Topographies of Power in the Early Middle Ages Frans Theuws, Mayke B. de Jong, Carine Van Rhijn, 2001 Saint Maurice d'Agaune Gudme Vistula Francia Maastricht Aachen Gaul Cordoba From Classical Antiquity to the Middle Ages Bryan Ward-Perkins, 1987 The Afterlife of the Roman City Hendrik W. Dey, 2014-11-17 This book offers a new perspective on the evolution of cities across the Roman Empire in late antiquity and the early Middle Ages The Oxford Handbook of Early Christian Archaeology David K. Pettegrew, William Rodney Caraher, Thomas W. Davis, 2019 This handbook brings together work by leading scholars of the archaeology of early Christianity in the Mediterranean and surrounding regions The 34 essays to this volume ground the history culture and society of the first seven centuries of Christianity in the latest currents of archaeological method theory and research From Rome to Byzantium AD 363 to 565 A. D. Lee, 2013-01-15 Between the deaths of the Emperors Julian 363 and Justinian 565 the Roman Empire underwent momentous changes Most obviously control of the west was lost to barbarian groups during the fifth century and although parts were recovered by Justinian the empire's centre of gravity shifted irrevocably to the east with its focal point now the city of Constantinople Equally important was the increasing dominance of Christianity not only in religious life but also in politics society and culture Doug Lee charts these and other significant developments which contributed to the transformation of ancient Rome and its empire into Byzantium and the early medieval west By emphasising the resilience of the east during late antiquity and the continuing vitality of urban life and the economy this volume offers an alternative perspective to the traditional paradigm of decline and fall The Cambridge Companion to the Age of Justinian Michael Maas, 2005-04-18 This book introduces the Age of Justinian the last Roman century and the first flowering of Byzantine culture Dominated by the policies and personality of emperor Justinian I 527-565 this period of grand achievements and far reaching failures witnessed the transformation of the Mediterranean world In this volume twenty specialists explore the most important aspects of the age including the mechanics and theory of empire warfare urbanism and economy It also discusses the impact of the great plague the codification of Roman law and the many religious upheavals taking place at the time Consideration is given to imperial relations with the papacy northern barbarians the Persians and other eastern peoples shedding new light on a dramatic and highly significant historical period Rome and the Colonial City Sofia Greaves, Andrew Wallace-Hadrill, 2022-05-05 According to one narrative that received almost canonical status a century ago with Francis Haverfield the orthogonal grid was the most important development of ancient town planning embodying values of civilization in contrast to barbarism diffused in particular by hundreds of Roman colonial foundations and its main legacy to subsequent urban development was the model of the grid city spread across the New World in new colonial cities This book explores the shortcomings of that all too colonialist narrative and offers new perspectives It explores the ideals articulated both by ancient city founders and their modern successors it looks at new evidence for Roman colonial foundations to reassess their aims and it looks at the many ways post Roman urbanism looked back to the Roman model with a constant re appropriation of the idea of the Roman City, Citizen, Citizenship, 400-1500 Els Rose, Robert Flierman, Merel de Bruin-van de Beek, 2024-04-26 This open access book explores how medieval societies conversed about the city and citizen in texts visual imagery and material culture It adopts a long term interdisciplinary and cross cultural perspective bringing together contributions on the early high and later Middle Ages covering both the medieval East and West and representing a wide variety of disciplinary angles and sources The volume is first and foremost about medieval perceptions and their articulation in text image and material form The principal focus is not on cities or citizenship per se but on those who used such concepts wrote about them and visualized and depicted them At the same time the book seeks to address why the city remained such a salient concept also in non urban contexts the periphery the desert the monastery and how medieval thinking on the ideal city and civic community could involve denunciation of the earthly city and its institutional trappings It thus pushes scholarly boundaries but also seeks to escape deeply entrenched notions of citizenship as either a form of political participation or legal status

Cultivating the City in Early Medieval Italy Caroline Goodson, 2021-03-25 Food growing gardens first appeared in early medieval cities during a period of major social economic and political change in the Italian peninsula and they quickly took on a critical role in city life The popularity of urban gardens in the medieval city during this period has conventionally been understood as a sign of decline in the post Roman world signalling a move towards a subsistence economy Caroline Goodson challenges this interpretation demonstrating how urban gardens came to perform essential roles not only in the economy but also in cultural religious and political developments in the emerging early medieval world Observing changes in how people interacted with each other and their environments from the level of individual households to their neighbourhoods and the wider countryside Goodson draws on documentary archival and archaeological evidence to reveal how urban gardening reconfigured Roman ideas and economic structures into new medieval values

