

Ways forward in higher education

Adjust financing schemes for the poor to benefit. Examine and tackle social determinants, such as income, that limit households to low-cost and low-quality higher education. Free tuition may help, but educational grants beyond tuition should also be prioritized to motivate the poorest household members to pursue higher education.

Promote the complementary relationship between private and public school education. Private and public schools both have something to offer. Harness their strengths to diversify options for pursuing education.

Improve education inputs. Promote voluntary accreditation. Encourage more HEIs to become recognized centers for excellence. Address low teacher qualifications.

Develop a research culture and build a functional innovation system. There must be enabling policies that encourage technological developments and network-building among HEIs. This system should also actively link students to the scientific community and market innovations.

Learn from the pandemic. Leverage technology to support learning. This includes ensuring availability, affordability, and meaningful access. Regularly produce and study granular data to uncover barriers to pursuing and implementing quality higher education.

The Unification of German Education Val D. Rust, Diane Rust, 2018-05-03 Originally published in 1995 This study of the integration of East and West German education following the collapse of the German Democratic Republic in 1989 focuses on policy formation and implementation during this period of great social and political turbulence It is the result of a research project undertaken shortly after the unification The authors lived in East Germany for a full year looking carefully at individual schools vocational training centers teacher colleges and universities The book considers questions of how education policy is successfully formulated conditions in which that policy is implemented and the consequences of the implemented educational reform The first chapters present the context and history of German education and the later chapters discuss the unification and the formation of the new school laws and the successes and failures The authors research shows that even before the unification East Germans had already opted for a system consistent with West German education law However the West Germans disregarded these changes and imposed their own version of reform on East Germany The German situation at this time is of great interest to all educators particularly students of educational policy making as well as researchers in political science economics and sociology

Processes of Transition in Education Systems Elizabeth A. McLeish, David Phillips, 1998-01-01 This volume is concerned with the stages or processes through which education systems pass in countries which are moving from authoritarian styles of government to various styles of democracy The authors have been concerned to identify common features that might be observable in systems which are on the surface at least very diverse those of Latvia South Africa and the former German Democratic Republic The authors postulate a model which might be applicable both to the countries with which they are principally concerned and to other countries in similar or comparable states of transition

Cross-national Attraction in Education Hubert Ertl, 2006-05-15 The comparison and borrowing of national policies is a widespread phenomenon in all major policy areas In education the PISA study has resulted in a renewed interest in cross national comparison and reception of policies In particular the unexpectedly low results of Germany in the PISA study have sparked increased interest in educational policies and practice elsewhere The chapters cover a wide variety of educational sectors vocational education and training preparation for career choice citizenship education secondary and higher education teacher training and language learning policy These chapters are framed by more general accounts of the influence of foreign educational reform on national reform agendas and the German reaction to the results of the PISA study This book provides insights into educational policy formation and implementation of policies into educational practice in England and Germany from a comparative perspective and is aimed at academics students policy makers and the wider public with an interest in the latest developments in the long standing mutual interest in educational matters in the two countries

Roots of Civic Identity Miranda Yates, James Youniss, 1999 Miranda Yates and James Youniss have brought together an international collection of essays that describe the state of community participation among the world's youth. Authors from around the globe use empirical data to present portraits of youth constructing their civic identities through such means as community service. Youth seek to resolve ideological tensions such as in Northern Ireland and Palestine to overcome corrupting political practices such as in Italy and Taiwan to deal with disillusionment such as in Palestine and the emerging Eastern European nations and to bridge barriers against youth's meaningful participation in the working of society such as in Canada and Japan. Special conditions such as the diminution of the welfare state for instance in former West Germany and the rapid turn towards democracy in former East Germany offer insight into the process through which youth try to establish meaningful person-state relationships.
