The ^ACrisis of Authority in Catholic Modernity Michael J. Lacey, Francis Oakley, 2011-04-06 It is fairly clear that while Rome continues to teach as if its authority were unchanged from the days before Vatican II 1962-65 the majority of Catholics within the first world church at least take a far more independent line and increasingly understand themselves rather than the church as the final arbiter of decision making especially on ethical questions This collection of essays explores the historical background and present ecclesial situation explaining the dramatic shift in attitude on the part of contemporary Catholics in the U S and Europe

Integrating Work in Theological Education Kathleen A. Cahalan, Edward Foley, Gordon S. Mikoski, 2017-03-09 If only we could do a better job of helping students at connecting the dots theological educators commonly lament Integration often proposed as a solution to the woes of professional education for ministry would help students integrate knowledge skills spirituality and integrity When these remain disconnected incompetence ensues and the cost runs high for churches denominations and ministers themselves However we fail in thinking that integrating work is for students alone It is a multifaceted constructive process of learning that is contextual reflective and dialogical It aims toward important ends competent leaders who can guide Christian communities today It entails rhythms not stages and dynamic movement including disintegration Integrating work is learning in motion across domains and among and between persons It is social and communal born of a life of learning together for faculty staff administrators and students It is work that bridges the long standing gaps between school ministry practice and life It s a verb not a noun Here a diverse group of theological educators through descriptive case studies theological reflection and theory building offer a distinctive contribution to understanding integrating work and how best to achieve it across three domains in community curriculums and courses

Democratizing Biblical Studies Elisabeth Schüssler Fiorenza, 2009-01-01 Schüssler Fiorenza addresses such questions as What are the educational practices and procedures that are advocated by traditional educational models and how can they be changed What kinds of educational and communicative practices do biblical studies need to develop in order to fashion an emancipatory democratizing rhetorical space and a forum of many voices To envision articulate debate and practice a radical democratic ethos of biblical studies she identifies emerging didactic models that can foster such a radical democratic style of learning Pbk cover

Making Connections Marilyn Naidoo, 2021-11-19 Because of the disconnect within the curriculum and the lack of contextual relevance African theological education is still searching for appropriate approaches to ministerial training Integrative theological education refers to systematic attempts to connect major learning experiences appropriate to the education and formation of ministers. It is seen as a solution to connect and transform ministry training. The main premise of this book is that the key to enhancing theological education is the intentional integration of knowing with being and doing of theory with practice and of theology with life and ministry. In this way all aspects of student learning are brought together holistically highlighting an educational strategy that is concerned with connections in human experience thereby supporting student learning. Making Connections offers the opportunity to consider integration as an appropriate pedagogical approach to create the correct balance in making education more meaningful and fulfilling for the African revealing humanising education grounded in African philosophy and worldview.

Collaborative Parish Leadership William A. Clark, Daniel Gast, 2016-12-27 These essays explore team based parish leadership theologically sociologically and pastorally in a variety of cultures and circumstances. The result is an extended conversation both practical and deeply reflective emerging from the collaboration of theologians social researchers organizational development specialists and pastoral ministers. Collaborative Parish Leadership draws on the experience strengths challenges and insights of the long term pastoral academic partnerships out of which it has grown. These include Project INSPIRE a pastoral team formation project sponsored by Loyola University and the Archdiocese of Chicago and funded by the Lilly Endowment Inc as part of its Sustaining Pastoral Excellence initiative. Another partner initiative is the international pastoral minister exchange Crossing Over involving several Catholic dioceses in northwest Germany and based at Ruhr University Bochum. Authors of these essays have also been involved in Emerging Models of Pastoral Leadership the Congregational Studies Team's Engaged Scholars fellowship both also Lilly Endowment funded projects and other projects. Collaborative Parish Leadership employs practical theological methods rooted in pastoral experience and integrated with scholarly reflection. Opening essays deal with the current situation of U.S. parishes the parish consultancy model of Project INSPIRE and a case study of several parishes that benefited from the project. The following chapters present comparative case studies of collaborative leadership in various settings multicultural parishes in different parts of the U.S. parish clusters consolidating into single parishes using very different processes and parishes in Chicago and Mexico City meeting similar urban challenges. Three authors associated with Crossing Over and its participating dioceses assess the general state of parish reorganization in Germany and the potential of the unique approach to team leadership taken in the French archdiocese of Poitiers. The final chapters reflect on the theology of parish leadership from pastoral and systematic perspectives and on the future needs and possibilities of collaborative approaches. Overall Collaborative Parish Leadership engages and challenges academic and pastoral leaders in diverse social and ecclesial situations suggests multiple models for cultivating collaboration builds connections between collaborative action and theological development.

