including learning from experience adult learning for self development race and culture in adult learning technology and distance learning learning in the workplace adult education for community action and development and much more Much more than a catalogue of theory and historical facts this handbook strongly reflects the values of adult educators and instructors who are dedicated to promoting social and educational opportunity for learners and to sustaining fair and ethical practices

Handbook for Achieving Gender Equity Through Education Susan S. Klein, Barbara Richardson, Dolores A. Grayson, Lynn H. Fox, Cheris Kramarae, Diane S. Pollard, Carol Anne Dwyer, 2014-05-22 First published in 1985 the Handbook for Achieving Gender Equity Through Education quickly established itself as the essential reference work concerning gender equity in education This new expanded edition provides a 20 year retrospective of the field one that has the great advantage of documenting U S national data on the gains and losses in the efforts to advance gender equality through policies such as Title IX the landmark federal law prohibiting sex discrimination in education equity programs and research Key features include Expertise Like its predecessor over 200 expert authors and reviewers provide accurate consensus research based information on the nature of gender equity challenges and what is needed to meet them at all levels of education Content Area Focus The analysis of gender equity within specific curriculum areas has been expanded from 6 to 10 chapters including mathematics science and engineering Global Diversity Focus Global gender equity is addressed in a separate chapter as well as in numerous other chapters The expanded section on gender equity strategies for diverse populations contains seven chapters on African Americans Latina os Asian and Pacific Island Americans American Indians gifted students students with disabilities and lesbian gay bisexual and transgender students Action Oriented All chapters contain practical recommendations for making education activities and outcomes more gender equitable A final chapter consolidates individual chapter recommendations for educators policymakers and researchers to achieve gender equity in and through education New Material Expanded from 25 to 31 chapters this new edition includes more emphasis on male gender equity and on sexuality issues special within population gender equity challenges race ability and disability etc coeducation and single sex education increased use of rigorous research strategies such as meta analysis showing more sex similarities and fewer sex differences and of evaluations of implementation programs technology and gender equity is now treated in three chapters women s and gender studies communication skills relating to English bilingual and foreign language learning and history and implementation of Title IX and other federal and state policies Since there is so much misleading information about gender equity and education this Handbook will be essential for anyone who wants accurate research based information on controversial gender equity issues journalists policy makers teachers Title IX coordinators equity trainers women s and gender study faculty students and parents

The International Handbook of Educational Research in the Asia-Pacific Region J.P. Keeves, Ryo Watanabe, 2013-11-11 The aim of the Handbook is to present readily accessible but scholarly sources of information about educational research in the Asia Pacific region The scale and scope of the Handbook is such that the articles included in it provide substantive contributions to knowledge and understanding of education in the Asia region. In so doing the articles present the problems and issues facing education in the region and the findings of research conducted within the region that contribute to the resolution of these problems and issues. Moreover, since new problems and issues are constantly arising, the articles in the Handbook also indicate the likely directions of future developments. The different articles within the Handbook seek to conceptualize the problems in each specific content area under review, provide an integration of the research conducted within that area, the theoretical basis of the research, the practical implications of the research, and the contribution of the research towards the resolution of the problems identified. Thus the articles do not involve the reporting of newly conducted research but rather require a synthesis of the research undertaken in a particular area, with reference to the research methods employed and the theoretical frameworks on which the research is based. In general, the articles do not advocate a single point of view but rather present alternative points of view and comment on the debate and disagreements associated with the conduct and findings of the research. Furthermore, it should be noted that the Handbook is not concerned with research methodology and only considers the methods employed in inquiry in so far as the particular methods of research contribute to the effective investigation of problems and issues that have arisen in the conduct and provision of education at different levels within the region.

Computers in the Delivery of Special Education and Related Services Louis J. Kruger, 2001-02-27

Use computer technology to complement and strengthen your special education program. This book provides practical information, case examples, theory, and a critical summary of applied research about how computer technology can be used to support and improve special education and related services. With Computers in the Delivery of Special Education and Related Services, you will learn how technology can be used to facilitate an individualized and collaborative approach to learning. Topics of discussion include innovative instruction, consultation, family collaboration, curriculum-based assessment, and professional development. Computers in the Delivery of Special Education and Related Services is a valuable resource in which special services providers can find ways to use computers to enhance individualized instruction and the problem-solving skills of their students, as well as avenues of professional collaboration and support. Computers in the Delivery of Special Education and Related Services presents thoughtful discussions that examine how computer software can be used in the assessment of students' progress within specific curricula, how students can use the Internet to discuss class projects with experts in a process known as telementoring, how software can help a school-based consultation team through specific aspects of the problem-solving process, including data collection, intervention selection, team decision documentation, and follow-up ways to use the Internet to create new types of learning communities for students and professionals, extending Vygotsky's notion of zone of proximal development (ZPD) to the community level, the advantages and disadvantages of using email with the intention of complementing and strengthening face-to-face collaboration, the aspects of home computer use that address a student's special needs the importance of understanding the family's values, expectations and cultural background. Computers in the Delivery of Special Education and Related Services reflects the editors' hope that creative applications of technology will soon transcend the nagging stereotypes of computers: they isolate students, they're too difficult to use, that they lack the flexibility to treat people as individuals. Then computers will be viewed as partners in the process of special education machines that enhance current practices and open new vistas for learning and education.

Design, Utilization, and Analysis of Simulations and Game-Based Educational Worlds Ferdig, Richard E., 2013-05-31 Games and simulations have emerged as new and effective tools for educational learning by providing interactivity and integration with online resources that are typically unavailable with traditional educational resources. Design, Utilization and Analysis of Simulations and Game-Based Educational Worlds presents developments and evaluations of games and computer-mediated simulations in order to showcase a better understanding of the role of electronic games in multiple studies. This book is useful for researchers, practitioners and policymakers to gain a deeper comprehension of the relationship between research and practice of electronic gaming and simulations in the educational environment.

Cumulated Index Medicus, 1998 Web-Based Control and Robotics Education Spyros G. Tzafestas, 2009-07-31 For the things we have to learn before we can do them, we learn by doing them. Aristotle. Teaching should be such that what is offered is perceived as a valuable gift and not as a hard duty. Albert Einstein. The second most important job in the world, second only to being a good parent, is being a good teacher. S. G. Ellis. The fast technological changes and the resulting shifts of market conditions require the development and use of educational methodologies and opportunities with moderate economic demands. Currently, there is an increasing number of educational institutes that respond to this challenge through the creation and adoption of distance education programs in which the teachers and students are separated by physical distance. It has been verified in many cases that with the proper methods and tools, teaching and learning at a distance can be as effective as traditional face-to-face instruction. Today, distance education is primarily performed through the Internet, which is the biggest and most powerful computer network of the World and the World Wide Web (WWW), which is an effective front end to the Internet and allows the Internet users to uniformly access a large repertory of resources: text, data, images, sound, video, etc., available on the Internet.

Singapore Politics Under the People's Action Party Diane K. Mauzy, R. S. Milne, 2002-09-11 A comprehensive overview of politics in Singapore since self-governance. The authors examine how this tiny island has developed into a global financial centre and an economic and social success under the leadership of the People's Action Party, which has ruled continuously since 1959. The authors explore the nature of the Singaporean government as well as major issues such as ethnicity, human rights and the development of civil society.
