Going Global How Europe Helps Small Firms Export:

Going Global William E. Nothdurft,1992 The globalization of markets and the prospect of a Single European Market by the end of 1992 in particular have heightened European attention to the export challenge and has spawned an intriguing array of export assistance services designed to help even the smallest business become a global competitor Some of these initiatives are new and relatively untested while others are well established and time tested The most interesting among them deal with exporting not as an end in itself but as part of a package of internationally development initiatives In the struggle to become more internationally competitive and to increase exporting among its small and medium sized businesses the United States has much to learn form its European trading partners Going Global explores the principles that underlie European programs to help small and medium sized firms export and presents practical policy oriented guidance for creating high yield export assistance programs in the United States in tough economic times Going Global William E.

In Western Europe: A Contextual Perspective Leo-paul Dana,2017-09-18 Entrepreneurship in Western Europe A Contextual Perspective looks to explain how different local cultural and historical contexts can yield radically different entrepreneurial scenarios in a heterogenous Europe Over 20 countries are examined providing a comprehensive history of the evolution of entrepreneurship across western Europe The book concludes with a look at the future implications of current policies on entrepreneurship and of symbiosis in western Europe Richly illustrated this book is perfect for undergraduate students or anyone with an interest in the business practices economics or public policy of Europe Rescaling

International Political Economy Darel E. Paul,2024-11-01 A major trend in recent years in political and economic geography has been the increasingly sophisticated use of the concept of scale Rescaling International Political Economy sits squarely in geographical debates regarding scale and globalization but Darel Paul does it within the framework of international political economy. In particular, he argues for the importance of subnational states and localities in creating globalization and focuses on regions in North America. Alongside his arguments about scalar transformations, Paul looks at how the processes serve transnational capital and how they work to construct the transnational capitalist class which currently rules the globe. His regulationist approach stresses how the centrality of state institutions in managing the global economy will revolutionize how we think about globalization.

Beyond Foreign Economic Policy Brian Hocking, Michael Smith, 1997-01-01. Investigates the ways in which the US responded to the European Community's Single Market Program launched in the 1980s, arguing that foreign economic policy is the product of interests and actions expressed by a wide range of groups and at many different levels. Analyzes changes faced by the US in the world political economy of the 1990s and details the process by which Congress, state governments, and US executives and firms responded to the Single Market Program, looking especially at issues of public procurement and standards testing and certification. Entrepreneurship And Smes In The Euro-zone: Towards A Theory Of Symbiotic Entrepreneurship Leo-paul Dana, 2006-05-30. The European Charter for Small Enterprises recognises that small firms are the backbone of the European economy. Yet books on the topic are few. An author requires courage to cover such a large set of different views, perceptions, and realities about entrepreneurship, even within the limited area of the Euro zone. Leo Paul Dana, with a track record in researching and writing about entrepreneurship, puts together an ambitious comparison of 12 European countries, an introduction with geographic, demographic, and historical overviews, a focus on the economy, entrepreneurship, and small business sector, and a view on the future. It serves as a valuable overview of self-employment in the Euro zone, as well as a guide to entrepreneurship.

Effective and Efficient Organisations? Iris A. Hauswirth, 2007-05-22 This book develops a conceptual framework for the relationship between organisation and output and applies it to the analysis of German and British export support services These findings help to explain why one organisation may be different from another but equally effective and efficient and why no panacea for effective and efficient organisation has been found They also suggest angles from which existing organisations and blueprints of better organisations can be examined

Marketing Places Philip Kotler, 2002-01-15 Today s headlines report cities going bankrupt states running large deficits and nations stuck in high debt and stagnation Philip Kotler Donald Haider and Irving Rein argue that thousands of places cities states and nations are in crisis and can no longer rely on national industrial policies such as federal matching funds as a promise of jobs and protection When trouble strikes places resort to various palliatives such as chasing grants from state or federal sources bidding for smokestack industries or building convention centers and exotic attractions The authors show instead that places must like any market driven business become attractive products by improving their industrial base and communicating their special qualities more effectively to their target markets From studies of cities and nations throughout the world Kotler Haider and Rein offer a systematic analysis of why so many places have fallen on hard times and make recommendations on what can be done to revitalize a place s economy They show how place wars battles for Japanese factories government projects Olympic Games baseball team franchises convention business and other economic prizes are often misguided and end in wasted money and effort The hidden key to vigorous economic development the authors argue is strategic marketing of places by rebuilding infrastructure creating a skilled labor force stimulating local business entrepreneurship and expansion developing strong public private partnerships identifying and attracting place compatible companies and industries creating distinctive local attractions building a service friendly culture and promoting these advantages effectively Strategic marketing of places requires a deep understanding of how place buyers tourists new residents factories corporate headquarters investors make their place decisions With this understanding place sellers economic development agencies tourist promotion agencies mayor s offices can take the necessary steps to compete aggressively for place buyers This straightforward guide for effectively marketing places will be the framework for economic development in the 1990s and beyond
