Georgetown Southeast Asia Survey 20032004:

Georgetown Southeast Asia Survey ,2004 US Security Engagement with Southeast Asia during the Clinton and Bush Pham Cao Cuong,2025-02-01 This book examines Southeast Asia s role in US security policy toward the region during the Bill Clinton and George W Bush administrations It delves into the US security approach toward regional institutions like ASEAN and the ARF and hones in on specific ASEAN member states including the Philippines Thailand Singapore Indonesia and Malaysia as well as the interaction between the US and these countries regarding security Despite Southeast Asia not being a primary priority in US foreign policy since the end of the Cold War the region has consistently held significance in Washington s security strategy Given the goal of establishing a New Pacific Community it is critical for the United States to ensure a peaceful and stable Southeast Asia thereby avoiding the emergence of any potential future rivals to the United States To effectively implement the Clinton Doctrine s security pillar the United States has taken measures such as providing military aid and increasing military activities with ASEAN member countries During President George W Bush s administration Southeast Asia gained increased significance for the United States economically and geostrategically Since September 11 2001 Southeast Asia has emerged as a crucial player in the US security strategy The US recognises the region as a second front in its global war on terrorism Furthermore the US has been actively enhancing its ties with ASEAN and the ARF while prioritising the development of bilateral relations with crucial ASEAN member countries including the Philippines Thailand Singapore Indonesia and Malaysia Looking ahead the United States aims to ensure that no potential competitors arise in the region that could challenge its future dominance When examining the dynamics between the US and Southeast Asia it becomes evident that the influence of China has consistently been significant During the 1990s and 2000s China played an important role in shaping US security policy in the region and influencing the relationship between the US and ASEAN member countries The rise of China s economic and military power compelled the United States to shift its regional policy towards cooperation and competition to increase its interests in Southeast Asia Meanwhile the US security relationship with each ASEAN member country has many nuances depending on each country s role and interests towards the US To provide readers with a comprehensive perspective and enhance their understanding of US security policy towards the Southeast Asia region particularly in light of the growing emphasis on the Indo Pacific region with Southeast Asia at its core we would like to introduce the book US Security Engagement with Southeast Asia during the Clinton and Bush Administrations authored by Pham Cao Cuong This research comprehensively analyses the relationship between the United States and Southeast Asia It is included in the research work catalogue on US President Bill Clinton It can be found at the William J Clinton Library and Museum in the Clinton Presidential Park and Centre Little Rock Arkansas Furthermore this research work on terrorism is included in the Bibliography Terrorism by Region Southeast Asia compiled and selected by the Terrorism Research Initiative Terrorism Research Centre TRC The book highlights the importance of studying the history of

US security policy towards Southeast Asia and the security relations between the US and ASEAN member countries Research on the security relations between the US and this region indicates that historical issues significantly impact the US relations with the area The foundations that the US has established in Southeast Asia play a crucial role in shaping these relations Georgetown Southeast Asia Survey 2004-2005, 2005 Asia-Pacific Economic Update, 2005

International Pressures, Strategic Preference, and Myanmar's China Policy since 1988 Nian Peng, 2020-09-08 This book mainly explored the driving forces and evolvement of Myanmar's China policy since 1988 by adopting a neo classical realist approach an emerging theoretical paradigm aiming at analyzing state's foreign behaviour by connecting systemic and unit variables which refers to external environments and domestic restraints respectively It is the first book that seeks to give a theoretical explanation of Myanmar's diplomacy thereby bridging the gap from basic research to the deep one with theories It also introduced the concept of strategic preference and argued that the competing strategic preference that the Burmese leaders have namely integration and isolation determines Myanmar's responses to China in the Post Cold War era which not only demonstrates the neo classical realism as an useful instrument of looking into state's foreign policy and deepens the understanding on Myanmar China relations The main content of this book is divided into seven parts in which the first chapter introduces the background the present study on Myanmar's China policy and China's Myanmar policy the analytical framework and the arrangement of the content Chapter 2 focuses on the roots and changes of Myanmar's competing strategic preference as well as its influences on Myanmar's foreign policy The following four chapters examine the international pressures and benefits imposed by systemic imperatives and Burmese leaders specific strategic preference since 1988 and investigate Myanmar's policy towards China in different periods Finally it provides a comprehensive conclusion that outlines and reviews the origins and evolution of Myanmar's China policy and predicts its future directions This book is suitable for the graduates and experts who are interested in international relations the Asian studies and neo classical realism in particular and Myanmar politics and foreign relations as well as China's relation with neighboring countries Obstacles to Democratization in Southeast Asia E. Paul, 2010-04-09 Paul comprehensively analyzes the meaning of democratization in Southeast Asia's nation states and how it relates to the development of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN In doing so he questions the viability of ASEAN and its potential to move towards a common market and community Institutional Balancing in the Asia Pacific Kai He, 2009 This book examines the strategic interactions among China the United States Japan and Southeast Asian States in the context of China's rise and globalization after the cold war Engaging the mainstream theoretical debates in international relations the author introduces a new theoretical framework institutional realism to explain the institutionalization of world politics in the Asia Pacific after the cold war Institutional realism suggests that deepening economic interdependence creates a condition under which states are more likely to conduct a new balancing strategy institutional balancing i.e. countering pressures or threats through initiating utilizing and dominating multilateral institutions to pursue security under anarchy To test the validity of institutional realism Kai He examines the foreign policies of the U S Japan the ASEAN states and China toward four major multilateral institutions Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation APEC the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN Regional Forum ARF ASEAN Plus Three APT and East Asian Summit EAS Challenging the popular pessimistic view regarding China's rise the book concludes that economic interdependence and structural constraints may well soften the dragon's teeth China's rise does not mean a dark future for the region Institutional Balancing in the Asia Pacific will be of great interest to policy makers and scholars of Asian security international relations Chinese foreign policy and U S foreign policy Contemporary Southeast Asia, 2005 Indonesia and the United States Bronson Percival, 2005 The Copenhagen Journal of Asian Studies, 2007 China's International Relations in Asia: China and Asian regional multilateralism Mingjiang Li, 2010 This new Major Work is fully indexed and includes a comprehensive index newly written by the editor which places the collected material in its historical and intellectual context It is destined to be valued by scholars students and researchers 王明江, 2007

