A Follow-up Study of Head Wounds in World War II Arthur Earl Walker, Seymour Jablon, 1961 A Follow-up study of head wounds in World War II Arthur Earl Walker, 1961 The Medical Follow-up Agency Edward D. Berkowitz, Mark J. Santangelo, Institute of Medicine, 1999-08-24 The Medical Follow up Agency is a national treasure for veterans and for long term studies of health Its data resources provide incomparable opportunities to follow very important populations and to ask creative questions about their well being as well as the occurrence and significance of illness The Twin Registry provides an opportunity to understand the impact of heredity on health and disease in a population of more than 16 000 pairs of twins i e 32 000 veterans The Medical Follow up Agency is a living tribute to the vision energy and effectiveness of Michael E DeBakey M D Dr DeBakey created the idea for the agency obtained the appropriate approvals staffed its initial creation and 50 years later spoke on the occasion of its golden anniversary This sequence of events must be unique in the history of veterans health and medical research Improving the Presumptive Disability Decision-Making Process for Veterans Institute of Medicine, Board on Military and Veterans Health, Committee on Evaluation of the Presumptive Disability Decision-Making Process for Veterans, 2008-06-15 The United States has long recognized and honored the service and sacrifices of its military and veterans Veterans who have been injured by their service whether their injury appears during service or afterwards are owed appropriate health care and disability compensation For some medical conditions that develop after military service the scientific information needed to connect the health conditions to the circumstances of service may be incomplete When information is incomplete Congress or the Department of Veterans Affairs VA may need to make a presumption of service connection so that a group of veterans can be appropriately compensated The missing information may be about the specific exposures of the veterans or there may be incomplete scientific evidence as to whether an exposure during service causes the health condition of concern For example when the exposures of military personnel in Vietnam to Agent Orange could not be clearly documented a presumption was established that all those who set foot on Vietnam soil were exposed to Agent Orange The Institute of Medicine IOM Committee was charged with reviewing and describing how presumptions have been made in the past and if needed to make recommendations for an improved scientific framework that could be used in the future for determining if a presumption should be made The Committee was asked to consider and describe the processes of all participants in the current presumptive disability decision making process for veterans The Committee was not asked to offer an opinion about past presumptive decisions or to suggest specific future presumptions The Committee heard from a range of groups that figure into this decision making process including past and present staffers from Congress the VA the IOM veterans service organizations and individual veterans The Department of Defense DoD briefed the Committee about its current activities and plans to better track the exposures and health conditions of military personnel The Committee further documented the current process by developing case studies around exposures

and health conditions for which presumptions had been made Improving the Presumptive Disability Decision Making Process for Veterans explains recommendations made by the committee general methods by which scientists as well as government and other organizations evaluate scientific evidence in order to determine if a specific exposure causes a health condition
