Learning Together Online Starr Roxanne Hiltz, Ricki Goldman, 2004-09-22 This book addresses the past and future of research on the effectiveness of asynchronous learning networks courses in which students and teachers learn together online via the Internet An integrated theoretical framework called Online Interaction Lea Virtual Society? Steve Woolgar, 2002-09-26 Almost all aspects of social cultural economic and political life stand to be affected by the new electronic technologies Virtual Society is one vision of the consequential impact of these technologies But to what extent and in what ways are the Internet and other electronic technologies really changing our lives To what extent are we moving to a virtual society This collection provides a comprehensive set of detailed empirical studies of the genesis and use of these new technologies ranging widely across application areas from cyber caf s to new media email and organizational memory to surveillance capable technologies in the workplace virtual reality to CCTV in high rise housing stock exchange addicts to student study networks It offers a unique perspective analytic scepticism for making sense of some surprisingly counterintuitive results and for developing a refreshingly critical view of many taken for granted assumptions about the impact of the Internet on social relations and institutions Each chapter presents a high quality exemplar of its own disciplinary perspective addressed to a general social science audience The diversity of disciplinary perspectives is brought to bear in a central message laid out in the opening discussion of the Five Rules of Virtuality that with due reflexive caution and ironic sensitivity general messages can be drawn from the observations of particular substantive contexts In particular claims that we are moving to a virtual society need to be tempered by a reassessment of connections between what counts as real and virtual This book will appeal to students and researchers in a very wide range of disciplines both within and beyond the social sciences and management and to all practitioners struggling with the realities of the new virtual technologies

Assessing for Learning Peggy L. Maki, 2023-07-03 While there is consensus that institutions need to represent their educational effectiveness through documentation of student learning the higher education community is divided between those who support national standardized tests to compare institutions educational effectiveness and those who believe that valid assessment of student achievement is based on assessing the work that students produce along and at the end of their educational journeys This book espouses the latter philosophy what Peggy Maki sees as an integrated and authentic approach to providing evidence of student learning based on the work that students produce along the chronology of their learning She believes that assessment needs to be humanized as opposed to standardized to take into account the demographics of institutions as students do not all start at the same place in their learning Students also need the tools to assess their own progress In addition to updating and expanding the contents of her first edition to reflect changes in assessment practices and developments over the last seven years such as the development of technology enabled assessment methods and the national need for institutions to demonstrate that they are using results to improve student learning Maki focuses on ways to deepen program and institution level assessment within the context of collective inquiry about student learning Recognizing that assessment is not initially a linear start up process or even necessarily sequential and recognizing that institutions develop processes appropriate for their mission and culture this book does not take a prescriptive or formulaic approach to building this commitment What it does present is a framework with examples of processes and strategies to assist faculty staff administrators and campus leaders to develop a sustainable and shared core institutional process that deepens inquiry into what and how students learn to identify and improve patterns of weakness that inhibit learning This book is designed to assist colleges and universities build a sustainable commitment to assessing student learning at both the institution and program levels It provides the tools for collective inquiry among faculty staff administrators and students to develop evidence of students abilities to integrate apply and transfer learning as well as to construct their own meaning Each chapter also concludes with 1 an Additional Resources section that includes references to meta sites with further resources so users can pursue particular issues in greater depth and detail and 2 worksheets guides and exercises designed to build collaborative ownership of assessment The second edition now covers Strategies to connect students to an institution s or a program s assessment commitment Description of the components of a comprehensive institutional commitment that engages the institution educators and students all as learners Expanded coverage of direct and indirect assessment methods including technology enabled methods that engage students in the process New case studies and campus examples covering undergraduate graduate education and the co curriculum New chapter with case studies that presents a framework for a backward designed problem based assessment process anchored in answering open ended research or study questions that lead to improving pedagogy and educational practices Integration of developments across professional scholarly and accrediting bodies and disciplinary organizations Descriptions and illustrations of assessment management systems Additional examples exercises guides and worksheets that align with new content

Fear of a Hip-Hop Planet D. Marvin Jones, 2013-04-01 Is Gangsta Rap just black noise Or does it play the same role for urban youth that CNN plays in mainstream America This provocative set of essays tells us how Gangsta Rap is a creative report about an urban crisis our new American dilemma and why we need to listen Increasingly police politicians and late night talk show hosts portray today s inner cities as violent crime ridden war zones The same moral panic that once focused on blacks in general has now been refocused on urban spaces and the black men who live there especially those wearing saggy pants and hoodies The media always spotlights the crime and violence but rarely gives airtime to the conditions that produced these problems The dominant narrative holds that the cause of the violence is the pathology of ghetto culture Hip hop music is at the center of this conversation When 16 year old Chicago youth Derrion Albert was brutally killed by gang members many blamed rap music Thus hip hop music has been demonized not merely as black noise but as a root cause of crime and violence Fear of a Hip Hop Planet America s New Dilemma explores and demystifies the politics in which the gulf between the inner city and suburbia have come to signify not only a socio economic dividing line but a new socio cultural divide as well

A Case Study of the Implementation Process of Web-based Distance Education Programs in Zhongshan University, China Hongyi Lan,2007 The Translational Design of Universities ,2019-08-12 Whilst schools are transforming their physical and virtual environments at a relatively glacial pace in most countries across the globe universities are under extreme pressure to adapt to the rapid emergence of the virtual campus Competition for students by online course providers is resulting in a rapidly emerging understanding of what the nature of the traditional campus will look like in the 21st century The blended virtual and physical technology enabled hybrid learning environments now integrate the face to face and online virtual experience synchronously and asynchronously Local branch campuses are emerging in city and town centres and international branch campuses are growing at a rapid rate There is increasing pressure at various levels i e the city the urban and the campus to create formal and informal learning spaces as well as re purposing the library and social or third spaces Many new hybrid campus developments are not based on any form of rigorous scholarly evidence The risk is that many of these projects may fail In taking an evidence based approach this book seeks to align with the model of translational research from medical practice using a modified translational design approach The majority of the chapter material comes from the scholarly work of doctoral graduates and their dissertations This book is the second in a series on the evidence based translational design of educational institutions with the first volume focussing on schools This volume on Higher Education covers the city to the classroom and those elements in between It also explores what the future might look like as judgements are made about what works in campus planning and design in our rapidly changing virtual and physical worlds Contributors are Neda Abbasi Ronald Beckers Flavia Curvelo Magdaniel Mollie Dollinger Robert A Ellis Kenn Fisher Barry J Fraser Kobi Jacov Haina Rifca Hashimshony Leah Irving Marian Mahat Saadia Majeed Jacqueline Pizzuti Ashby Leanne Rose Munro Mahmoud Reza Saghaifi Panayiotis Skordi Alejandra Torres Landa Lopez and Ji Yu

Proceedings ,2003 Vocational Identity and Career Construction in Education Fidan, Tuncer,2018-12-14 Over the years careers have transformed to be flexible and changing rather than stable life long commitments to an organization As such making work meaningful controlling the work environment and taking the opportunity to get required training for the next job are as important as the financial advantages Educators careers cannot be isolated from the rest of the labor market and these developments are expected to influence the career decisions of educators Vocational Identity and Career Construction in Education uses career construction theory to investigate objective factors influencing career choices and paths of educators including factors influencing vocational personality development career counseling activities transition from school to work adaptation to different work environments and meaning of work for educators Featuring research on topics such as diagnosing career barriers person environment fit and workforce adaptability this book is designed for educational administrators human resources theorists students studying career related subjects and practitioners working in managerial positions in private and public educational organizations Technology, Learning, & Community (TLC) Mark D.
