The Life and Death of a Rural American High School (1995) Deyoung Alan, 2017-12-22 Published in 1995, this book provides an account of a detailed research project focusing on a rural school in West Virginia. Researched from several social science perspectives, the book strives to capture intersections between biography and history in a particular public school, Burnsville High and Middle School in Braxton County, that has been influenced by social, political, and economic forces, eventually leading to its closure. The author also discusses how the example of this school can be applied within the framework of American public education and Western culture itself. Based on research from unstructured interviews, oral histories, historical records, and intermittent fieldwork that took place between 1989 and 1992, the book provides an in-depth look at a specific school, offering a basis for discussing rural schools in general. It challenges the idea that bigger schools are better and more efficient, schools in terms of the individual, the social life of the school, and the surrounding community, and considers the lack of scholarly accounts available on the issues, controversies, and social dynamics that surround these vital community matters.

Dependent on D.C. Charlotte A. Twight, 2015-11-03 Dependent on D.C. raises serious concerns about the future of liberty in America and proves beyond a doubt that the growth of dependence on government in the past seventy years has not been accidental; that its creation has been bipartisan and that it is accelerating. Twight shows how growing federal power, driven by legislation validated by Supreme Court decisions and accelerated by presidential ambition, has eroded the rule of law in our nation, leaving almost no activity that the central government cannot, at its discretion, regulate, manipulate, or prohibit. Dependent on D.C. shows why Americans have not resisted this expansion of federal power. In these uncertain times, Dependent on D.C. is the book Americans need to read when thinking about the future of their individual liberty.

Inside Stories Kathleen B. deMarrais, 2012-12-06 Although articles reporting research studies are helpful in acquainting students with methodological approaches, they often make the process look so straightforward, clean, and effortless. It is rare to find an article that tells the real story behind the finished product. By having real researchers tell their own stories of mucking around with methodological and ethical issues in qualitative research, we get a more realistic human story of the process. This is a collection of such stories. Authors were asked to describe their own experiences with methodological and ethical struggles as they engaged in their work Each of the essays offers insight into the research approach used as well as particular issues which became apparent during the research process Key issues raised by the authors include early learnings gaining entry overlapping conflicting roles and the boundaries of these roles differential power relationships who tells the story and whose story is told ethical concerns related to confidentiality and the influence of a researcher's particular philosophy or theoretical framework on his or her research Throughout the book we see scholars whose personal stories or autobiographies intersect closely with their research projects deMarrais introduces a unique framework to help students gain an overview of qualitative research methods and the underpinnings and processes in these approaches This framework is centered on the ways we understand phenomena using qualitative research approaches that engage archival knowledge narrative knowledge or observational knowledge Grand Plans Judith Sealander, 2021-12-14 Scholars may have widely differing views of the Progressive Era but all see business as holding the key to the reforms of that period In this new book Judith Sealander amplifies our understanding of the relationship between business leaders and reform through a detailed examination of Dayton and the Miami Valley of Ohio She focuses specifically on four progressive projects that made this nine county region nationally known as a center for reform activism The four projects include an extensive program of employee benefits instituted at the National Cash Register Company the creation in the Miami Conservancy District of a massive flood prevention system the institution of a new businesslike city manager government in Dayton and a new experimental approach to education in the region's public and private schools Well grounded in the scholarly literature on progressivism and drawing from a rich trove of local manuscript sources Judith Sealander has provided an integrated analysis of the role of business leadership in these four reform areas that corrects the exaggerated treatment business has often received She shows how this one group of businessmen functioned as reformers the grand plans they had for changing society their merger of scientific engineering business management and moral fervor and the benefits and costs of their kind of progressivism Grand Plans contributes new insights into the Progressive Era and will interest scholars of that period as well as historians of American business urban affairs and reform Making Sense of Modernity Paul Edward Gottfried, Making Sense of Modernity The Foundations of Contemporary American Education Erwin V.
