Currier,2008-11 FARM ACCOUNTING BY E L CURRIER PROFESSOR OF FARM MANAGEMENT STATE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE AND MECHANIC ARTS BOZEMAN MONTANA N J LENNES PROFESSOR OF MATHEMATICS STATE UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA MISSOULA MONTANA A S MERRILL PROFESSOR OF MATHEMATICS STATE UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA MISSOULA MONTANA Neftog THE MACMILLAN COMPANY 1924 all rights reserved COPYRIGHT 1924 BY THE MACMILLAN COMPANY Set up and electrotyped Published April 1924 Norwood Mass U S A PREFACE Importance of Farm Accounts IT is recognized by students of farm management that one of the most important steps that can now be taken in the advancement of farming is a more general adoption of the practice of keeping farm accounts An effective study of the problems involved in running a farm is possible only when the student is in possession of a fairly complete set of accounts for this particular farm The farmer must know not only what crops and what animals are most profitable for his type of farm but he must know also whether his farming business is so managed that each operation is conducted at a comparatively small cost and whether his various enterprises are producing satisfactory results Correcting errors in farm management such as are revealed by a good set of cost accounts may very easily result in increasing the net yearly income from the farm by several hundred dollars A progressive farmer in Chautauqua County New York reports that the best thing that has happened to him in his experience as a farmer was the imposition of the Federal Income Tax which compelled him to keep farm accounts since these enabled him to increase the returns from his farm by several times the amount of the tax There is no doubt that a few minutes each day certainly less than ten spent in entering the necessary daily records and a few days at the end of the year spent in posting the accounts and studying the information they contain would yield the average farmer a much larger return than he now gets for the same amount of time occupied in ordinary farm work VI PREFACE Importance of Farm Accounting as a School Study Every winter a small army of county agents and of extension

workers from the agricultural colleges are engaged in teaching groups of farmers how to keep accounts In many cases bankers whose business depends in part on the prosperity of the farmers have joined in this work It must be confessed that the net results have been meager The time that a busy farmer can spend learning to keep accounts even in the comparatively slack winter season is too short his attention is too fully occupied with his usual work and frequently he has arrived at an age and acquired a state of mind which are not conducive to the learning of a new and fairly complicated subject This need not cause surprise nor be the occasion for discouragement An attempt to teach any of the standard subjects now studied in our high schools under such conditions would certainly meet with no greater success It would seem fairly safe to conclude that farm accounting can come into general practice only as the result of its adoption as a regular school subject To reach the largest possible number of our future farmers it should be placed at the earliest point in the curriculum that is permitted by the maturity of the student This would seem to be in the earlier years of the high school for farm accounting is certainly not more difficult than the average subject studied in this period Moreover every farmer needs to keep a complete set of accounts This is in striking contrast to the need for commercial accounting on the part of those who enter some business other than farming Only a small portion of these have practical use for a knowledge of general accounting In any fairly large business the accounting work is split up into simple operations each of which can be learned in a very short time
