

Earth Day

Earth Day was one of the biggest events ever in the planet. In April 21, Earth Day is about saying for the Earth and asking everyone about how to do it. People do more, this holiday isn't just a day. It's a movement! People come together to do activities like picking up litter and planting trees.

The first Earth Day was celebrated in 1970. It was organized by Senator James Earl Ray, who worked with an activist named Denis Hayes, who organized people from the Hayes went on to organize many more meetings, and Earth Day became an important to millions. In fact, the first Earth Day saw 20 million Americans participate in demonstrations to raise awareness of the impact of industrial development.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency was created at the end of 1970, inspired by Earth Day. The day started in the environmental laws like the National Environmental Education Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, and the Clean Air Act. Two years later, the Clean Water Act was passed.

The 40th anniversary of Earth Day was in 2010, and the movement is still going strong. People continue to participate by recycling, planting trees, picking up trash, or spreading the word on how to help the Earth.
