and distinct issues that challenge urban landscape architecture and cities in the 21st century Nanjing: Historical Landscape and Its Planning from Geographical Perspective Yifeng Yao, 2016-07-15 This book studies the historical changes of the cityscape of Nanjing from the point of view of geographical systems Nanjing is a city located along the Yangtze River originated 2500 years ago after which ten dynasties established their capital dependent on the geographical conditions The book focuses on the analysis of the characteristics of mountain and river systems in the various historical periods and provides investigations of historical sites along with these systems This enables the search for the laws of historical evolution and spatial structure changes which is also the research of the relationship between man and nature It extends the traditional preservation and cityscapes planning to that of geographical landscape system Readers working in the area of geography history urban and landscape planning will benefit from it Key Topics in Landscape Ecology Jianguo Wu, Richard J. Hobbs, 2007-03-29 Landscape ecology is a relatively new area of study which aims to understand the pattern of interaction of biological and cultural communities within a landscape This book brings together leading figures from the field to provide an up to date survey of recent advances identify key research problems and suggest a future direction for development and expansion of knowledge Providing in depth reviews of the principles and methods for understanding landscape patterns and changes the book illustrates concepts with examples of innovative applications from different parts of the world Forming a current state of the science for the science of landscape ecology this book forms an essential reference for graduate students academics professionals and practitioners in ecology environmental science natural resource management and landscape planning and design Visualization in Landscape and Environmental Planning Ian Bishop, Eckart Lange, 2005-05-10 An overview of issues involved in visualization technologies used in landscape and environmental planning Covers a classification of the technology as well as a number of specialized applications across agricultural industrial and urban planning Landscape Planning with Ecosystem Services Christina von Haaren, Andrew A. Lovett, Christian Albert, 2019-06-25 Human well being depends in many ways on maintaining the stock of natural resources which deliver the services from which human s benefit However these resources and flows of services are increasingly threatened by unsustainable and competing land uses Particular threats exist to those public goods whose values are not well represented in markets or whose deterioration will only affect future generations As market forces alone are not sufficient effective means for local and regional planning are needed in order to safeguard scarce natural resources coordinate land uses and create sustainable landscape structures This book argues that a solution to such challenges in Europe can be found by merging the landscape planning tradition with ecosystem services concepts Landscape planning has strengths in recognition of public benefits and implementation mechanisms while the ecosystem services approach makes the connection between the status of natural assets and human well being more explicit It can also provide an economic perspective focused on individual preferences and benefits which helps validate the acceptability of environmental planning goals Thus linking landscape planning and ecosystem services provides a two way benefit creating a usable science to meet the needs of local and regional decision making The book is structured around the Driving forces Pressures States Impacts Responses framework providing an introduction to relevant concepts methodologies and techniques It presents a new ecosystem services informed approach to landscape planning that constitutes both a framework and toolbox for students and practitioners to address the environmental and landscape challenges of 21st century Europe

New Lives, New Landscapes Revisited Linda M. Ross,Katrina Navickas,Ben Anderson,Matthew Kelly,2023-06-08 How did rural Britain become modern during the twentieth century New Lives New Landscapes examines how the development of modern infrastructure in Britain transformed both its landscapes and the lives of those who lived within them Shifting the focus away from the city the narrative challenges us to rethink what we mean by modern Britain Nature, Place & People: Forging Connections Through Neighbourhood Landscape Design Puay-yok Tan,Kuei-hsien Liao,Yun Hye Hwang,Vincent Chua,2018-04-23 Neighbourhood landscapes are the quintessential forms of urban landscapes in most cities worldwide. They are pervasive and hence experienced by the large majority of urban dwellers in their everyday life. More than parks, nature reserves or nature areas which are visited as destinations, neighbourhood landscapes provide the most immediate, frequent and convenient form of nature experienced by urban dwellers on a daily basis. They are also valuable as social spaces to bring residents together, foster social ties and strengthen communities. Despite their importance, surprisingly little has been written to guide the planning and design of neighbourhood landscapes. This book is written for a specific purpose to illustrate how the design of neighbourhood landscapes helps to deliver more benefits for urban dwellers and at the same time protect ecosystems that facilitate human well-being. This is in turn important as the synergistic relationships between human well-being, quality of biophysical urban environment and health of human environment interactions fundamentally underpin urban sustainability. The authors emphasize the role neighbourhood landscapes play in forging connections between people and nature, people and people, and people and place. Most of all, the book highlights the role of focusing on people in this endeavour as it is only when landscapes are appropriately designed and when people recognize these benefits that they become valued and protected as a community resource. This book is organized into two parts. Part 1 focuses on the conceptual foundations that underpin the neighbourhood landscape design guidelines being developed. In this section, the authors describe the key concepts, relating functions of neighbourhood landscapes to the key urban development goals of sustainability, liveability and resilience, how they can be represented in a framework and how a synthesis of current knowledge of cities as socio-ecological systems helps to identify principles that can guide the designing of neighbourhood landscapes. Part 2 is more application-focused and is centred on neighbourhood landscape design guidelines inspired by the concept of ecosystem services. The guidelines consist of design approaches, practical strategies, design targets and performance monitoring indicators for tracking the performance of neighbourhood landscapes. The book is written for readers in academia and design practice and anyone who has a role in shaping neighbourhood landscapes for the benefit of urban dwellers.

The Cultural Landscape & Heritage Paradox Tom Bloemers, Henk Kars, Arnold Van der Valk, 2010. The basic problem is to what extent we can know past and mainly invisible landscapes and how we can use this still hidden knowledge for actual sustainable management of landscapes' cultural and historical values. It has also been acknowledged that heritage management is increasingly about the management of future change rather than simply protection. This presents us with a paradox: to preserve our historic environment we have to collaborate with those who wish to transform it and in order to apply our expert knowledge we have to make it suitable for policy and society. The answer presented by the Protection and Development of the Dutch Archaeological Historical Landscape programme (pdL bbo) is an integrative landscape approach which applies inter- and transdisciplinarity, establishing links between archaeological/historical heritage and planning and between research and policy.