The Oxford Handbook Sport and Spectacle in the Ancient World Alison Futrell,Thomas F. Scanlon,2021-09-09 Sport and spectacle in the ancient world has become a vital area of broad new exploration over the last few decades This Handbook brings together the latest research on Greek and Roman manifestations of these pastimes to explore current approaches and open exciting new avenues of inquiry. It discusses historical perspectives, contest forms, contest-related texts, civic and social aspects, and use and meaning of the individual body. Greek and Roman topics are interwoven to simulate contest-like tensions and complementarities, juxtaposing for example violence in Greek athletics and Roman gladiatorial events, Greek and Roman chariot events, architectural frameworks for contests and games in the two cultures, and contrasting views of religion, bodily regimens, and judicial classification related to both cultures. It examines the social contexts of games, namely the evolution of sport and spectacle across cultural and political boundaries, and how games are adapted to multiple contexts and multiple purposes, reinforcing social hierarchies, performing shared values, and playing out deep cultural tensions. The volume also considers other directing forces in the ancient Mediterranean, such as Bronze Age Egypt and the Near East, Etruria, and early Christianity. It addresses important themes common to both antiquity and modern society, such as issues of class, gender, and health, as well as the popular culture of the modern Olympics and gladiators in cinema. With innovative perspectives from authoritative scholars on a wide range of topics, this Handbook will appeal to both students and researchers interested in ancient history, literature, sports, and games.

The Afterlife of Greek and Roman Sculpture Lea Stirling, Troels Myrup Kristensen, 2016-06-27. For centuries, statuary was a main characteristic of any city, sanctuary, or villa in the Roman world. However, from the third century CE onward, the prevalence of statues across the Roman Empire declined dramatically. By the end of the sixth century, statues were no longer a defining characteristic of the imperial landscape. Further, changing religious practices cast pagan sculpture in a threatening light. Statuary production ceased, and extant statuary was either harvested for use in construction or abandoned in place. The Afterlife of Greek and Roman Sculpture is the first volume to approach systematically the antique destruction and reuse of statuary, investigating key responses to statuary across most regions of the Roman world. The volume opens with a discussion of the complexity of the archaeological record and a preliminary chronology of the fate of statues across both the eastern and western imperial landscape. Contributors to the volume address questions of definition, identification, and interpretation for particular treatments of statuary, including metal statuary and the systematic reuse of villa materials. They consider factors such as earthquake damage, late antique views on civic versus private uses of art, urban construction, and deeper causes underlying the end of the statuary habit, including a new explanation for the decline of imperial portraiture. The themes explored resonate with contemporary concerns related to urban decline, as evident in post-industrial cities and the destruction of cultural heritage, such as in the Middle East.

Building the Body of Christ Daniel C. Cochran, 2020-11-17. In Building the Body of Christ, Daniel C. Cochran argues that monumental Christian art and architecture played a crucial role in the formation of individual and communal identities in late antique Italy. The ecclesiastical buildings and artistic programs that emerged during the fourth and fifth centuries not only reflected Christianity's changing status within the Roman Empire but also actively shaped those who used them. Emphasizing the importance of materiality and the body in early Christian thought and practice Cochran shows how bishops and their supporters employed the visual arts to present a Christian identity rooted in the sacred past but expressed in the present through church unity and episcopal authority He weaves together archaeological and textual evidence to contextualize case studies from Rome Aquileia and Ravenna showing how these sites responded to the diversity of early Christianity as expressed through private rituals and the imperial appropriation of the saints Cochran shows how these early ecclesiastical buildings and artistic programs worked in conjunction with the liturgy to persuade individuals to adopt alternative beliefs practices and values that contributed to the formation of institutional Christianity and the Christianization of late antique Italy

Christianity and the Rhetoric of Empire Averil Cameron, 1991 Many reasons can be given for the rise of Christianity in late antiquity and its flourishing in the medieval world In asking how Christianity succeeded in becoming the dominant ideology in the unpromising circumstances of the Roman Empire Averil Cameron turns to the development of Christian discourse over the first to sixth centuries A D investigating the discourse s essential characteristics its effects on existing forms of communication and its eventual preeminence Scholars of late antiquity and general readers interested in this crucial historical period will be intrigued by her exploration of these influential changes in modes of communication The emphasis that Christians placed on language writing talking and preaching made possible the formation of a powerful and indeed a totalizing discourse argues the author Christian discourse was sufficiently flexible to be used as a public and political instrument yet at the same time to be used to express private feelings and emotion Embracing the two opposing poles of logic and mystery it contributed powerfully to the gradual acceptance of Christianity and the faith s transformation from the enthusiasm of a small sect to an institutionalized world religion
