Roberts, David T. Wasserman, 2009-07-31 Melinda A Roberts and David T Wasserman 1 Purpose of this Collection What are our obligations with respect to persons who have not yet and may not ever come into existence Few of us believe that we can wrong those whom we leave out of existence altogether that is merely possible persons We may think as well that the directive to be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth 1 does not hold up to close scrutiny How can it be wrong to decline to bring ever more people into existence At the same time we think we are clearly obligated to treat future persons persons who don't yet but will exist in accordance with certain stringent standards Bringing a person into an existence that is truly awful not worth having can be wrong and so can bringing a person into an existence that is worth having when we had the alternative of bringing that same person into an existence that is substantially better We may think as well that our obligations with respect to future persons are triggered well before the point at which those persons commence their existence We think it would be wrong for example to choose today to turn the Earth of the future into a miserable place even if the victims of that choice do not yet exist The Army Alumni Survey

Peter F. Ramsberger, 1995 Collaborative Governance for Urban Revitalization Michael J. Rich, Robert P.

Stoker, 2014-05-29 For more than one hundred years governments have grappled with the complex problem of how to revitalize distressed urban areas In 1995 the original urban Empowerment Zones Atlanta Baltimore Chicago Detroit New York and Philadelphia each received a 100 million federal block grant and access to a variety of market oriented policy tools to support the implementation of a ten year strategic plan to increase economic opportunities and promote sustainable community development in high poverty neighborhoods In Collaborative Governance for Urban Revitalization Michael J. Rich and Robert P. Stoker confront the puzzle of why the outcomes achieved by the original Empowerment Zones varied so widely given that each city had the same set of federal policy tools and resources and comparable neighborhood characteristics The authors analysis based on more than ten years of field research in Atlanta and Baltimore and extensive empirical analysis of EZ processes and outcomes in all six cities shows that revitalization outcomes are best explained by the quality of local governance Good local governance makes positive contributions to revitalization efforts while poor local governance retards progress While policy design and contextual factors are important how cities craft and carry out their strategies are critical determinants of successful revitalization Rich and Stoker find that good governance is often founded on public private cooperation a stance that argues against both the strongest critics of neoliberalism who see private enterprise as dangerous in principle and the strongest opponents of liberalism who would like to reduce the role of government The Benefit of
