Pathways to High-Tech Valleys and Research Triangles Willem Hulsink, J. J. M. Dons, 2008-05-23 About the book The contents of most of the chapters included in this volume were originally presented and discussed during the academic workshop High tech Valleys and Research Triangles in the East of the Netherlands and elsewhere held on 30 November and 1 December 2005 at the Wageningen International Congress Centre WICC in the Netherlands At that time we had an informal agreement with Rob Bogers series editor of the Wageningen UR Frontis book series that if the quality and quantity of the talks and papers at the seminar would be sufficient and if there was willingness among the potential authors an edited book volume based upon the results of the workshop would be a possibility After the workshop when we had a critical mass of ten chapters and a dedicated group of committed authors the book project was given the green light As editors we realized that there were still a couple of topics and themes missing and when we had found colleagues for these four additional chapters that needed to be written our Frontis book was on the roll Although most of the time it was great fun the whole process of writing reviewing rewriting editing and proofreading took a lot of time much more time than we originally had foreseen We would like to thank all authors of the fourteen chapters of this book for their excellent contributions

Socio-economic importance of ecosystem services in the Nordic Countries, 2012

Invasive and Introduced Plants and Animals Ian D. Rotherham, Robert A. Lambert, 2012-12-06 There have been many well publicized cases of invasive species of plants and animals often introduced unintentionally but sometimes on purpose causing widespread ecological havoc Examples of such alien invasions include pernicious weeds such as Japanese knotweed an introduced garden ornamental which can grow through concrete the water hyacinth which has choked tropical waterways and many introduced animals which have out competed and displaced local fauna This book addresses the broader context of invasive and exotic species in terms of the perceived threats and environmental concerns which surround alien species and ecological invasions As a result of unprecedented scales of environmental change combined with rapid globalisation the mixing of cultures and diversity and fears over biosecurity and bioterrorism the known impacts of particular invasions have been catastrophic However as several chapters show reactions to some exotic species and the justifications for interventions in certain situations including biological control by introduced natural enemies rest uncomfortably with social reactions to ethnic cleansing and persecution perpetrated across the globe The role of democracy in deciding and determining environmental policy is another emerging issue In an increasingly multicultural society this raises huge questions of ethics and choice At the same time in order to redress major ecological losses the science of reintroduction of native species has also come to the fore and is widely accepted by many in nature conservation However with questions of where and when and with what species or even species analogues reintroductions are acceptable the topic is hotly debated Again it is shown that many decisions are based on values and perceptions rather than objective science Including a wide range of case studies from around the world his book raises critical issues to stimulate a much wider debate
