Bowman,Kristin Hoganson,Laura Hooton,Josh MacFadyen,Todd Meyers,Peter S Morris,Andrew Dunlop,Alicia Marion Dewey,John Weber,Sonia Hernández,Rosa E Cobos,Matt Caire-Pérez,Paige Raibmon,Jason McCollom,Thomas D Isern,Suzanne Kelley,Anthony Carlson,Stephen Mumme,Tisa Anders,2017-12-01 Farming across Borders uses agricultural history to connect the regional experiences of the American West northern Mexico western Canada and the North American side of the Pacific Rim now writ large into a broad history of the North American West Case studies of commodity production and distribution trans border agricultural labor and environmental change unite to reveal new perspectives on a historiography traditionally limited to a regional approach Sterling Evans has curated nineteen essays to explore the contours of big agricultural history Crops and commodities discussed include wheat cattle citrus pecans chiles tomatoes sugar beets hops henequen and more Toiling over such crops of course were the people of the North American West and as such the contributing authors investigate the role of agricultural labor from braceros and Hutterites to women working in the sorghum fields and countless other groups in between As Evans concludes society as a whole no matter in what country often ignores the role of agriculture in the past and the present Farming across Borders takes an important step toward cultivating awareness and understanding of the agricultural economic and environmental connections that loom over the North American West regardless of lines on a map In the words of one essay we are tied together in a hundred different ways

The Evolution of Technology George Basalla,1989-02-24 This book presents an evolutionary theory of technological change based upon recent scholarship in the history of technology and upon relevant material drawn from economic history and anthropology It challenges the popular notion that technology advances by the efforts of a few heroic individuals who produce a series of revolutionary inventions owing little or nothing to the technological past Therefore the book s argument is shaped by analogies taken selectively from the theory of organic evolution and not from the theory and practice of political revolution Three themes appear and reappear with variations throughout the study The first is diversity an acknowledgment of the vast numbers of different kinds of made things artifacts that have long been available to humanity the second is necessity the belief that humans are driven to invent new artifacts in order to meet basic biological requirements such as food shelter and defense and the third is technological evolution an organic analogy that explains both the emergence of novel artifacts and their subsequent selection by society for incorporation into its material life without invoking either biological necessity or technological progress Although the book is not intended to provide a strict chronological account of the development of technology historical examples including many of the major achievements of Western technology the waterwheel the printing press the steam engine automobiles and trucks and the transistor are used extensively to support its theoretical framework The Evolution of Technology will be of interest to all readers seeking to learn how and why technology

Ewen, 2003-04-16 How can you ensure that you are learning everything your artifacts have to teach you Charles Ewen explores a variety of methods and techniques used to prepare protect and analyze artifacts once they are in the lab In brief user friendly sections he outlines the basic principles of identification classification quantification data manipulation and analysis Students will find that Ewen's suggestions point out fruitful areas of analysis yet do not dictate the researcher's approach Examples drawn from 16th century Spanish sites in the Americas introduce students to the hows and whys of archaeological lab work

Bound in Twine Sterling D. Evans, 2013-01-14 Before the invention of the combine the binder was an essential harvesting implement that cut grain and bound the stalks in bundles tied with twine that could then be hand gathered into shocks for threshing Hundreds of thousands of farmers across the United States and Canada relied on binders and the twine required for the machine's operation Implement manufacturers discovered that the best binder twine was made from henequen and sisal spiny fibrous plants native to the Yucatán Peninsula of Mexico The double dependency that subsequently developed between Mexico and the Great Plains of the United States and Canada affected the agriculture ecology and economy of all three nations in ways that have historically been little understood These interlocking dependencies identified by author Sterling Evans as the henequen wheat complex initiated or furthered major ecological social and political changes in each of these agricultural regions Drawing on extensive archival work as well as the existing secondary literature Evans has woven an intricate story that will change our understanding of the complex transnational history of the North American continent Research in Mechanical Farm Equipment United States.
