Deaf Students in Postsecondary Education Susan B. Foster, Gerard G. Walter, 2018-09-03 First published in 1992 With an ever increasing number of deaf students entering higher education throughout the world major strides need to be made in provision and support for them This book recognises that the integration of deaf students into mainstream higher education raises complex and challenging problems It has proved extremely difficult for deaf students to enter fully into the social and extra curricular fabric of campus life an essential factor in ensuring student success The authors provide an assessment of state of the art practice in postsecondary settings and suggest theoretical and practical approaches to providing support There is discussion of the attainments of deaf graduates with commentaries by deaf persons about their experiences in college In addition statistics support the theoretical contentions and clearly demonstrate the benefits of postsecondary education to deaf people

Psychological Aspects of Physical Disability James F. Garrett, 1952 As workers in the field of rehabilitation we are realizing more and more that we do not rehabilitate people Rather we must be able to reach the heart and mind of the individual with whom we are dealing so he will want to avail himself of the services our program can provide for him His drive to accomplish his own rehabilitation must come from within himself and we must be sensitive too in the factors that can help or hinder establishing this indispensable primary base for rehabilitation Increasingly we are learning that human motivation is influenced by many things Especially important are the psychological and social factors of an individual s life These factors are important to consider early in our planning for the whole program of rehabilitation for the individual and in the evaluation of each step of its development This bulletin was written primarily for vocational rehabilitation counselors It is expected that it will assist them in planning better rehabilitation programs The need for awareness of the psychological adjustment mechanisms of the physically disabled is not confined to the counselor however and it is hoped that physicians social workers psychologists and placement specialists may profit from the contents of this publication The cooperation and coordination of the various specialties is the most important element today in providing rehabilitation services for the disabled whereby they may take their rightful place as contributing members of society The interest and cooperation of the authors and the organizations many of them represent is a practical demonstration of the vital nature of the material presented herein We are aware of the fact that successful rehabilitation programs depend on integrated community activity and in a sense this bulletin epitomizes that approach Foreword Educational Audiology Handbook, Fourth Edition