Piety and Plurality Glenn Thomas Miller, 2014-06-09 I began studying American theological education in the 1970s and Piety and Plurality is the third of three studies. In Piety and Intellect I examined the colonial and nineteenth century search for a form of theological education that was true to the church's confessional traditions and responsible to the intellectual demands of the age. In Piety and Profession I described how that model was modified under the impact of the new biblical criticism and by the American belief in professionalism. In this volume I have tried to bring the story up to date. Unfortunately I did not find one unifying theme for the period. Rather, theological education seemed to move forward on a number of different levels, each with its own story. Here I have tried to capture some of the dynamics of this movement and to indicate how theological educators have struggled with the plurality in their midst. In the process, theological education has learned to live with its contradictions and problems. As important as the stories are, however, there is also the story of the schools' struggles to live in the midst of a constant financial crisis that checked development at every stage.

The Ministry Answer Book for Pastors Gary L. McIntosh, 2025-08-05. No matter what your education, no amount of schooling can prepare a pastor for a so-called typical day of ministry. Pastors are teachers, counselors, evangelists, and cheerleaders. They are a shoulder to cry on and a listening ear. They're CEOs and janitors. Sometimes all in a 24-hour period. And somewhere in the midst of all that, there's a sermon to prepare. Where is a busy pastor to turn for help when a new situation or problem arises? The Ministry Answer Book for Pastors is your quick reference guide to almost everything you need to know to lead your church. Organized in an easy-to-navigate Q & A format, this must-have resource from trusted church consultant and author Gary L. McIntosh is destined to be your well-worn dog-eared go-to guide for when you run into an unforeseen or unfamiliar problem, including decision making, starting and leaving a ministry, weddings, funerals, and hospital visitation, outreach, training, budgeting, working with a church board, holding effective meetings, recruiting, and delegating staff, development, discipleship, and much more.

Revitalizing Practice Malcolm L. Warford, 2008. Revitalizing Practice is designed to help theological faculties engage a common set of challenges, particularly in the areas of diversity, formation, and institutional identity. These are not technical problems but are instead the very stuff out of which teaching and learning are practiced. Yet addressing such issues requires intentional strategies and collaborative work. Revitalizing Practice offers four such intentional strategies: A New Ecology Model, An Improvisational Model, An Appreciative Inquiry Model, and A World Caf  Model. Each of these models provides a thorough and practical framework based on sound theoretical concepts designed to help faculties revitalize their practices of theological teaching and learning.

Religious Life and Priesthood Maryanne Confoy, 2008. Religious Life and Priesthood reclaims the vision of Vatican II for contemporary priests, religious, and ecclesial ministers. The book examines the historical context, the key players, and the implementation of Vatican II documents on the priesthood, the training of priests, and the religious life.

BOOK JACKET Religious Leadership Sharon Henderson Callahan, 2013-06-20. This title tackles issues relevant to leadership in the realm of religion. It explores such themes as the contexts in which religious leaders move, leadership in communities of faith, leadership as taught in theological education and training, religious leadership impacting social change and social justice, and more. Topics are examined from multiple perspectives, traditions, and faiths.