China's Rise Robert G. Sutter, 2006 Executive Summary Foreign policy makers in the United States should not be misled by prevailing media and scholarly assessments that exaggerate China's influence in Asia relative to that of the United States In particular it would be a mistake for the Bush administration to give in to recent congressional media and interest group pressures that employ overstated assessments of China's increasing power in order to push for tough U S government policies to confront and compete with China This study shows that overt U S competition with China for influence is unwelcome in Asia counterproductive for U S interests in the region and unwarranted given the limited challenge posed by China's rise Prevailing assessments and commentaries about China's rise in Asia are unbalanced emphasizing China's strengths and the United States weaknesses With few exceptions they give inadequate attention to Chinese weaknesses and U S strengths This study demonstrates that China's recent success in Asia rests heavily on a fairly narrow foundation that is generally adroit Chinese diplomacy and intra Asian trade that is less significant than the reported figures of annual trade between China and its neighbors would suggest China's willingness and ability to lead in Asia is undermined notably by many domestic preoccupations nationalistic ambitions at odds with Asian neighbors and economic complications posed by China's rise as many countries in Asia are left further behind Moreover Chinese leaders and officials continue to follow policies that do not require either China or its neighboring countries to make significant changes sacrifices or commitments for one another that they would not ordinarily make Thus China's Asian approach focuses on easy things the low hanging fruit and avoids costly commitments or major risk By contrast U S leadership in Asia though challenged by unpopular policies in Southwest Asia and Korea along with insufficient attention in dealing with Asian governments remains strong in undertaking responsibilities and providing needed security and economic benefits to Asian states The United States continues to show influence in Asia in concrete ways notably by influencing Asian governments to do things they would not be inclined to do Predictions of an emerging order in Asia led by a rising China that will marginalize the United States illustrate how far many of the predominate unbalanced media and scholarly assessments have gone. They reflect a poor understanding of the ambitions of Asian governments, the resilience of U.S. power and leadership, and the actual status of China's influence relative to that of the United States in Asian states around China's periphery. To some extent, a rising China that generally accommodates its neighbors benefits from the fluid post-Cold War Asian order as various Asian governments seek to broaden international options with various powers in a continuing round of hedging and maneuvering for advantage. But as China rises in influence in Asia, this study shows that these same neighboring governments hedge and maneuver against possible Chinese dominance. In this process, they quietly seek closer ties with one another and particularly with the region's dominant power, the United States. America's advantages in this situation are strong. The United States has a proven record of being able and willing to commit significant resources and prestige to protect allies and friends. The United States is very powerful, a superpower, but it is far away from Asia and has none of the territorial and few of the other ambitions that characterize Asian powers. Thus, it is less distrusted by Asian governments in comparison with how these governments view one another, including China. As a result, most Asian governments, including China, and all the major powers in Asia give higher priority to relations with the United States than to relations with any power in Asia. In addition to being Asia's economic partner of choice and acknowledged security guarantor, the United States has a leadership position in Asia that rests on a determined U.S. administration prepared to confront adversaries and opponents. This position gives pause to Asian governments seeking to challenge or displace the United States. The analysis in this monograph demonstrates that even hard-line Chinese critics of U.S. hegemony in Asian and world affairs have been compelled in recent years to adopt a low posture in dealings with the United States, choosing to wait as China builds comprehensive national power over the coming decades. Chinese leaders are often frustrated by U.S. policies and power and desirous over the long term to see their periphery free of constricting U.S. great power involvement. However, they show little sign of deviating from efforts to expand influence in selected ways that tend to avoid directly challenging the United States. Thus, for the most part, China's rise in Asia does not come at the expense of U.S. interests and is not a part of a zero-sum game resulting in the automatic decline of U.S. influence. To enhance its position in Asia, Washington should focus on repairing negative features of recent U.S. policy in Asia related to the fallout of its actions in Iraq, the Middle East, and Korea. U.S. unilateralism in international politics and inattentiveness to the concerns of Asian governments over economic development, nation building, and multilateral cooperation. This recommendation requires adjustments, not a wholesale revamping of U.S. policies. Backed by continued careful management of U.S. security commitments and economic relations with regional governments, they will enhance the leading role of the United States in Asian affairs. The prevailing tendency of Asian governments to hedge in the post-Cold War environment seems likely to continue to pose challenges for U.S. management of alliance and other relations with Asian governments seeking more independence and freedom of action inclining some to seek closer ties with China among others Policymakers in the United States should not overreact to such maneuvers recognizing that such hedging continues to provide a prominent role for the United States as the region's well recognized security stabilizer and economic partner of choice In particular Chinese government leaders found that their overt efforts in the late 1990s to compel Asian governments to choose between a rising China and the United States failed in the face of Asian governments long unwillingness to do so The government should learn from this experience in seeking to advance its leadership in Asia without the overt competition with China that would try to force Asian governments to make such a choice probably with negative implications for U S leadership in Asia II
