated examples references and resources MLA International Bibliography of Books and Articles on the Modern Languages and Literatures ,2007 On

Becoming a Racially Sensitive Therapist: Race and Clinical Practice Kenneth V. Hardy,2025-05-06 Transform your clinical practice by transforming yourself Claims of color blindness and the insistence that all clients are essentially the same have contributed to a dearth of knowledge and understanding regarding the delivery of racially sensitive treatment For many clinicians addressing issues of race in therapy mirrors the same discomfort that permeates most of our efforts to discuss it outside of treatment Yet providing racially sensitive therapy as well as possessing the clinical acumen to address complex issues of race and culture is vital to competent contemporary practice The volume is organized into three fundamental sections with contributions from mental health experts who have done the work to unlearn systemic biases about race and therapy The first section introduces the concept of a racially sensitive therapist and what it means to become one The second section focuses on cultural and racial storytelling to help uncover unknown parts of oneself and emphasizes racial self examination self interrogation and personal transformation And the final section transports the reader from seeing and being to doing with racially informed intervention methods A monumental undertaking this book is an essential step for healers and caregivers to reframe the therapy process for all clients Contributors include Lane Arye Vanessa Bing Toby Bobes Bonnie Cushing Elana Katz Niketa Kumar Sharon RC Lee Gloria Lopez Henriquez Yasmeen Rubidge and Virginia Seewaltd
