University Professor and Professor of History Emeritus at Brown University What fuels a familys compulsion for philanthropy Self interest A feeling of guilt A sense of genuine altruism Charitable giving is such an intrinsic part of American culture that its story deserves to be told not in a dry academic tome but through the tale of a colorful multifaceted family Since 1638 the Browns of Rhode Island have provided community leaders in one of the nations most idiosyncratic states In the 18th century they excelled at maritime commerce were pioneers of the American industrial revolution and adorned their hometown of Providence with public buildings churches and a university In the 19th century they pioneered the modern notion that universities can be forces for social good And in the 20th century they sought to transform the human experience through great art and architecture Over three hundred years the Browns also wrestled with societys toughest issues slavery immigration child labor the dispossessed and with their own internal family tensions Author Sylvia Brown tells the story of the ten generations of Browns that came before her with warmth and lucidity Today in an era of wealth creation and philanthropic innovation not seen since the Gilded Age Grappling with Legacy provides fascinating insights into a unique aspect of Americas heritage Race and Racism in Nineteenth-Century Art Naurice Frank Woods Jr., 2021-06-28 Painters Robert Duncanson ca 1821 1872 and Edward Bannister 1828 1901 and sculptor Mary Edmonia Lewis ca 1844 1907 each became accomplished African American artists But as emerging art makers of color during the antebellum period they experienced numerous incidents of racism that severely hampered their pursuits of a profession that many in the mainstream considered the highest form of social cultivation Despite barriers imposed upon them due to their racial inheritance these artists shared a common cause in demanding acceptance alongside their white contemporaries as capable painters and sculptors on local regional and international levels Author Naurice Frank Woods Jr provides an in depth examination of the strategies deployed by Duncanson Bannister and Lewis that enabled them not only to overcome prevailing race and gender inequality but also to achieve a measure of success that eventually placed them in the top rank of nineteenth century American art Unfortunately the racism that hampered these three artists throughout their careers ultimately denied them their rightful place as significant contributors to the development of American art Dominant art historians and art critics excluded them in their accounts of the period In this volume Woods restores their artistic legacies and redeems their memories introducing these significant artists to rightful new audiences American Paintings and Sculpture at the Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute Margaret C. Conrads, Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute, 1990 A catalog of the American art in the collection includes work by John Singer Sargent Winslow Homer Mary Cassatt Frederick Remington and others The Rockefeller Collection of American Art at the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco, Marc Simpson, Patricia A.
