studies of the enzyme Glycerophosphodiesterase GpdQ from Enterobacter aerogenes. It also examines the properties of small mimics of this enzyme and related binuclear metallohydrolases such as the metallo lactamases to enhance our understanding of hydrolytic cleavage of important substrates like phosphoesters and lactams. Overall this project has led to a better understanding of the metal ion binding and active site structural features of the enzyme GpdQ. Daumann describes how she successfully immobilized phosphoesterase and related biomimetics on solid supports for potential applications in the area of bioremediation of organophosphate pesticides. Analysis shows that both the enzyme and biomimetics can be stored on the solid support without loss of activity. Furthermore the author spectroscopically and mechanistically characterized a number of Zn II Cd II and Co II complexes some of which are among the most active biomimetics towards organophosphates reported to date. This thesis makes excellent reading for non specialists because each chapter includes a short introduction section.

Picnic Comma Lightning: The Experience of Reality in the Twenty-First Century Laurence Scott, 2019-05-28. A stylish playful exploration of what digital life is doing to the way we find meaning in the world. Guardian In Vladimir Nabokov's Lolita Humbert Humbert offers a memorably brief account of his parents' death picnic lightning. Picnic Comma Lightning too opens with death that of Laurence Scott's mother because for a philosopher death raises a profound existential question. How do we know what is real especially when we have come to question the reality of so many of our day to day experiences. Writing from the intersection of philosophy politics and memoir Scott transforms his personal meditation on loss into a beguiling exploration of what it means to exist in the world today. It used to be that our lives were rooted in reasonably solid things to people places and memories. Now in an age of online personas alternative truths constant surveillance and an increasingly hysterical news cycle our realities are becoming flimsier and more vulnerable than ever before. Scott's far ranging examination charts the ways our traditional mental models of the world have started to fray. He ponders how ubiquitous cameras reframe our private lives an event only exists once someone posts the video how mysterious algorithms undermine our attempts at self definition through their own data driven portraits and what happens in those moments when our illusions about reality are ruptured by incontrovertible facts like the death of a parent or a bolt of lightning. A report from the front line of the online generation. Sunday Times Picnic Comma Lightning is an essential account of how we've started to make sense of our strange new world.
